

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Thursday, September 29, 1910

No. 1

Foot Ball Season Opens

Lebanon Valley Loses First Game to Indians

On Wednesday, Sept. 21, our Varsity football team played its initial game of the season at Carlisle, having the strong Indian team as its opponent. Quite a large delegation of students cheered the squad as they boarded the morning train for Carlisle.

The Red-skins outweighed our team by at least fifteen pounds to the man, but regardless of this fact, our plucky little team fearlessly charged their opponents when the opening whistle blew. Lebanon Valley kicked off, and the Indians received the ball on their 35-yard line. Owing to the lack of our defensive work, the Indians did most of the scoring in the first quarter. L. V. held the ball for several downs in each quarter, and when the game ended they had the ball on the Indians' 15-yard line, with the score 53-0 in the Indians' favor.

Coach Glenn Warner of the Indians said in regards to our boys, "This is the best team you ever sent down from Lebanon Valley. You played a pluckier game than I thought you would, and under the new rules, 53-0 is a better score than 35-0 last year."

At present coach Forrest of Lancaster, assisted by Prof. Wanner, is putting the team thru a hard daily scrimage, in preparation for the Swarthmore game on Saturday.

Bequests to Lebanon Valley.

Dr. Daniel Eberly Leaves Several Large Gifts

By the will of the late Daniel Eberly, of Hanover, Pa., Lebanon Valley College receives the income from his valuable farms, and the residue of his estate after other bequests shall have been paid.

The larger farm was in fact willed to the College by the late Mr. Bittinger, father-in-law of Dr. Eberly, subject to the life interest of the latter.

This is a large farm valued at forty thousand dollars, the income of which is to be applied to the salary of the Josephine Bittinger Eberly Professor of the Latin Language and Literature, the chair being named in the will. The Hanover farm of the late Dr. Eberly is willed to the College on condition that the proceeds only be used to assist in defraying expenses of worthy students.

The residue of the estate is to be known as "The Daniel Eberly Fund" and the proceeds are to be loaned to worthy students. In addition the valuable library is also bequeathed to the College.

Faculty Reception

President Keister Entertains Faculty at His Residence

On Saturday evening President and Mrs. Keister entertained the members of the Faculty and their wives at their residence on Sheridan Avenue.

All were very pleasantly entertained with various amusements and pronounced the affair a great success. Those present were: Prof. and Mrs. Lehman, Prof. and Mrs. Shenk, Prof. and Mrs. Derrickson, Prof. and Mrs. Sheldon, Prof. and Mrs. Spessard, Miss Dodge, Miss Sleichter, Prof. Wanner, Miss Brown, Mrs. John A. Eby, Miss Boehm, and Miss Parks.

Large Freshman Class

The new Freshman class is the largest in the history of the college. It numbers no less than forty and is made up of the representatives of the best high schools and Academies of Pennsylvania.

Calendar.

Thursday, Sept. 29—Biological Field Club, 7 p. m.

Friday, Sept. 30—Literary Societies, 7:15 p. m.

Saturday, Oct. 1—Football team at Swarthmore.

Sunday, Oct. 2—Christian Associations, 1 p. m.

Tuesday, Oct. 4—Students' Prayer meeting, 6 p. m.

Alumni

The Editors earnestly request that all Alumni take special interest in sending to the "News" Alumni notes. By so doing the Alumni department will be built up and a keener interest will be kept up for our Alma Mater.

Rev. I. Moyer Hershey, '03, pastor of Covenant U. B. Church, Lancaster, Pa., has been confined to his home for several weeks with a severe attack of typhoid fever.

J. H. Sprecher, '07, is at present principal of the Honey Brook High School at Honey Brook, Pa.

Rev. Jos. Daugherty, '89, of Myers-town, Pa., was a visitor at the college on Tuesday.

E. E. Knauss, '07, is an instructor in the Middletown High School.

Stanley R. Oldham, '08, is an instructor in the English department of Bates College, Lewiston, Maine.

D. D. Brandt, '04, is assistant principal of the Hershey High School.

Max F. Lehman, '07, of Annville, left on Monday, Sept. 26, for the University of Pennsylvania.

Deleth E. Weidler, '09, is teaching in the high school at Anderson, Indiana.

Continued on page 3

050
V. 2
Sept. 1910 - June 1911

COLLEGE NEWS

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
W. A. BRUNNER, '11
E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS
W. O. ELLIS, '11
F. R. KENNEDY, '12
CATHARINE E. HERSHY, '12
HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12
S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER
and PUBLISHER

ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS
OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12
PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year
Single Copies 5 cts.
Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to J. WALTER ESBENSHADE, Nutting Building, Lebanon; all other matter to COLLEGE NEWS, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

Although a week has already passed since the opening of the College year, the Editorial Staff greets the students and friends of Lebanon Valley College with this issue of the "College News." Owing to a slight difficulty with the business management, the "News" is appearing a little late.

Vacation is over, and at the present writing, everybody is back to hard work. Quite a number of the old students did not return this year, but we are glad to state that many new faces are in evidence around the College halls and campus. To the new students we bid a hearty welcome, and invite them to join earnestly in all our College activities. The literary societies, Christian associations and athletics afford opportunities for all to engage their spare moments. Each of these movements need all the available material, and old and new students alike are urged to identify themselves with some or, if possible, all of them for the upbuilding of their Alma Mater.

Doubtless every student came to College this fall, determined to get the most possible benefit out of his course. We admire such a motive in everybody, but in order to reach this end, above all things, do not be a "grind". It is the "grind" that the college man despises most of all. What he wants is a good student, who does well with his books, but who does not hesitate to enter into all college functions, and give part of his time and energy for the good of the College.

With the opening of this College year, the "News" is glad to state that Lebanon Valley faces the most prosperous year in her history. The large number of new students, the increased interest of Alumni and friends, the decrease in the general debt, and the bounteous gifts of friends give everything a very bright outlook. Our hope is that these interests may continue and that the coming year will be the greatest in the history of Lebanon Valley College.

The late Dr. Eberly was a true friend of Lebanon Valley College. His bequest, with that of his father-in-law, Mr. Bittinger, forms the basis of Lebanon Valley's endowment. Coming at a time of rejoicing and good cheer over the recent successful debt effort, it gives new encouragement to Faculty, students and all connected with Lebanon Valley College.

Dr. Eberly attended the meeting of the Board of Trustees last June and expressed himself as highly gratified with the financial management of the College. In his death the College loses one of her warmest friends. But he is not dead. He lives in the monuments erected by him in Lebanon Valley College.

In a subsequent issue we shall give a sketch of the life of Dr. Eberly.

New Members of the Faculty.

Students and friends of the college generally will be gratified to learn of the high scholastic attainments and the successful teaching ability of the new members of the faculty.

Miss Parks who succeeds Mrs. Schlichter as Professor of English is a graduate of Northwestern University, and continued her post-graduate studies in Columbia University. Before coming to Lebanon Valley Miss Parks had won an enviable reputation as a teacher of English, the last two years having been spent as an instructor in Teachers' College, New York.

Prof. Sheldon comes to us from Susquehanna University where he has built up the Conservatory of Music of that institution. He is an able instructor and his work already bears evidence of thoroughness and an adherence to high standards that argues well for the future of the Conservatory. He is ably assisted by Miss Brown as teacher of voice, the same position having been held by her in the faculty of Susquehanna University.

Mrs. Sheldon as assistant teacher of piano comes to us with a record as a successful teacher.

Fred W. Light, '00, is instructor on the violin in the Conservatory of Music. He was in town on Tuesday and Wednesday in the interest of the department.

Fall Reception

Christian Associations Entertain New Students.

The first social event of the year was the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. reception to new students held in the Ladies' parlors on Saturday evening, Sept. 17.

Many new students and friends of the College took this opportunity to get acquainted. Appropriate addresses were made by President Keister and Dean Shenk. Mr. J. K. Lehman, Chairman of the committee, is to be commended for the success of the reception. After the refreshments were served, each class gave appropriate class and college yells. The next reception of the kind will be held at the opening of the Spring term.

Y. M. C. A.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. Paul Koontz presented the Bible study proposition to the members of the Y. M. C. A. in a forcible and earnest manner. He pointed out how essential Bible study is for the students.

Messrs. Ehrhart, Grimm and Richie made remarks on the same topic. Two strong points were brought out, "Ignorance of the Bible is a Crime and Strong Men Study the Bible."

Hearty Co-operation is Needed in order to make this most important Phrase of College Life a Success.

COLLEGE NEWS

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

PHILO PROGRAM

Foot ball News, Ralph Riegle; Mark Twain, Clarence Ulrich; Debate: Resolved that a Co-Educational Institution Offers better Advantages for Development than Non-co-educational Institution; affirmative, Earl Loser and J. Edward Marshall, negative, F. S. Hensel and E. H. Carmany; Piano Duet, E. A. Spessard, P. R. Koontz; Essay, N. B. S. Thomas.

Visitors welcome.

KALO PROGRAM

Happenings of the Week, J. A. Walters; Essay, P. M. Holdeman; Chorus, Society; Parliamentary Practices, led by D. C. Keister and A. S. Beckley; Chorus, Society; Original Story, H. C. Snavely; Reading, J. F. Reed; Chorus, Society.

CLIO PROGRAM

Instrumental Solo, Anna Fry; Reading, Verda Snyder; Book Review, Helen Weidler; Instrumental Solo, Carrie Light; Are the Colleges doing their Duty? LaVerne Keister; Reading, Helen Brightbill; Olive Branch, Editor; Chorus, Society.

ALUMNI NOTES

Continued from page 1

Professor and Mrs. Norman C. Schlichter have moved to Charlotte, North Carolina, where Professor Schlichter is engaged in Y. M. C. A. work. Both Professor and Mrs. Schlichter have been members of the College faculty for many years. Professor Schlichter was a graduate of the class of 1897.

J. Walter Esbeshade, '03, is editor of the Avnnille Journal and the Palmyra Citizen.

M. M. Hoover, '06, continued his studies in English at Columbia University last summer, and resumed his work at Westfield College in September.

C. C. Peters, '05, Professor of Philosophy at Westfield College, received the degree of Master of Arts from Harward last June.

Lester Appenzellar, '08, of Chambersburg, attended the Indian-Villanova foot ball game at Harrisburg on Saturday, Sept. 24.

George Hoffer, '09, is an instructor in the Biological department of Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

George M. Richter, '09, is secretary and treasurer of the Student Volunteer Union of Central Ohio. Mr. Richter is located at Delta, Ohio.

Born, Sept. 21, to Dr. H. E. Enders '97, and Mrs. Enders '01, a son.

Born, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Fisher. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were both members of class of '04.

Sallie Kreider '08, visited friends at the college on Monday.

Obituary.

It is with much regret that we have to announce the death of Harvey E. Herr in our first issue. He was a member of the Class of 1911. "Henie" as he was called by the boys, was of a genial and friendly disposition. He was born on the 17th October, 1887 and died August 10, 1910. He graduated from the North Annville High School in 1903, attended the Lebanon Business College, and Lebanon Valley Academy.

His classmates will miss his cheerful and friendly sympathy. Kalozean Literary Society will always revere his memory, and a vacant seat is there for one who was one of her most devoted and loyal members. Long may his soul rest in peace.

Mathematical Round Table Holds First Meeting.

The opening meeting of the Mathematical Round Table for the College year was held Wednesday evening in the college library. This organization, under the efficient leadership of Prof. Lehman, has come to be one of the main interests of the College. Live mathematical subjects are always discussed, and visitors are always welcome to the meetings. The following program was rendered:

Current Events in the Mathematical World, Miss Horn; Symbols of Mathematics, D. C. Keister; Paper, Are Mathematical Studies more difficult than others? S. O. Grimm; General Discussion.

The Round Table meets on the last Wednesday evening of each month.

Items of Interest

Coach H. M. Forrest and W. D. Biever, '14, spent part of Tuesday in Lebanon.

Prof. S. H. Derrickson was confined to his home on Tuesday due to a slight illness.

Miss Margaret Rigler, a former L. V. student, has enrolled as a student at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.

P. W. Kreider, ex-'13, left last Saturday for New Haven, Conn., where he has entered Yale University.

Russel Weidler, '14, was compelled to leave College last week for his home at Royalton, owing to a severe case of blood poison in his hand.

Geo. E. Johnson, a former student of the Academy, will spend this year at Dickinson Seminary, Williamsport, Pa.

S. S. Rine left for his home last week at Hoffer, Pa. Mr. Rine was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism.

Dr. J. P. Landis, president of Bonebrake Theological Seminary, addressed the student body at chapel on Monday morning.

E. E. Eby, a former L. V. student, is at present a student at Pennsylvania State College.

Miss Rhoda Brandt, of Hummeltown, is spending some time at the Ladies' Hall as the guest of her sister, Miss Mary Sleichter.

P. M. Holdeman, '11, was an important witness in the Jennings trial for involuntary manslaughter in Lebanon last week.

Averio Rosato, ex-'11, who was taking private work here during the summer, has left for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he has entered the law department of the University of Michigan.

Roger B. Saylor, '11, who attended the summer sessions of Columbia University, is an instructor in the Physics department of the College.

Miss Louise Kreider, ex-'13, left last week to resume her studies at Wells College.

COLLEGE NEWS

Miss Parks spent Sunday with friends in New York City.

Among those who attended the Indian-Villanova foot ball game at Harrisburg on Sat. Sept. 24, were Professor Wanner, Coach Forrest, Earl Carmany, John Lehman, Henry Kreider, Forrest Hensel and Ralph Riegler.

Prof. H. H. Shenk will speak in the United Brethren Church at Shippensburg, on Sunday, Oct. 9.

Prof. S. H. Derickson, '03, the efficient head of the department of Biology, after returning from Jamaica in July, spent six weeks in study at Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island. Mrs. Derickson accompanied him. The material secured by the Professor in Jamaica is of great practical value for biological study.

Rev. John C. Rupp, '06, is pastor of the United Brethren Church at Williams Grove, Pa.

Biological Field Club.

The following program will be rendered in the Biological Lecture room by the Biological Field Club on Thursday evening:

Investigation into the Hypnotism of Animals, Lester L. Spessard; Common Insect Enemies of House plants, Catherine Hershey; Identification of Mosses, W. Albert Brunner; A Collection of Local Insects, William O. Ellis; General Discussion, What I have Observed in the Field during Vacation.

This is the first meeting of the year and every one is cordially invited to attend.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. girls have begun work this year with an interest and enthusiasm that promises definite results.

Last Sunday, the meeting was conducted by Miss LaVerne Keister who gave an excellent report of the summer conference at Granville, Ohio, which she attended as a delegate last June. Her good and complete account of the conference was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it.

Misses Gingrich and Bachman rendered special music.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.

Group System.

Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology

Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

*Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.*

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS'
FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.

Students' Discount Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

The Mutual Life
Insurance Co. of N. Y.

Its contracts are easy to buy, easy to maintain, a sure protection, and a source of profit

M. P. SPANGLER, Dis. Agt.
Nutting Building

LEBANON PA

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

Kodaks, Cameras
and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
ESTABLISHED 1824
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.

Send for a Catalogue.

Blazier's Studio
QUALITY
in every photograph
Lebanon, Pa.

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Penants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA.

Get the Latest

Spring Styles
REGAL SHOES
FOR MEN

At REED BROS.
LEBANON, PA.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The
Spalding
TRADE MARK

Is known throughout the world as a

Guarantee of Quality

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of

Official
Equipment
For All
Athletic Sports and Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, October 4, 1910

No. 2

Coming Americans

Y. M. C. A. Assists Foreigners in Preparation for Citizenship

An important phase of our Y. M. C. A. work is that which is carried on among the foreigners at the quarries near Annville. This work was begun last year under rather adverse circumstances, but interest on the part of both teachers and pupils was keen, and the results were soon obvious. The school is held three times each week in a building situated about two miles from Annville, near the quarries where the men work. Here Italians, Slavs, Polanders and Germans all come together to learn English. The teachers, boys from the local Y. M. C. A., are always greeted by these men with "Hello Teacher," and a pleasant smile and handshake.

As a result of last year's work, two Italians procured their first naturalization papers. When these men started they could speak very little English, and read less. Robert's "English for Coming Americans," which is specially fitted for this work, is used with great success.

The outlook this year is brighter than last, as the attendance is larger and interest better. At present all the pupils can read some little English, a fact which is very encouraging to the teachers. This work should be kept up with renewed courage, supported by the whole Y. M. C. A., as it is a chance to give these men, who really want to learn, something they can get from no other source.

Alumni Attended Game

E. E. Renn, '10, J. Warren Stehman, '09, Max Lehman, '07, and Ora B. Harnish, '06, attended the football game between Swarthmore and Lebanon Valley on Saturday, October 1.

Items of Interest

Paul Kreider, a former student at L. V. C. and a member of 1913 is a Freshman at Yale this year. A recent communication informs us that he has won a position on the Freshman football team and that he is to represent his class as a middle weight wrestler.

Misses Grace Smith and Maud Kerchner visited their parents at Shoemakersville over Sunday.

William Dunlap, has again returned to school and has matriculated for work in the Academy.

Continued on page 2

Faculty Recital

Every student and friend of Lebanon Valley Conservatory should await with interest the first recital of the year to be given in Engle Hall on Thursday evening, October 6, at 8 o'clock. At this time the new Conservatory Faculty will make its first appearance before a Lebanon Valley audience.

Prof. Sheldon, principal of the Conservatory and professor of piano and organ, and Miss Brown, professor of voice, are both capable instructors and public performers, as is seen from their past records at other institutions. Mrs. Sheldon, assistant in piano, will also appear on this program.

In addition to the vocal and instrumental numbers, the program will also include several readings by Mrs. Lee, professor of Oratory. Mrs. Eby is well known to Lebanon Valley audiences, and her ability can always be relied upon.

Everybody is urged to attend.

Calendar.

Tuesday, Oct. 4—6 p. m., Students Prayer meeting.

Thursday, Oct. 6—8 p. m., Faculty Recital. 6 p. m., Ministerial Association.

Friday, Oct. 7—Societies 7:15.

Saturday, Oct. 8—3 p. m., Football—Dickinson vs. Lebanon Valley at Annville.

Sunday, Oct. 9—Christian Associations at 1 p. m.

Alumni

E. E. Snyder, '06, former principal of Fawn Grove High School, is superintendent of the Stewardstown schools.

Nancy R. Kauffman, '05, was married to Mr. Stacey E. Peters, Gettysburg, '08, August 10, 1910. Mr. and Mrs. Peters are residing in East Downington, where Mr. Peters is principal of the High School.

Born a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Ammon Kreider, of Middletown, Pa. Mrs. Kreider was a member of class '02, Conservatory.

Mr. Ray Engle, a graduate of the College spent Friday in town among friends.

Mr. Ivan H. McKendrick, a graduate of the conservatory, '06, and a former football star, spent Thursday and part of Friday at the College. Mr. McKendrick is now practising law at Ebensburg, Pa.

Miss Sallie Kreider, '08, was a guest of the Clonian Literary Society on Friday evening.

Miss Lucy Seltzer, '10, renewed acquaintance at the college on Friday of last week.

COLLEGE NEWS

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

W. A. BRUNNER, '11

E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS

W. O. ELLIS, '11

F. R. KENNEDY, '12

CATHARINE E. HERSHHEY, '12

HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12

S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER and PUBLISHER

ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS

OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12

PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year

Single Copies 5 cts.

Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to J. WALTER ESBENSHADE, Nutting Building, Lebanon; all other matter to COLLEGE NEWS, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

The Athletic Situation at L. V. C.

That Athletics are of vital importance to any institution cannot be gainsaid. They relate to its material advancement both as an advertising medium and promoter of health among students, not to mention the worry saved the faculty by giving the boys an outlet for those energies which otherwise would take a different and sometimes very undesirable course.

During the past several years athletics at Lebanon Valley have lain under a cloud, caused by elements both within and without the institution. Because of this the managers have experienced the greatest difficulties in arranging and maintaining successful schedules, in fact they have been actually forced to abandon them when only partly completed. That such conditions existed is a shame, the stigma of which can be removed only by the most progressive policies.

About a year ago Athletics at Lebanon Valley took on new life. Thanks to the progressive policies and unwavering energies of last year's managers both of football and baseball, very successful schedules were completed. The football season was in many respects the best in our history. The general state of lethargy concerning athletics began to disappear. The clouds of opposition which had been so blighting began to rise, and from the mists which had enveloped our institution, a new spirit came forth.

Very few of last year's football stars returned this season and gloom was again settling around us, but the combined energies of our manager and captain were equal to the occasion. An efficient coach was secured and the boys began to work in earnest. During the past week the scrub team has more than doubled its strength both in weight and numbers. Prof. Wanner has assumed control of this squad and owing to his genial nature and knowledge of the game, their spirit and effectiveness has reached a plane never before attained by any second team at Lebanon Valley College.

This spirit has awakened an interest not only among the members of the teams but the student body in general, and the scenes on the Athletic field during afternoon practice vie in interest with many regular games that have formerly been played there. This spirit does not stop with the student body, but is reaching the faculty, who by their presence on the field and kindly councils, have rendered much valuable service. The executive committee of the Association is about to offer a new constitution, which will provide for tennis, track and field sports. The track proposition has been received with much ardor and present conditions seem to indicate that Lebanon Valley will be able to put forth men in this department qualified to bring her the greatest honor. What do these conditions indicate? Is it not a prophecy that the near future will witness the realization of a dream, which has proven illusive so long, and that Lebanon Valley will be relieved of the one encumbrance which has kept her from assuming the foremost place among the so-called small colleges of Pennsylvania? This is no idle vision. A gymnasium will soon be a reality. There is, however, much to be done. The race has only begun. The final outcome rests with each individual member of the student body and alumni association.

When a long felt need becomes a positive demand, that need will be satisfied. We all know that our college and Alma Mater needs the gymnasium, — let us make it a demand. This we can do by freely lending assistance to our teams. As students we should deem it a sacred obligation to ourselves and our school that we pay our athletic fee, and if possible identify ourselves with some phase of athletics. This in return will strengthen both our body and mind. If we cannot make the varsity, we need not worry, we receive more than we give.

In this way we help to develop a varsity that can win us victories, and whether we win or not is a matter of economic importance to each of us. The value of our diplomas will increase in the same proportion as the fame of our college. Let us determine to present a winning team. The alumni can help by contributions and when possible attendance at games. You may become a member of our association and give us renewed enthusiasm by your cheers.

Let us all, by freely giving our fees and services promote clean healthy athletics at Lebanon Valley. Thus we will become an honor to ourselves and our college.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Continued From First Page

Misses Ely and Weidman were visitors at Palmyra on Sunday.

Charles G. White, a new student and a member of 1912, accompanied his father, Mr. George White, to Gettysburg on Tuesday, September 27.

Rev. Mark G. Holtzman, a student at school and serving West Lebanon pastorate, deserves credit for the admirable report of his church this year.

Ralph R. Riegler, accompanied the football team to Swarthmore, and on his return spent Saturday evening and Sunday visiting several of his old acquaintances in Reading.

I. K. Potter, '13, was in Lebanon on Saturday evening making social calls.

COLLEGE NEWS

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

KALOZETEAN

Chorus, Society; Paver, D. C. Keister; Reading, J. W. Ischey; Baritone Solo, Harry Bender; Debate: Resolved, That the Increased cost of Living is not due to Monopolies; Affirmative, C. Y. Ulrich, P. E. Holdcraft; Negative, G. A. Williams, W. O. Ellis; Piano Solo, Paul Strickler; Examiner, Editor.

Visitors invited.

CLIO PROGRAM

Piano solo, Grace Smith; Current Events, Blanche Risser; The Tariff: "A moral Issue," Edith Lehman; Piano duet, Mae Meyer, Ruth Detweiler; Original Story, Edna Yarker; The Moving Picture and its Influence on the National Character, Clara Horn; Reading, Kathryn Clouser; Olive Branch, Editor.

PHILO PROGRAM

Current Events, Ivan Potter; Original Story, Sedic Rine; Debate: Resolved That Berry was Justified in Splitting from the Democratic party and Accepting the Leadership of the Keystone Party; Affirmative, J. W. Bomberger, W. A. Brunner; Negative, E. K. Boughter, S. G. Ziegler; Paper, The Pleasures of a Freshman, George Zullinger; Living Thoughts, Editor.

Christian Associations

There was an interesting joint meeting of the two associations on Sunday afternoon. The leader was F. R. Kennedy. The following program was given:

Vocal Solo, Miss Florence Roland; The Plan of our Year's Work, Miss Helen Weidler; Ladies' Quartette, Misses Gingrich, Brightbill, Zimmerman, Spessard; Mission Study, F. R. Kennedy. An interesting discussion followed in which Messrs. Brunner, Erhart, Koontz, and Ischy made appropriate remarks.

Miss Weidler presented the work of the Y. W. C. A. in a clear and pleasing manner. The ladies intend to carry on Mission and Bible Study classes throughout the year. Their plan is to pray and work for greater things. Hearty co-operation is necessary in order to make a success of this phase of college life. The vocal selections were well rendered.

The leader of mission study gave three reasons for mission study and in conclusion outlined the plan of the missionary committee for the ensuing year. There will be four classes, one for the study of Home Missions, led by W. A. Brunner, the study of Foreign Missions led by E. A. Spessard, who will use J. R. Mott's work "The Decisive Hour of Christian Missions." F. R. Kennedy will lead a class in "Missions of China." The references of this course will be: History of the Chinese by F. L. Hawks Pott. Religion of the Chinese, China's only Hope, by Chang Chi Tung; New Forces in Old China and Awakening of China, by W. Martin. The fourth class will make a study of comparative Religions and will be led by a professor.

In order to make a success of these courses and to see the plans perfected, every man in school is needed to help the movement. Get in line and do your part. Join some class.

New Class Officers.

The following officers have been elected to serve the classes for the first Semester:

SENIORS

President, F. L. Frost; Vice President, J. K. Lehman; Secretary, R. B. Saylor; Treasurer, W. C. Shoop.

JUNIORS

President, C. F. Harnish; Vice President, Miss Carrie Light; Secretary, J. C. Shively; Treasurer, S. B. Plummer.

SOPHOMORES

President, G. A. Richie; Vice President, Earle Loser; Secretary, Miss Sara Zimmerman; Treasurer, Miss Edith Lehman.

New Course to be Offered

President Keister will give a course in Bowne's Metaphysics and also one in the Gospel of John. The hour of meeting will be Saturday at 9 a. m. The first work will be on the 22nd of October. These courses are designed to lead to the A. M. degree but seniors and juniors will be permitted to attend.

New Fall Styles

Clothing, Shoes, Hats, Men's Furnishings

THE HIGH ARCH IN THE KING QUALITY

The King Quality "Hi-Arch" shoe is a strikingly original and stylish model. The two inch heel, short forepart, and the graceful "Hi-Arch" give this model a smartness that appeals strongly to the younger set.

Ask your dealer to show you "The Harvard" and "The Yale," two KING QUALITY MODELS on the "Hi-Arch" last. You will pronounce these shoes the smartest ever.

The KING QUALITY SHOE in all styles is literally built like a watch, so cleverly and precisely are the parts put together. The best of materials throughout. Even the thread used is of superior quality—real Irish flax for the soles and the strongest of silk for all outside sewing.

Do you wonder that the KING QUALITY SHOE is worn by fashionable dressers?

NEW FALL SHAPES AND STYLES NOW READY

Button and Lace

$3.00 to $5.00

M. A. KLINEFELTER

PALMYRA, PA.

COLLEGE NEWS

Football

The football game on Saturday against Swathmore was one of which we cannot exactly be proud. Nor can we at the same time exactly censure the team who did such good work against the Indians.

The squad left Annville, not with a certainty of winning the game, but certainly with a secret feeling of moderate success. Every man hoped to bring back some laurels for L. V. but such unfortunately was not the case. Songs and cheers were lacking, for several reasons, and after loafing about Swathmore campus for several hours, the team spiritedly went in a body to the field.

The first down evidently killed the game. Swathmore, although she gained nothing in yards, made a heavy rush against our fellows causing undoubtedly a little surprise. The L. V. men not expecting Swathmore to "rough it up" so much, seemed to lose confidence, and as a result 47-0 was the final score. We certainly should not criticise the boys but by better support encourage them. This will make our next game a victory.

Class of 1910

The following is a list of the present occupations of the members of the class of 1910.

Harry K. Bomberger is principal of the high school of Ligonier, Pa.

J. Clyde Strock is an instructor in English and History in St. Charles Military Academy, St. Charles, Missouri. Walter Kohr '04, is President of this institution.

W. E. Harnish is teaching in the High School in Cass City, Mich.

Mary B. Musser has charge of Latin, French and Music in the high school of Clayton, N. J.

Myrtle Garret is teaching in the public schools at Waltonville.

Edith N. Freed accepted a position in the Hawley High School, Hawley, Pa.

Earl E. Renn has entered the law department of University of Pennsylvania.

F. Allen Rutherford and Floyd E. Shaeffer will enter the medical school of Johns Hopkins University.

L. May Hoerner is an instructor in the Science department of Norristown High School.

F. T. Kohler and M. R. Fleming are attending Bonebrake Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio.

G. C. Bair is the assistant secretary of the Brooklyn Naval Y. M. C. A.

Jessie T. Yoder, the first editor of the "College News," is a teacher in the high school at Southampton, Long Island.

Fred S. Smith, the only 1910 Conservatory graduate, is director of the Sugar Grove Conservatory, Sugar Grove, Pa.

Wilbur C. Plummer is teaching in the high school at Beardstown, Ill.

Lucy S. Seltzer is at her home in Lebanon.

Charles Plummer is living with his brother, F. Berry Plummer, '05, at Shippensburg.

Victor O. Weidler is teaching in Waynesboro High School, Waynesboro, Pa.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.

Group System.

Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology

Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The

Spalding
TRADE MARK

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of

Official Equipment
For All Athletic Sports and Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS' FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.

Students' Discount
Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.

Established 1824
Send for a Catalogue.

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA.

SANDERS ENGRAVING CO.
Photo Engraving
711 LINDEN ST.
ALLENSTOWN, PA.

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, October 11, 1910

No. 3

Lebanon Valley Holds Dickinson to 13-0

L. V., Boys Played Fast Game and Made Visitors Sit Up and Take Notice

In the first game at Annville Dickinson was given an unexpected jar by the boys in white and blue. The game was an interesting one and was witnessed by a large crowd of students and visitors. While this was not an entire victory for L. V. the results of the game were exceedingly encouraging and new enthusiasm has been added to the game. The good fight put up by the home team is but reflection of what interest and encouragement on the part of the student body will do for athletics at L. V. C.

The game was called at 3:00 o'clock. During the first quarter Dickinson scored a touchdown and a field goal. In the second and third quarters the pigskin was kept near the middle of the field. The first half ended with the ball on Dickinson territory with L. V. carrying it rapidly towards their opponent's goal. During the last quarter Dickinson again scored a touchdown after several L. V. men had been knocked out by rough playing. L. V. was outweighed twenty-five pounds to the man. Dickinson made gains by old-time plunging while L. V. played all around their opponents in speed and in putting the new rules into practice. Captain Lehman, Hayes, S. Hertzler and Hensel played star games for L. V. while Dunn made greatest gains for Dickinson. The lineup:

L. V.	Positions	Dickinson
Tallman	Left end	Miller
(H. Kreider)		(Stafford)
Charlton	Left tackle	Felton (Capt.)
	(Harnish)
Kennedy	Left guard	Bashore (Gish)
Marshall	Center	J. Hertzler

Spessard	Right guard	McGregor
Hensel	Right tackle	Steele
Hayes	Right end	Cook (Naugle)
Frost	Quarter back	Vickwise
S. Hertzler	Left half back	Garten
Loser	Right half back	Merve (Wise)
Lehman (Capt.)	Full back	Dunn
Touchdowns—Dunn 2. Field goal—
Wise.	Referee—Barnhart. Umpire	—Wilder. Field judge—Meredith.
Head linesman—Kettering. Time—		10 minute quarters.

Woman's Board Meets

Held First Session for the Year on Wednesday

The L. V. C. Woman's Board held its first meeting for the year on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Keister on Sheridan Avenue with a good attendance of members.

Routine matters occupied a part of the time. The work of the past summer was reviewed and plans outlined for the work of the coming year. The treasury shows a balance of $60.00 left from the amount raised for grading the campus.

Besides grading the campus, during the year the board planted a number of catalpa trees along Sheridan Avenue, and planted a screen of hemlocks and honey suckles on the north side of the Ladies' Hall. Fifty one vines were also planted to cover the various buildings on the campus. The board also assisted in placing the concrete porches at the music hall.

A chicken and waffle supper is being planned for November 12th to be held in the former Ladies' Hall on Main Street, to raise money for additional improvements to grounds and buildings.

The next meeting of the board will be held on November 2nd at the home of Mrs. J. S. Mills on East Main Street at which time new officers will be elected.

The board now has 200 members.

Calendar.

Tuesday, Oct. 11—6 p. m., Student's Prayer Meeting.

Wednesday, Oct. 12—7 p. m. Biological Field Club in Biology Recitation Room.

Friday, Oct. 14—7:15 p. m., Societies.

Sunday, Oct. 16—1 p. m., Y. M. C. A.; 1:30 p. m. Y., W. C. A.

Alumni

Ray Light, '06, is teaching Latin in the Lebanon High School, as successor to Roy J. Guyer, '08.

R. S. B. Hartz, '08, is at present attending Cornell University.

Rev. J. T. Spangler, D.D., '90, for twelve years professor of Greek in Lebanon Valley College, attended the East Pennsylvania Conference at Sunbury, Pa., last week, and received the appointment of pastor of the Mt. Joy U. B. Church.

M. R. Fleming, '10, a student of Bonebrake Theological Seminary, stopped at the College on Monday, en route to the Pennsylvania Conference at Dallastown this week.

Miss Grace Lowery, '09, and Miss Sallie Kreider, '08, were College visitors on Saturday and attended the Dickinson game.

Dr. Ralph Engle, '05, of Palmyra called on friends at the College on Wednesday.

Rev. E. O. Burtner, '90, was transferred from Lykens to Palmyra at the conference at Sunbury.

Rev. F. Berry Plummer, '05, will deliver the Convention sermon before the state Christian Endeavor Convention at Cumberland, Maryland, Oct. 25.

(Continued on page 4)

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
W. A. BRUNNER, '11
E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS
W. O. ELLIS, '11
F. R. KENNEDY, '12
CATHARINE E. HERSHY, '12
HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12
S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER
W. A. BRUNNER, '11,
ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS
OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12
PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year

Single Copies 5 cts.
Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 99, all other matter to COLLEGE NEWS, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

In addressing the students on the subject of Athletics at the Fall term reception, Dean Shenk made very timely remarks regarding a gymnasium for Lebanon Valley College. He called attention to the fact that as long as the college was burdened with debt, and was without immediate prospect of endowment, it would have been folly for the authorities to have directed their efforts toward securing funds for the erection of a new building, which, however desirable in itself, would have added to the current expense and made the path of the financial management even more difficult than it was. But now with the debt canvass in good shape, and with a good basis of endowment, in the Eberly-Bittinger bequests, the Dean held that the time is ripe to push the gymnasium project.

The necessity of a gymnasium for Lebanon Valley College can not be questioned. Many students do not care for the violent exercise of football or baseball, and some are forbidden by their parents to indulge in them or other sports. Yet they are entitled to enjoy the benefit of physical training, and have just cause for complaint if the opportunity is not given them.

In the second place, during half the collegiate year the weather conditions are such as to exclude regular outdoor exercise. It is during these winter months that every college student should be required to take regular and systematic exercise in a gymnasium. It is during these months that the most remunerative of all college sports—basket ball is played, and we have been very much hampered in maintaining athletic relations with certain institutions because of inability to meet their teams in basket ball.

Again, the problem of discipline for dormitory students would be largely solved by the gymnasium. The physical activities of youth can be directed in no more legitimate channel than that of exercise in well regulated gymnastics; close these channels, and this activity will seek less desirable avenues—that may lead to the necessity for discipline by the Faculty. One of the best methods by which to train body and mind alike is to organize play and give energy, the surplus energy of youth proper direction.

Biological Field Club.

The following program will be rendered by the Biological Field Club on Wednesday evening, October 12th. at 7:00 o'clock.

Bermuda Sponges, E. A. Spessard; The insect Enemy of the Potato, Chas. Arndt; Tropical Flowers and Fruits, F. R. Kennedy; Anatomy of Bat, Jesse Reed; Poisonous Potato in this Vicinity, Ivan Ressler; General Discussion, Vivisection. All the members of the club are urged to be present as important business must be transacted. Everybody welcome.

Attention!

Please note that the business management of the "News" has changed with this issue. All business in connection with the publication should be addressed to the new manager. The manager requests that every old subscriber consider himself a committee of one to help boost the circulation of the "News" and call attention of advertisers to our columns.

Faculty Recital

Large Audience Hears Fine Program

Thursday evening afforded the music lovers of the College and town a great treat. A large audience greeted Prof. Sheldon and the other members of the Conservatory Faculty.

Both vocal and instrumental numbers were very well rendered and showed marked ability. Mr. Fred Light, '00, instructor of violin, proved himself very capable of the position. Mrs. Eby pleased the audience with one of her fine readings which are always received with applause from L. V. C. audiences. Quite a large number of students are enrolled in the Music and Oratory departments, and everything portends a very successful year. The program follows:

Verdi, "Tu la sorte dell' armi" (Aida), Vocal Duet, Mrs. Sheldon and Miss Brown; Svendsen, Romance, Violin, Mr. Light; Hiller, Concerto in F sharp minor, Two Pianos, Andante. Finale-Allegro con fuoco, Mr. Sheldon, 1st piano, Mrs. Sheldon, 2nd piano; a Grieg, "Ich liebe dich," Songs, b Stern, Soupir, c Mallinson, "Sing! Break into Song", d A. L. "Come, Sweet Morning," Miss Brown; Kate D. Wiggin, A cutting from "Timothy's Quest", Reading, Miss Eby; Cowen, "Hast Thou Wandered?" (Rose Maiden) Vocal Trio, Mrs. Sheldon, Miss Brown, Mr. Sheldon.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. had a very pleasant and profitable meeting on Sunday afternoon. Miss Carrie Light, '12, brought us Echoes from the Summer Conference which was held at Dennison University during the month of July.

The report was very interesting and portrayed the social and religious life of hundreds of college girls who are gathered for the same purpose, the promulgating of the Christian Religion and the strengthening of the human soul.

Miss Verda Snyder sang "That Sweet Story of Old," in a pleasing manner. The attendance was good and the meeting as a whole was very encouraging.

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

PHILO PROGRAM

Who's who at L. V. C.—Paul Hummel; The King of America, P. F. Roberts; Debate: Resolved, That the Initiative and Referendum Would Eliminate Most of the Political Corruption of our Country; Affirmative, Landis Klinger, E. A. Spessard; Negative, C. F. Harnish, S. O. Grimm; Should! Samuel Plummer.

CLIO PROGRAM

Instrumental Solo, "Narcissus," Lottie Spessard; Current Events in the Musical World, Florence Roland; Story of the Minuet, Vera Myers; Vocal Solo, "The Last Rose of Summer," Edith Gingrich; Does Music Aid the Business Woman? Grace Smith; Vocal Solo, "O Promise Me," Eva Foltz; Interesting Facts About Great Composers, Ora Bachman; Story of Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata, Bertha Spessard; Instrumental Solo, "Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata, Mae E. Meyer.

KALOZETEAN

Happenings of week, Chas. A. Arndt; My Ideas of Hypnotism, F. R. Kennedy; Chorus, Society; Oration, H. E. Snavely; Pennsylvania Dutch Dialog, W. D. Beiver and Victor Heffelfinger; Essay, Karl Schmidt; L. V. versus Albright, a comparison, Charles White; Chorus, Society; Visitors welcome.

Oratory Notes

The work in the Oratory department is advancing rapidly under the direction of Mrs. Eby. The class of 1911 is composed of Misses Edith McCurdy, Kathryn Clouser, Verda Snyder and Mr. J. W. Ischy. At the concert on Thursday evening, they were distinguished from the Music Seniors by the brown tassels on their caps as contrasted to the pink of the latter. It was the first appearance of both Oratory and Music Seniors in caps and gowns.

Each member of the Class of 1911 in Oratory is preparing a play or standard novel which will take about an hour and a half in rendition, to be given at various times during the year.

Miss Helen Brightbill, '12, Oratory, spent the past few days in Philadelphia.

Miss Grace Smith, '12, Oratory, will spend Saturday in Reading.

The class in gymnastics has been started for the year. The time of meeting is Monday and Thursday at 4 o'clock. It is important that all the young ladies take advantage of the course in free and light gymnastics.

Breezy Point

Clos to Give Comedy in Three Acts in Eagle Conservatory.

The Clonian Literary Society will present the play, "Breezy Point," a comedy in Three Acts, on Thursday evening, October 20, at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. Eby is directing the rehearsals, which are proving very satisfactory.

The girls are working hard to make this event a success, and deserve the support of students and friends of the College.

The Admission will be 25c, reserved seats 10c extra. Don't forget the date, Oct. 20, 1910. Come and bring your friends.

Y. M. C. A.

On Sunday afternoon the devotional committee had charge of the meeting. Mr. Earl Spessard was the leader.

He showed how necessary it was that everyone should do any work assigned to them with cheerfulness. He gave a short description of the work among the foreigners and explained the different phases of the work.

Messrs. Koontz, Lester Spessard and Brunner made appropriate remarks on the same subject. The meetings on Sunday afternoon should not be neglected. All are requested to come. Come and bring another fellow.

President Keister Receives a Signal Honor

President Keister has been named by the chairman of the Rhodes Foundation Scholarship Fund committee of Pennsylvania as a member of that committee for 1911. It is the duty of this committee consisting of five members to select from those candidates, whose examinations have been approved in England, the recipient of the Rhodes Scholarship for our State.

James C. Shively, '12, was in Lebanon Saturday afternoon on business.

Items of Interest

Miss Florence Roland was called to her home in Reading last week owing to the illness of her mother.

L. A. Rodes, '14, spent Sunday at the home of his parents in Wormleysburg.

Harry Denlinger spent the week end at his home at Intercourse.

M. G. Holtzman addressed the Sunbury Y. W. C. A. on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Holtzman was again appointed pastor of the West Lebanon U. B. Church.

Miss Brown spent Sunday in New York City.

Miss Dodge and Prof. and Mrs. Sheldon were Harrisburg visitors on Saturday.

A. S. Beckley, '12, was transferred from Montclare to Grantville.

C. B. Rettew, one of the best known P. R. R. conductors, a prominent member of First U. B. Church, Harrisburg, and a warm friend of the College, died on Sunday morning. Funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2 o'clock.

Ralph Shearer, '14, spent Sunday at his home in Harrisburg.

Miss Anna M. Kellar, a former student, is at present located at Stone Harbor, where she is employed as a teacher.

Misses Mary Gallagher, of Shamokin, Ernestina Kunst, of Lebanon, and Della B. Rice, of Annville, matriculated for work at the College on Monday.

President Keister conducted the "College hour" at the East Pennsylvania Conference at Sunbury on Friday evening. At this time a number of alumni ministers gave spirited addresses.

Messrs. Shoop, '12, Holdeman, '11, Beckley, '12, White, '12, and Holtzman attended the sessions of the East Pennsylvania Conference at Sunbury last week.

Prof. A. Wanner, superintendent of the schools of the city of York was the guest of his son, Prof. H. E. Wanner, over Saturday and Sunday.

COLLEGE NEWS

Miss Naomi Ely left for Hagerstown, Md., on Friday where she will spend a week at her home.

Miss Nellie Seltzer, '12, spent Saturday evening at Mount Gretna as a guest at a house party.

Mr. Clinton Barr, a student here nearly twenty years ago witnessed the football game on Saturday. Mr. Barr now resides in Lebanon.

Mr. James Shively, '12, returned to school last week from his home at Chambersburg.

Mr. Ira L. Hershey, of Hershey, was a spectator at the Dickinson-Lebanon Valley football game on Saturday.

Prof. S. H. Derickson, continues to improve and everyone at school trusts he shall soon return to the Biological Department.

Messrs. Keister, '12, and Rettew, '12, spent Saturday evening in Harrisburg.

Quite a number of people from Lebanon and vicinity were at the recital on Thursday evening. They expressed themselves as being favorably impressed with the showing of the department of Music, and Oratory.

Messrs. Paul Strickler, '14, and Arthur Light, '14, witnessed the Steelton High and Lebanon High School football game at Lebanon on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Charles White, '12, was appointed pastor of the Rockville charge in East Pennsylvania Conference for the ensuing year.

Rev. Spayd is again the college pastor for the ensuing year.

Ervin E. Eby a graduate of the Academy in the class of 1910 and a freshman in the Electrical Engineering Department of State College received a visit from his parents last Monday and reported the work going well. He is following the freshman rules of that place very closely as he refused to accompany his mother from the hotel.

ALUMNI NOTES

Continued from page 1

Rev. J. Warren Kaufman, '06, was transferred from Mt. Pisgah, Philadelphia, to St. John's.

Rev. D. S. Eshleman, '09, has resigned from the conference and the church.

Miss Ethel May Fenner was married on Oct. 1, to Max O. Snyder, '06. They are at home in Peekskill, N. Y.

Rev. A. R. Clippinger, '05, has been appointed pastor of the Summitt Street United Brethren Church, Dayton, Ohio, and has assumed the duties of his new pastorate.

Rev. A. A. Long, D.D., '89, has been appointed pastor of the First United Brethren Church, Altoona.

Rev. A. K. Weir, '00, of Shamokin, was a visitor at the College on Monday.

Miss Mary E. Peiffer, '07, is instructor in Algebra in the Pottstown High School.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.

Group System.

*Special Facilities in Chemistry
and Biology*

Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

*Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.*

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision of Telegraph Officials and positively place all students when qualified. Write for catalogues.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute

Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport, Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The
Spalding
TRADE MARK

Is known throughout the world as a

Guarantee of Quality

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of

Official Equipment
For All Athletic Sports and
Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS'
FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.
Students' Discount

Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
ESTABLISHED 1824
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.
Send for a Catalogue.

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pen-nants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA.

SANDERS ENGRAVING CO.
DESIGNING AND ILLUSTRATING
Photo Engraving
711 LINDEN ST. ALLENSTOWN, PA.

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, October 18, 1910

No. 4

Foot-Ball

L. V. vs. Muhlenburg and Why She Lost.

The boys left Annville on Saturday morning on the Flyer for Muhlenburg College with high hopes of bringing back a victory, but were disappointed.

The score was a surprise to all the students, both on and off the team, and when particulars were weighed it was evident that Muhlenburg out-classed us, but only because our team has not been supported by the student body. The team showed remarkable courage and pluck and fought like "grim death." The spirit with which they have been playing shows that they have the possibilities of a first class team. But these possibilities can never be developed without men to scrimmage them. At Muhlenburg the same old trouble was manifested: a lack of defensive practice.

The game was called promptly at 3:00 p. m. Muhlenburg kicked off. Hertzler received the ball and carried it to their 50-yard line for first down. After repeated attempts to gain we were forced to punt, through which Muhlenburg made their first touch-down.

The first quarter ended 12-0. Muhlenburg again kicked off and Forrest carried the ball to their 45-yard line; but we were again forced to punt, after which Muhlenburg tried an outside kick. Forest received it and rushed it to our 25-yard line. After repeated gains on our forward passes, Widmeyer took the ball across for our first touch-down. The same quarter we had the ball within two feet of the goal but were held for downs. Second quarter ended 24-6 for Muhlenburg.

In the third and fourth quarters our boys became discouraged on account of the unfairness of the officials. The game ended with a score 40-6 for Muhlenburg, and be it said, to the shame of the disloyal, disinterested and cowardly student body whose duty it is to support its foot-ball heroes who are sacrificing more than is at first glance apparent, all for the institution they love so dearly.

The line-up in Saturday's game was as follows:

Right end, Kreider, Hertzler; right tackle, Hensel; right Guard, Beaver, Smith; Center, Marshall; left guard, Kennedy; left tackle, Charlton; left end, Hayes, Frost; quarterback, Forrest; right halfback, Widmeyer, Hertzler; left halfback, Loser; full back, Lehman, Capt.

The boys played a splendid game and although defeated again, they expect to hold Gettysburg to a very close score after which game the hardest part of our schedule will be over.

Let every man physically able to "bear arms" present himself for duty every night the team reports for practice.

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting was led by Miss Edna Yarkers, who spoke on the subject: "Women of the Bible." The leader took for the basis of her remarks four of the most prominent women characters to be found in Bible history—Eve, Rebecca, Ruth, and Mary the mother of Christ. She outlined briefly the life and distinguishing characteristics of each, whether weakness or strength and applied each to the present day.

The meeting was very interesting throughout. A spirit of devotion was manifestly present and there was no reserve on the part of the girls. Various other characters were discussed and opinions given.

Although the number at this meeting was smaller than at any other previous meeting held this year, the interest shown was greater, and it is to be hoped that we may be able to keep up that interest and increase the attention at the same time.

Calendar.

Tuesday Oct., 18, -6 p. m. Students Prayer Meeting.

Thursday Oct, 20—8 p. m. Breezy Point; afternoon, football, L. V. vs. Gettysburg at Gettysburg.

Friday, Oct. 21—7:15 p. m. Societies.

Sunday, Oct. 23—1 p. m., Y. M. C. A; 1:30 p. m., Y. W. C. A.

Alumni

Rev. A. K. Wier, '00, of Shamokin visited friends at the college last week.

Mr. A. K. Mills, '05, attended the funeral of Mr. C. R. Rettew on Monday.

Miss Ruth E. Hershey is taking work for her A. M. degree in Columbia University.

Rev. S. B. Long, '08, a senior in Union Theological Seminary, New York City, was ordained by Bishop W. M. Weekley at the Conference at Dallastown, on Oct. 16.

Lebanon Valley Wins at Tennis

On Saturday afternoon, Messrs. Richard Strickler and Gin, the fast tennis players for the town of Hummelstown were defeated in doubles on the local courts. The ideal day served to put inspiration into our boys and they turned out as victors.

Saylor played a splendid game by his accurate serving, while Ellis gained many points by volleying. The score according to sets:

Lebanon Valley	2 6 6 6 0 6
Hummelstown	6 3 4 2 6 2

Professor Dodge spent Sunday in Philadelphia.

COLLEGE NEWS

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

W. A. BRUNNER, '11

E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS

W. O. ELLIS, '11

F. R. KENNEDY, '12

CATHARINE E. HERSHY, '12

HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12

S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER

W. A. BRUNNER, '11,

ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS

OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12

PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year

Single Copies 5 cts.

Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to COLLEGE NEWS, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

Who is who, and why? Is the college the primary organization or is the class? Does a man owe his first duty to his Alma Mater or to his class? Should an underclassman be taught class-spirit or college-spirit? These are questions all tending to the same answer, but illustrative of a fact, the importance of which too many students are ignorant.

The next issue of "The College News" will contain an account of an inter-class-contest. The right of supremacy of one class over another, according to college etiquette, is of great import because it is the summum bonum of all underclassmen's aspirations. Here is the point upon which Freshmen are wrongly instructed. In itself the right of supremacy is all well and good, but when it is held higher than the weal of the college, it becomes a dangerous thing. Dangerous because it causes a student first coming under its influences, to become selfish in his views, insolent in his actions, destructive in his habits and weak in his character.

It is true that a Freshman is never blamed for anything that he does and justly so; but it should strike him forcibly, to know that he is expected to work first for the interests of the college that has so graciously taken him under her care. His class interests should not in the least be diminished but rather strengthened.

It is soon evident what attitude a Freshman takes towards this question. Perhaps he is not altogether to be blamed if he goes wrong. But the man who loves college more than class, will submit himself to authority, very promptly. He will not wait to be called upon to carry a varsity man's suit-case to the train when the team leaves, and will be just as prompt to receive them when they return. He will consider it his duty to obey all rules as laid down by the Senior Junior council because it is a recognized authority. The men who come to college, come to be trained, and why should they fail to receive training in that which all men need and few have—respect for authority, or in other words, the true spirit of subordination? We can never lead until we are willing to be led.

The manager of the foot ball field often has to suffer because underclassmen have no conception of college spirit. The field must be lined off; goal posts must be planted and a hundred other things have to be done which an underclassman is so admirably fitted to do because he has not yet been trusted with higher and more weighty duties. These come in their turn.

It is certain that most underclassmen view this matter from a somewhat different angle, and imagine that these duties are thrust upon them for the mere reason that they are underclassmen. This is not the case. There is another and saner reason. Those duties are given to him because it is not quite in keeping to give the management of athletic teams, the editorship of papers and other publications and the chairmanship of committees to Freshmen and Sophmores. We need not go into detail as to just why this is so. It behooves every underclassman not to bethink himself too seriously of his class dignity, but remember that the interests of his college come first and that he who does well those duties given him when an under-classman, will receive the higher and larger duties of an upperclassman.

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

KALOZETEAN

Chorus, Society; Essay, Kipling as a humorist, D. C. Kiester; Humorous Reading, I. L. Ressler; Instrumental Selection, J. F. Reed; Sketch, "Lebanon Bunch;" Humorous Reading, J. W. Ischey; Chorus, Society; Examiner, Editor. Visitors Invited.

CLIONIAN

Piano Duet, Carrie Light, Lizzie Lau; Reading, Edith Lehman; Life Work of Florence Nightingale, Edna Kilmer; Original Stories, Helen Weidler, Clara Horn; Vocal Duet, Edith Gingrich, Ora Bachman; Our Estimate of Mark Twain, Sara Zimmerman; Olive Branch, Editor; Piano Solo, Ruth Engle.

PHILOKOSMIAN

Current Events, J. Maurice Leister; The annexation of Korea by Japan, Lester A. Rhodes; Debate, Resolved: That the government should adopt the parcels-post-system; affirmative, J. C. Shively, J. K. Lehman; negative, John Sherk, J. Edward Marshall; Vocal Solo, L. L. Spessard; Benefits of a Student Benedict, Paul Loser; Living Thoughts, Editor.;

Conservatory Notes and Announcements

The Conservatory Students' Organization met in the auditorium of Engle Hall, Tuesday afternoon, October 11th, 1910, for the first Recital class of the year. Election of the officers was as follows—President, Miss Ora Bachman; Vice President, Mr. Scott Anderson; Secretary, Miss Bertha Spessard; Treasurer, Miss Florence Roland. The program consisted of vocal solos by Misses Roland, Foliz, Emenheiser, Fink, and Mr. Anderson, and piano numbers by Misses K. Gingrich, Kindry, Frantz, Spayd, Weidman, and Gantz.

The recital classes are not open to the public, the purpose being to give students the opportunity of stage experience. Suggestions concerning stage deportment, the introduction of discussions on musical topics, the benefit derived from seeing and hearing how fellow students do things are some of the features of these meetings each month.

COLLEGE NEWS

Items of Interest

Miss Mary Nissley of Middletown, Pa., has returned to college to resume her studies in the art department.

Dr. J. E. Fout of Bonebrake Theological Seminary addressed chapel on Tuesday morning. Dr. Fout represented the Seminary at the East Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania conferences of the U. B. Church.

President Keister attended the Conference at Dallastown.

The students all enjoyed a fire scare on Thursday, as it gave the Professors an excuse to dismiss their classes half hour before time.

H. E. Ulrich, of Harrisburg, has returned to college.

Mr. Artus O. Kauffman '11, is visiting his parents in Dallastown.

Mr. Fred L. Frost '11, spent Sunday with Mr. A. D. Strickler, at Lehigh University.

Mr. Feldman has been called home because of the illness of his mother.

Professor Wanner accompanied the team to Allentown on Saturday.

Miss Florence Clippinger, '13, was in Bristol, Pa., on Wednesday last attending the wedding of her brother, Charles.

Mr. E. E. Yake, ex-'11, was elected Editor-in-chief of the "Epitome" published by the class of 1912 of Lehigh University.

Professor S. H. Derickson who has been sick for some time is again able to be about.

Miss Florence Clippinger, '13, a member of the executive committee of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Pennsylvania Conference, attended the session Thursday evening at Dallastown.

Professor H. E. Spessard, wife and children spent a few days at Chews-ville, Maryland, the home of Mrs. Spessard. Professor Spessard had poultry on exhibit at the great Hagers-town Fair, which won first and fourth prizes for him.

Mr. Paul R. Koontz, '11, spent a few days in York, Pa., and attended some of the sessions of the Pennsylvania Conference at Dallastown.

Miss Grace Smith, '12, Oratory spent Sunday at her home in Reading, Pa.

Paul E. Holdcraft preached in the Christ Lutheran Church at Dallastown on Sunday evening.

A. H. Weige '13 was appointed pastor of the Shepherdstown Church for the next Conference year.

N. B. S. Thomas '12 was appointed pastor of the Mechanicsburg circuit.

Miss Evelyn Weidman spent Saturday and Sunday as the guest of her parents at New Holland.

Professor Sleichter was in Altoona over Sunday as the guest of her sister Miss Rhoda Brandt.

Miss Meeta Dean spent Saturday and Sunday at Penryn Pa., as the guest of her parents.

Miss Evelyn Ely returned on Saturday from her home in Hagerstown, Md., when she was visiting the past week.

Biological Field Club.

The second monthly meeting of the Biological Field Club was held on Wednesday evening of last week. The program which was exceptionally interesting was rendered before a large and interested audience.

Mr. E. A. Spessard who accompanied Professor Derickson and his party to Bermuda several summers ago, gave a short account of how sponges grow and are gathered. He also gave a short description of the structure of a sponge.

Mr. F. R. Kennedy, a native of Jamaica, presented a lecture on several of the most important vegetables and fruits used in that land of the West Indies. Mr. Kennedy is always an interesting and able talker, but his number on this program proved exceptionally interesting. Among many others, he presented the native avole, mango and the coffee plant. Every person who heard him could not help but be filled with a desire to some day visit that land of the Sunny South.

Mr. Lester Spessard read a paper on the Hypnotism of Animals, which threw a great deal of light upon the subject. Since man is biologically an animal, he was to a certain extent included in the discourse. Mr. Spessard gave a clear idea of what hypnotism is and carefully distinguished it from several other psychological phenomena closely allied to it, but quite distinct. He also showed the difference of hypnotism in men and in animals.

Y. M. C. A.

There was an interesting meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon. During the previous meetings held since school opened, the various committees have had the opportunity to present the various phases of our work.

On the past Sunday Mr. Oliver T. Ehrhart, President of the Y. M. C. A., presented a special message to the members present. His Subject was "Strength of Character". He brought out strongly the importance of character building in the real successful life. "Character is what a man is; it is the latent force in our life. We feel one man's presence more than another, because of his character. A foundation is necessary for all struc-

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

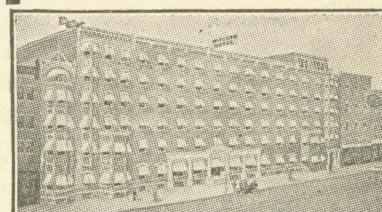

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.
Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

WINDSOR HOTEL

W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.

European, $1.00 per day and up
American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street
Station and Reading Terminal
on Filbert Street.

The only moderate priced hotel of reputation and consequence in PHILADELPHIA

COLLEGE NEWS

tures, so we must have a good basis for character. There are certain principles that we should have, which will stand the test of time." Among the principles mentioned were: Truth, Purity, Will Power, Resolution, Independence and Individuality.

An interesting discussion followed. Mr. Leibold showed that in past history men emphasized strongly, physical bravery and mental power, while to-day spiritual and moral ideals predominate. He showed the great influence of Washington on the character of the nation, and other great men.

Mr. Ritchie brought out the thought that we might have hidden sins that destroy character. If we believe we can hide this influence "we deceive ourselves" for God will see us.

Mr. Saylor gave us some thoughts on the impression of the strong character at Northfield.

Mr. E. Spessard followed with suitable remarks. He said "a college is no stronger than its weakest member and that we should each find out our place in college life. It may be to attend classes regular, to play football or to subscribe to the College news or maybe, all."

Mr. Mullholland made some remarks along the same line showing us that we should take a great example and build a character like Christ.

Mr. Brunner showed how we should follow the lines of duty laid down by our conscience. Character is immortal. We should therefore help to influence some one to a higher plane of living.

Mr. Ehrhart then called attention to the small attendance at these meetings. He urged every man to bring another fellow to the meetings.

Every man in Lebanon Valley College should be present on Sunday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. The Y. M. C. A. is the place where character is built. Do you want us to help you on your foundation? If you do, then come.

Buy a Ticket

On Thursday evening, Oct. 20th, the Clonian Literary Society will present in Engle Conservatory, a highly entertaining comedy in three acts called "Breezy Point."

Prepartions for this play were begun before the close of the college term last spring. The girls in the caste have put a great deal of time on it and being under the excellent instruction of Mrs. Eby, professor of Oratory, they will without doubt make it one of the most enjoyable presentations of the year.

The play has been a great success wherever it has been given. It is of a high class and full of rich humor. Let everybody come and enjoy a laugh. Don't fail to be present. Remember the date, Thursday Oct. 20.

Occasionally a man does the right thing at the right time.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.

Group System.

Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology

Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

*Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.*

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision of Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute

Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The Spalding TRADE MARK

Is known throughout the world as a

Guarantee of Quality

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of
Official Equipment
For All Athletic Sports and Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS' FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.

Students' Discount Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute SCHOOL of ENGINEERING

ESTABLISHED 1824
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical

TROY, N.Y.
Send for a Catalogue.

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA.

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, October 25, 1910

No. 5

FOOT BALL

L. V. Outplays Gettysburg in the Inaugural Game, Although She Loses 24-0

What was, to the writers mind, the hardest fought game of the season thus far, was played last Thursday at Gettysburg before 800 spectators. The game was marred by many injuries, three of our boys being carried off the field. Capt. Lehman won the toss and chose the east goal as his to defend. Capt. Aldinger kicked off and Hertzler ran the ball back for a gain of 15 yards. Our boys gained consecutively and were within 15 yards of our goal when Wilson was layed out. This weakened our offence to such an extend that Gettysburg held us for downs. Lehman tried a field goal but failed. Gettysburg then took the ball on our 25 yard line and rushed it through for the first score. Gettysburg with old style football gained steadily through our line and advanced the pigskin to our 15 yard line. Here injuries necessitated the removal of Loser from our line with a badly wrenched knee. 12-0 ended the first quarter. Second quarter the same sad tale is to be told, our boys being up against too heavy a team to stop the onslaught of their more burly opponents and so the second quarter ended with the score 18-0.

In the third and fourth quarters our boys came back strong, although Charlton was out of the game entirely, which again weakened our line. L. V. held their opponents for downs twice within their one yard line. Here again L. V. was within 15 yards of her goal. Forrest tried a field goal but missed by three unlucky inches. In the fourth quarter coach Veil ran in new men against our exhausted eleven. Gettysburg again scored making the score 24-0. What the fellows need most is encouragement and not in a verbal form, but by coming out and giving them good hard scrimmage. Let a good bunch report this week so as to round out the team and put them in top notch condition for the Indians on Saturday. Let us prove the white man's superiority by defeating the redskins on Saturday. The line-up was as follows: Kreider, right end; Paul Loser, right tackle; Biever, right guard; Marshall, center; Kennedy, left guard; Charlton, Harnish, left tackles; Hays, left end; Light, right half; Lehman, Capt., full back; Wilson, Erb, left half; Frost, Forrest, quarter back.

Star Course

The Star Course committee of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. has contracted for an excellent series of entertainments to be held at different periods of the year from Oct., 29, 1910, to March 20, 1911 inclusive. It has been the aim to increase the popularity of the course and to strengthen its quality. The committee feels free to announce that they have procured the best entertainers the agency offers.

Tickets are now on sale. Season ticket, $1.00 each; single tickets, 35 cents each. All are expected to help the cause along by purchasing one or more season tickets.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon, was led by Miss Lizzie Lau. The subject was "Our Savior's Greatest Promise." The leader commented upon it in an interesting and helpful way but there was not very much general discussion on the subject. Every girl in the association should show her interest by being present and taking an active part in the meetings.

Calendar.

Wednesday, October 26, 7 p. m.—Mathematical Round Table.

Friday, October 28, 7:15 p. m.—Societies.

Saturday, October 29, —3 p. m., Football, Lebanon Valley vs. Indian Reserves; 7:45 p. m., Star Course, Strickland W. Gillilan.

Sunday, October 30—1 p. m., Christian associations.

Monday October 31—8 p. m., Hallow'en Party.

Tuesday, November 1—6 p. m., Students' Prayer Meeting.

Alumni

Rev. G. I. Rider, '05, pastor of Grace U. B. Church, Hagerstown, Md., visited friends in Annville over Sunday, and led the devotions in Chapel on Monday morning.

Rev. W. H. Washinger, D.D., '91, was re-elected superintendent of the Pennsylvania Conference at the Dallas-town sessions. Dr. Washinger has held this position ever since the Conference was formed into one district. The progress of the churches under his jurisdiction during this time are the best testimonials of his ability and success. By his efforts the highest salary limit in the entire church was obtained for the ministers of the Pennsylvania Conference. The "News" congratulates Dr. Washinger, and wishes him great success.

Hon. S. C. Huber, '92, of Tama, Iowa, is running for Congressman on the Democratic ticket in the present campaign. Mr. Huber was principle of the high school and also superintendent of the city schools. In 1896

(Continued on page 4)

COLLEGE NEWS

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
W. A. BRUNNER, '11
E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS
W. O. ELLIS, '11
F. R. KENNEDY, '12
CATHERINE E. HERSHHEY, '12
HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12
S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER
W. A. BRUNNER, '11,
ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS
OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12
PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year
Single Copies 5 cts.
Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to COLLEGE NEWS, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

If you can't help conditions at school don't make the atmosphere foul by your continual grumbling. Bad eggs can do as much.

The conditions of athletics at Lebanon Valley may at times seem rather discouraging, but we have no reason to despair. Every cloud has a silver lining, and indications are that this side will soon be turned. We are not first in athletics, but considering the way in which we are handicapped by indifference among those who should lead in spirit, we on the average, make a good showing among the small colleges of our state, with whom we have athletic relations.

There is one field however in which we are proud to say we stand second to none. There is one phase of college life existing here that has been praised from convention platforms in every section of our state. This is our Y. M. C. A.

At the President's Convention held at State College last spring our President was made chairman of the policy committee which is the most important committee of the convention. Our Association furnished one of the four bands of men who under the auspices of the State Association did religious work among the Lumber Jacks the past summer. During the past year we have organized and successfully conducted a school for foreigners, in which more than twenty foreign speaking men are taught, by the most modern methods, the use of the English language. As a direct result of which two men have received their naturalization papers.

The progressive spirit which our Association has shown toward all such movements which have for their goal the extension of our power and influence for good led the Ex-State Secretary, Mr. Kohler, to call ours the most representative college association of the state.

This, then, is a phase of college life of which we can be proud. Our association stands as a power and should enlist the services of all the fellows who wish to make their lives count in the great battle for reform and civic righteousness that is sweeping over our country. In every college there are certain peculiar conditions which tend to make the atmosphere of the district from all other institutions, and Lebanon Valley has her full share. Our societies and their organizations tend to divide our male student body against itself, and if no opposing force was offered might work to our detriment if not our ruin. The Y. M. C. A. happily offers just the force needed to bind us in one solid mass. Here the fellows can meet on common ground and discuss without reserve all the questions which perplex and annoy them. These heart to heart expressions tend to cheer, comfort, and inspire. They clear our atmosphere and cast into the backgrounds all the pretty jealousies which may arise from class and society differences. They sweeten life for all.

No other organization should command more respect or a larger following, for in serving it we serve all. In advancing its standard we lift our whole institution to a higher plane of service and extend her influence to those quarters where it is most needed. Let every student pledge himself to offer his best efforts this most worthy cause.

Prof. H. E. Wanner witnessed the Lebanon Valley-Gettysburg game at Gettysburg on Thursday.

Breezy Point

The first performance of the year proved to be a great success when the members of the Clonian Literary Society presented "Breezy Point," a play in three acts, to a large and appreciative audience in Engle Conservatory on Thursday evening Oct. 20th., 1910. This play was given for the benefit of the Clio Society under the direction of Lillian Cairns Eby. The first act captivated the audience and the latter two kept up the interest to the very last and the audience departed very much pleased with the rendition.

All of the characters were extremely interesting. Cast of characters follows:

Aunt Debby Dexter, Mistress of Breezy Point, Edna Yarkers; Elinor Pearl, of unknown parentage, Edith Lehman; Ashrael Grant, a maid of all work, Lottie Spessard; Mrs. Hardscratches, with business propensities, Bertha Spessard; The Hardscratches Twins, who "never tell nothin'," Ora Bachman, Edith Gingrich; Mehitable Doolittle, Manufacture of catarrh snuff and bitters, Grace Smith; Bernice Veron, Carrie Light; Laura Lehigh, Clara Horn; Edith Norton, Florence Christeson; Clarice Fenleigh, Elizabeth Lau; (Aunt Debby's Summer Boarders) Fantine, Miss Vernon's French Maid, Verda Snyder; Old Clem, the Gypsy, Helen Brightbill.

Rev. Daugherty Weds

Rev. Raymond P. Daugherty, '97, principal of Albert Academy and well known at the college, was married recently in Dayton Ohio, to Miss Lulu Landis, daughter of Rev. J. P. Landis of Bonebrake Theological Seminary.

Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty arrived in Lebanon last week and will spend some time visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Daugherty. The couple will remain east until some time in December, when they leave for Africa, where Rev. Daugherty will resume his work.

A Correction

In a recent issue of this paper, the name of Rev. Shoop appeared with the class numeral '12. We beg leave to correct the error, Rev. Shoop is a member of the class, of 1911.

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

PHILOKOSMIAN

Current Events, Henry Kreider; Theodore Roosevelt as the advocate of the Strenuous Life, A. H. Weigle; Debate, Resolved: That the national party lines should be abolished in municipal elections, affirmative, Edward Kreider, Paul R. Koontz; Negative, C. C. Smith, W. C. Shoop; Vocal Solo, E. A. Spessard; Woodrow Wilson, G. A. Richie.

CLIONIAN

An evening with Robert Burns. Instrumental solo, Evelyn Weidman; Sketch of Burn's Life, Blanch Risser; Selection from Burns, Kathryn Clouser; quartet, "Bonnie Doone," Edith Lehman, Florence Clippinger, Lottie Spessard, Helen Brightbill; essay, Burns, the Man, Sara Zimmerman; vocal solo, "John Anderson, My Joe John," Verda Snyder; essay, Burns, the Poet, Forence Clippinger; selection, "O Wert Thou in a Could Blast" quartet; reading, "Cotter's Saturday Night," Helen Weidler; chorus, Auld Lang Syne, society.

KALOZETEAN

Happenings of the week, Edgar Landis; My Idea of Football, W. D. Biever; chorus, society; Debate, Resolved: That Lebanon Valley should have a track team this year, affirmative, Paul Strickler and F. L. Frost; negative, Warren Hayes and Edward Mutch; The World's Championship Series, John Lyter; original poem, Paul Holdcraft; chorus, society.

ALUMNI NOTES

Continued from page 1

he was admitted to the county bar, and has enjoyed a large practice. He is now serving his third term as county attorney of Tama county. "The Tama News" says: "The district will be well represented if he is elected to congress, and his consistency will have a representative upon whom they can depend."

Miss Violet Prout, '09, Conservatory, was the guest of Miss Edith Frantz, of Lebanon on Thursday and Friday.

Misses Lucy Seltzer, '10, and Sallie Kreider, '08, of Lebanon, witnessed "Breezy Point," at the college on Thursday.

Dr. M. W. Brunner, '01, Rev. S. Edwin Rupp, '01, spent Thursday fishing at the Swatara Creek.

Nelle Reed, '04, who was one of the cottage matrons at the Philadelphia girl house of Refuge for the past year, sailed Oct. 22nd for Ponce, Porto Rico, where she will spend the winter with her sister.

Professor A. Bender, '06, and Miss LaVerne Keister, of Brooklyn, attended the Yale-Army game at West Point on Saturday Oct. 15th.

Dr. George W. Hursh, '77, Newville, Pa. died recently.

Professor J. T. Spangler, D.D., '90, of Mt. Joy, visited friends at the college on last Friday.

Roy J. Guyer, '08, former foot ball coach at Lebanon Valley, is at present physical director in the railroad Y. M. C. A. at Marshalltown, Iowa.

The following alumni subscriptions have been received during the past week; D. E. Weidler, '09, Anderson, Ind. J. T. Yoder, '10, Southampton, N. Y., Allen Rutherford, '10, Baltimore, Md. and H. K. Bomberger, '10, Ligonier, Pa.

Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Imboden, both of the class of 1899, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., are spending the week with his parents in Lebanon.

Y. M. C. A.

Although the meeting on Sunday afternoon was not as well attended as some previous meetings, there was, nevertheless, a deep spiritual tone manifested. Mr. Brunner presented his subject in an able and earnest manner. In "Apparent Failures in the Christian Life," he showed that success in the Christian life "was not attained by sudden flight," but by striving for the happy medium in our lives, and by being lenient in our judging of others. Two principles were presented. First, look to our own experience and see what it may mean to us, and second, look at the other fellows. If our own ideal in life is further away at the end than the beginning of our lives, we should not think we are apparent failures. If we strive after the best, our lives will not have been spent in vain. An interesting discussion followed the address.

Items of Interest

A. O. Kauffman, '11, visited L. A. Rodes, '14, at his home in Wormleysburg over Sunday.

Miss Edna Yarkers, '13, was the guest of Miss Carrie Light, '12, at Jonestown over Sunday.

P. R. Koontz, '11, preached in the Hebron U. B. Church, Lebanon, on Sunday morning.

O. T. Ehrhart, '11, and V. D. Mulhollen, '13, attended the cornerstone laying at the new U. B. Church at Jonestown on Sunday.

Dr. Lawrence Keister attended the inaugural ceremonies at Gettysburg on Thursday. He was one of the many college presidents and representatives attending.

Many people from Lebanon and vicinity attended the play given by the Clonian Literary Society on Thursday evening.

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

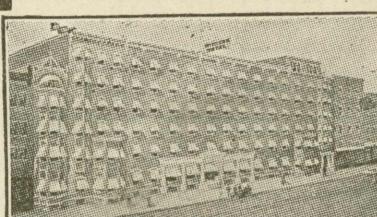

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

WINDSOR HOTEL

W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.
European, $1.00 per day and up
American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street
Station and Reading Terminal
on Filbert Street.

The only moderate priced hotel of
reputation and consequence in PHILADELPHIA

COLLEGE NEWS

Rev. B. F. Musselman, a missionary from Africa, preached in the local U. B. Church on Sunday morning.

The men who were injured in the Gettysburg game are slowly improving. Harry Charlton, '14, is still confined to his room with his ankle sprain.

Frank Shearer, '13, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents in Harrisburg.

Forrest Hensel, '12, Oliver Butterwick, '12, and George Zullinger, '14, were in Harrisburg on Saturday afternoon.

Ralph Riegle spent Sunday in Millersburg as the guest of his mother.

Coach Forrest and Harry Bender spent Saturday and Sunday attending a house party at Mt. Gretna.

Donald Keister, '12, and Josiah F. Reed, '12, accompanied by Misses Edith Morrison, '14, and Catharine Hershey, '12, took an automobile trip to Gettysburg on Thursday, where they witnessed the Lebanon Valley-Gettysburg foot ball game.

The following students witnessed the game Thursday at Gettysburg: Hummel, '14, Curry, '14, Riegle, Ressler, '12, and Dunlap.

O. T. Ehrhart, '11, was recently appointed pastor of the Hebron U. B. Church, Lebanon, after the resignation of the pastor appointed at the Conference. Dr. Lowery, superintendent of the conference, made the appointment.

Ministerial Association

The regular meeting of the College Ministerial Association was held last Thursday evening with a good attendance. Routine business was transacted and three new members added to the association. S. G. Zeigler, '11, read an interesting and instructive paper on the subject, "What the Minister Demands of the Laity." A general discussion followed. Rev. D. E. Long, Field Secretary of the College, will address the next meeting when a full attendance is desired.

Attention

The value of the prestige our college offers to her sons and daughters increases in the same proportion as her fame. Her strength increases in the same ratio. Every alumnus and student of Lebanon Valley owes her a debt which can be met in one and only one way. Subscribe for the "News." Help her by securing advertisements. Let every friend of Lebanon Valley rally to the support of her only paper, the COLLEGE NEWS.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.

Group System.

Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology

Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision of Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute

Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

If you want Good Engraving

Try the

Electric City Engraving
Company Buffalo, N. Y.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The Spalding TRADE MARK

Is known throughout the world as a

Guarantee of Quality

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of
Official Equipment
For All Athletic Sports and Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS' FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.

Students' Discount Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
ESTABLISHED 1824
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.
Send for a Catalogue.

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA

SANDERS ENGRAVING CO.
DESIGNING AND ILLUSTRATING
Photo-Engraving
711 LINDEN ST. ALLENSTOWN, PA.

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, November 1, 1910

No. 6

Faculty Loses Honored Member

MRS. EBY RESIGNS AS HEAD OF ORATORY DE- PARTMENT

The NEWS regrets to announce the resignation of Mrs. Lillian Cairns Eby as Director of the department of Oratory and Public speaking. Notice was given last week owing to a call coming to Rev J. A. Eby to serve as pastor of the First U. B. Church, Los Angeles, California.

The report that the work in Oratory will be discontinued or carried under inferior conditions is altogether unfounded. President Keister has requested Mrs. Eby to procure another Emerson graduate to fill the vacancy, and thus continue the present system which has proved itself so valuable during the past year. Just when this resignation will take effect has not been published, but it is understood that the new director will take charge before Mrs. Eby leaves for California, and the present senior class in Oratory will graduate as intended.

The next issue of the NEWS will announce the exact date when Mr. J. W. Ischy will present his Senior recital. Mr. Ischy will read a cutting from J. G. Hollands "Seven Oaks," and will be assisted by the other members of the Senior Class. Nearly a year has been spent in preparation for this recital which will require between an hour and an hour and a half in rendition. The other member of the Senior class will give recitals at times stated later.

Prof. H. E. Wanner, head of the Department of Chemistry and Physics, was in Philadelphia on Saturday where he witnessed the Penn-Indian foot ball game.

Lebanon Valley Loses Again

Lebanon Valley again went down to defeat at the hands of the redskins to the tune of 20 to 5. During the first quarter the Indians were out played and Lebanon Valley pushed the ball across the line for a touchdown but failed the goal. At the end of the quarter Harnish, centre, and Hensel, right tackle were taken out because of injuries. During the second quarter the Indians rallied and scored a field goal. Lebanon Valley's line was very much weakened by the substitutions but the Indians were held for downs when the first half ended.

During the third quarter the Indians pushed the ball twice across the line, Johnny Jon, Carlisle's full-back made a forty yard end run for a touch down. During the third quarter the Indians scored another touchdown. Captain Lehman did excellent punting for Lebanon Valley, his throwing of forward passes against a strong wind was a feature of the game. Hayes and Marshall were also in the game to the finish, and did fine tackling.

The game was fast. Lebanon Valley played an open game while the Indians frequently resorted to the old line plunges. Both teams were frequently penalized. During the first half the Indians were defeated but the last half showed that the redskins had the greater power of endurance.

The results of the game were not what we should like to have seen. Our team played an excellent game, circumstances considered. We should like to have a winning team and all of our defeats are exceptionally disappointing to us, the student body, for we feel that our team is doing the very best it can, when those highest in authority, who should encourage athletics, are opposing them with and main.

Calendar.

Tuesday, Nov. 1, 6 p. m. Prayer meeting.

Wednesday, Nov. 2, 2 p. m. Meeting of Woman's Board at home of Mrs. Keister.

Thursday, Nov. 3, 6 p. m. Ministerial Association.

Friday, Nov. 4, 7:15 p. m. Societies.

Sunday, Nov. 6, 1 p. m. Christian Associations.

Star Course

The first number of the Star Course was rendered on Saturday evening in Engle Hall.

There was a good attendance from the school and town.

Strickland W. Gillilan proved himself to be a humorist indeed. He treated topics that were close to life in a pleasant way. His manner was natural and he left a wholesome effect with his audience. In every way this number was a success.

Alumni

Born to Professor and Mrs. C. B. Pennypacker, a son. Mrs. Pennypacker was a member of the class of '93.

Professor N. C. Schlihter, '97, spent a few hours, between trains, calling on friends in Annville on Wednesday afternoon.

Judge and Mrs. C. V. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Kreider and Mrs. Gideon R. Kreider took an automobile trip through the New England States. Mrs. Henry graduated in '92.

Rev. R. E. Morgan, '08, laid the cornerstone at the Jonestown U. B. Church, on Sunday Oct. 23.

(Continued on page 4)

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by the students of Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
W. A. BRUNNER, '11
E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS
W. O. ELLIS, '11
F. R. KENNEDY, '12
CATHERINE E. HERSHEY, '12
HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12
S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER
W. A. BRUNNER, '11,
ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS
OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12
PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year
Single Copies 5 cts.
Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to Room 19, Administration Building Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa.

SMILE!!!

Pay your college bills.

Strange how many married people are found at L. V. C.

Many are the problems which are confronting the American people today. Great questions are assuming greater magnitude in politics, in religion, and in every phase of life. Thousands of young men and women are in the colleges of our land, training for leadership to help to make the existing conditions better. And to whom can the world look with greater hope and expectation than to the college trained man or woman? It is the college graduate who is expected to be able to meet problem after problem, bringing his solutions with him. On him in a few short years will the people place the great responsibility of public trust. To him will the people look for judgment, tact and management.

In a few days the voters of our country will be going to the polls to cast their votes for their choice of candidates to rule the states, and to represent them in the national Legislature. Many are the issues of the present campaign which draw the attention of the intelligent voter. None among them are of greater importance than the great evil of the liquor traffic. The solving of this problem has been of the utmost importance for a number of years, but the correct solution is apparently yet to be found. Attempts are being made which are partly successful, but still remain too weak to be effective in the national campaign.

Reforms were wrought in various foreign countries by the uprising of the students of the colleges and universities. In like manner the opposition to the rum traffic is being brought before the American college students, not only through the national party, but through the effective work and organization of the Collegiate Prohibition Leagues. Their purpose is to acquaint college men more fully with the real conditions, and through their work, to furnish to the public the knowledge of what harm the saloon is doing to the American youth today. They attempt through their organizations to make the public see more clearly the vice, the murder, the misery and the poverty which the presence of the saloon necessitates.

An effective way of doing this is in the annual State Oratorial Contests between representatives of the Collegiate Prohibition Leagues throughout the State. Each contestant chooses some phase of the liquor problem as the subject of his oration. These orations, for the best of which, a prize of fifty dollars is given, are delivered at a public entertainment at some college in the state. We are glad to say that the representative from Lebanon Valley succeeded in winning first prize in last year's contest, which was the first in which we were represented. Lebanon Valley will also entertain the State Oratorical contest and Convention of Collegiate Prohibition Leagues next April. This is a chance for every college in Pennsylvania to show the strength of its department of public speaking, and also to present to the people greater light on the subject which should be extremely important to them. College men need the information as well as the regular citizens, and this is a splendid way to show the strength and power of the vast student body of our state and the United States. Let every College in Pennsylvania take interest in the work of the Collegiate Prohibition League, and by so doing, assist in strengthening both Church and State.

With the success with which these leagues have been meeting, it is becoming more and more apparent that the solution of the liquor problem is one which is dependent largely on the College students. With the increase of their knowledge of the existing evils of this great curse their responsibility for its defeat also increases. It is, therefore, the duty of every student to exert the greatest possible influence to free our nation from the vilest and most destructive curse which has ever come upon the American people.

Tug of War

About a week ago, the sophomore and freshmen classes pulled the rope on the athletic field. The performance was not as exciting and interesting as is usual on those occasions.

The halves were five minutes in length. The sophomores scored the first point and had practically won the second when the pistol closing the first half was fired. But it was quite evident at this time which of the two was sustaining its strength. For some reason the sophomores were completely exhausted and having no men to put in as substitutes, they had to open up the second half with a body of disabled men.

This half the freshman consequently walked away with the sophomores. One man after the other dropped out of the ranks of the latter and finally they were pulling with seven men against ten.

Judging from the standard of such contests, it was entirely fair and the freshmen justly won their hard earned victory. The score at the finish was 7-1.

One thing alone served to cast disrepute on the event of the day. The freshman having conquered and also disabled the sophomores, were not content until they had mobbed the latter as they hobbled home from their field in the evening. "This was the most unkindest cut of all." In civilized warfare in which both opponents are intelligent and rational beings, it is customary to respect the wounded and vanquished.

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

CLIONIAN

Vocal Solo, Grace Smith; German, French Dialogue, Madamoiselle Weidler, Fraulien Lehman; Humorous Reading, Edith McCurdy; Piano Trio, Edna Kilmer, Edna Yarkers, Nellie Seltzer; Impersonation, Edith Gingrich; Sketch, Lottie Spessard, Mary Spayd; Whistling Quartet, Evelyn Weidman, Maud Kerschner, Ruth Engle, Ruth E. Engle; Olive Branch, Editor.

PHILOKOSMIAN

Resume—The Religious World, W. L. Murray; Benefits of Denominational Colleges, M. G. Holtzman; Debate: Resolved: That Commerce has done more to contribute Western Civilization to the Orient than Christian Missions. Affirmative, L. B. Harnish, L. L. Spessard; Negative, R. B. Saylor, T. J. Leibold; Piano Duette, Paul, and Earl Loser; The Devil, who is he? A. O. Kauffman; Living Thoughts, Editor.

KALOZETEAN

Current Events, Herman George; Essay, P. R. Gibble; Chorus, society; Debate: Resolved that there should be a chapter of a National fraternity at L. V. C.; Affirmative, I. L. Ressler, C. Y. Ulrich, Negative, C. G. White, Paul Young; Quartette; Original Story, William Dunlap; Examiner.

Conservatory Recital

The first of a series of public recitals given by the Conservatory pupils was held last Thursday evening. The selections were all carefully prepared and well rendered. The students and public are urged to attend these recitals. The program of last week's recital follows:

Leschetizky, Arabesque, pianoforte, Mary Spayd; Mildenberg, The Voilet, song, Scott Anderson; Schutt, Capriccioso, pianoforte, Ruth Engle; Hawley, The Sweetest Flower, song, Eva Foltz; Bach, Fantasia in C minor, pianoforte, E. May Meyer; Low, Brilliant Walzer, two pianos, M. Diehm and E. Gingrich; Tostio, La Serenata, song, Florence Roland; Moszkowsky, Moment Musical, Op. 7, No. 2, pianoforte, Scott Anderson; Poldini, Marche Mignonne, pianoforte, Ora Bachman; Neidlinger, Parting, vocal duet, E. Gingrich and E. Foltz; Poldini, Etude Japonaise, pianoforte, Ruth Detweiler; Reinhold, Impromptu, pianoforte, Katie Gingrich; Smart, Hunting Song, double quartet, Mrs. Sheldon, Misses E. Gingrich, L. Spessard Brown, Messrs. Anderson, Frost, Botts and Hays.

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting on Sunday afternoon was led by Miss Edith Lehman. She presented her subject in a very earnest manner, emphasizing strongly that the college girl has innumerable opportunities and that God demands of her, her best service.

The girls manifested a deep interest and readily took part in the general discussion.

Y. M. C. A.

F. R. Kennedy led the meeting on Sunday afternoon. His subject was "Higher Experiences." In his talk the speaker brought out the need for such experiences in our daily life.

If we wish to grow in grace we must enjoy those moments of communion with the creator. Prayer is a great factor in our life. Christ and Paul had need of prayer. Three great characters in Christian history have given us the secret of their power. Christ prayed. He had to meet his disciples in the upper chamber, apart from the crowd, in order to gain greater spiritual power. Paul was a man of prayer. Thus you see if these men had to experience the higher things of life, it would seem necessary for the College Students to strive after the "higher Experiences" also.

Mathematical Round Table

The second monthly meeting of the mathematical Round Table was held on Wednesday evening in Professor Lehman's recitation room. The attendance was good and the program intensely interesting.

R. B. Saylor read a carefully prepared paper on the metric system. A. O. Kauffman demonstrated clearly various methods for solving second degree equations. Both gentleman had their material well in hand and presented it in a pleasing way. A lively discussion followed.

Hollow-een Party

The Philokosmian Literary Society gave their annual Hallow-een party on Monday evening. The guests assembled in the assembly room of the Library from which place they were ushered by two masked men to the Kreider house opposite the old mill south of town. The house had been appropriately decorated with fodder, cabbage, pumpkins, leaves and all those things which tended to give the true old Hallow-een atmosphere to the place, to say nothing of apples, cider and pumpkins pies, the kind that mother used to make.

Several old fashioned sports such as diving for apples, fortune telling etc, furnished amusements for all while a pianola enlivened the occasion with music. After enjoying themselves for several hours the guests departed well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

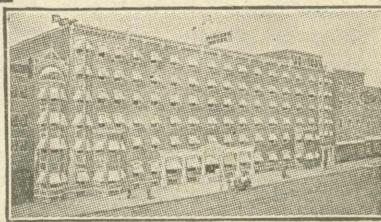

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

WINDSOR HOTEL

W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.

European, $1.00 per day and up
American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street
Station and Reading Terminal
on Filbert Street.

The only moderate priced hotel of
reputation and consequence in PHILADELPHIA

ALUMNI NOTES

Continued from page 1

Miss Edna D. Yeatts, '09, who is teaching in the public schools of York, Pa., arrived at Annville, on Saturday, and is spending several days, visiting friends at college.

Miss Myrtle Garret, '10, of Hummelstown, attended the Hallow-een party on Monday evening.

Miss Alma Light, '99, and Mrs. Shroyer, '00, were present at the Hallow-een party on Monday evening.

Items of Interest

Miss Daisy Kline, '14, was a visitor in Philadelphia on Saturday and while there witnessed the Penn-India foot ball game.

Samuel Ziegler, '11, was tendered a reception by his congregation at Duncannon.

Mrs. Brown from Westerly Rhode Island, is visiting her daughter Miss Brown, Prof. of voice, Conservatory.

Miss Elizabeth Meckley of Hummelstown renewed her acquaintances at the college by attending the Hallow-een party.

R. B. Saylor, '11, is teaching in the Lebanon High Schools for some time filling a vacancy caused by sickness.

Chester E. Rettew, '12, has been elected to fill the pulpit at Mt. Etna, every Sunday.

Prof. and Mrs. Derickson were visitors in Harrisburg on Friday.

The staff of the Bizarre, '12, are requesting the various organizations for certain material needed in the preparation of their annual. This should receive the immediate attention of the people or organizations addressed. Promptness is not only a matter of courtesy to the management of the Bizarre but will bring better satisfaction to the persons or organizations concerned. Here is a good chance to show a little Christian charity, for be assured that the proposition before the staff is hard enough without you by your carelessness rendering it more difficult.

The Philokosmian Literary Society at their regular business sessions Fir-day evening elected the following officers for the ensuing term.

President, W. C. Shoop; Vice President, Guy Wingerd; Critic, O. T. Ehrhart; Chaplain, N. B. S. Thomas; Rec. Secretary, Titus J. Leibold; Cor. Secretary, John E. Sherk; Pianist, Earl G. Loser; Janitor, I. K. Potter; 1st. Ass't. Janitor, L. B. Harnish; 2nd. Ass't. Janitor, Lester A. Rodes.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.

Group System.

Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology

Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision of Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue

Nat'l Telegraph Institute

Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

If you want Good
Engraving

Try the

Electric City Engraving
Company Buffalo, N. Y.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
ESTABLISHED 1824
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
Send for a Catalogue. TROY, N.Y.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The
Spalding
TRADE MARK

Is known throughout the world as a

Guarantee of Quality

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of

Official Equipment For All Athletic Sports and Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS'
FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.

Students' Discount Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and
Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA

The CHAS. H. ELLIOTT COMPANY

The Largest College Engraving House in the World

Commencement Invitations
Class Day Programs and
Class Pins

Dance Programs and Invitations
Menus
Leather Dance Cases and Covers

Fraternity and Class Inserts for Annuals
Fraternity and Class Stationery

Wedding Invitations and Calling Cards
WORKS—17th STREET and LEHIGH AVENUE Philadelphia.

Represented at L. V. C. by
W. ALBERT BRUNNER

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, November 8, 1910

No. 7

Freshmen Banquet

SOPHS LOOK ON WHILE "FRESHIES" DEPART FOR PLACE OF FESTIVITY

The class of 1914 of Lebanon Valley College held its first great celebration in the form of a banquet at the Metropolitan Hotel, Harrisburg, on Wednesday evening Nov. 2 with everyone of its thirty four members present, while the Sophs were chagrined at their inability to break up the banquet or even to keep some of the "Freshies" away. Miss Ella Brightbill was the chaperon of the party.

The Sophs were wise, and it was only after a great deal of manoevering that the whole class reached Harrisburg and were safely housed at the "Met."

The banquet had long been arranged for and it was hard to keep thirty-four tongues quiet; as a result the Sophs got information of the affair and they determined to prevent some of the Freshmen from attending.

When Tuesday evening came and night had fallen, the "Freshies" suddenly disappeared. Some went to Palmyra and Hershey, from whence they were to go to Harrisburg on the following morning. The Sophs shadowed them but failed to capture anyone. Next morning the Sophs arrived at Lebanon to hold up any "Freshies" that might be found in the city and eight strong, located three of them at one of the city's hotels. The Freshmen called on the renowned Lebanon police to escort them to the P. & R. station and see them safely off. The Sophs boarded the same train and at Annville received another reinforcement but at Palmyra they gave up their plans and left the train. The remaining Freshmen were

(Continued on page 2)

Calendar.

Tuesday evening—6:00 p. m. Students Prayer meeting.

Thursday—7:45 p. m. Oratory Recital.

Friday afternoon, foot ball, Mt. St. Mary's vs. L. V. at Emmitsburg. 7:15 p. m. Societies.

Ministerial Association

FIELD SECRETARY OF COLLEGE MAKES SPLENDID ADDRESS

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the College Ministerial Association was held last Wednesday evening at the home of W. C. Shoop, '11, on College Avenue. A large number of members attended and enjoyed one of the best meetings of the year. After the regular business was transacted, Rev. D. E. Long, Field Secretary of the College made a splendid address and conducted a conference on "The Present Ministry." He said in part, "Preparation for the Ministry should be made along three distinct lines, spiritually, physically, and intellectually. The ministers of our church should be trained in our own colleges and seminary, for men with such a training are given the preference. In service the minister must be extremely practical; the sermons, clear, plain and brief. Socially and spiritually the minister's life must be unselfishly lived for others."

The next meeting will be held Nov. 17, at the home of Charles White, '12, on Maple street.

"In England," says Dr. A. H. Fairchild of Missouri University, "one student in five takes part in some form of athletics, while in America, statistics show only one in fifty taking part in active college sports."

Touches

PRESIDENT KEISTER POINTS OUR COLLEGE IDEALS

College life has been called ideal. It flourishes in a little world of its own with all the conditions for excellence of character and scholarship, the best teachers and also best students who are interested and absorbed by their work, the great themes of thought that belong to the higher levels of life, and unknown for bidding each one to prepare for it.

Why should not college life be ideal? Ideal in its aims, in its conditions, in its products?

Its proper product is personality of the best type. Scholarship shines in personality but it is secondary. The man is more than the student for the student becomes the man. The man is the greater and must be scholarly and moral and social and religious in order to be his best.

Personality shows in little acts like laughter, be it coarse or refined, open or restrained. It shows in our table manners, by haste or appropriate deliberation. It is said the American people are a race of train-catchers. But the student should rise above his race and be duly deliberate at the dining hall. Life is made up of little things even in the ideal world of the college. Personality is marred by dog-ears of carelessness which shows more plainly where personality is the proper product of the forces there active.

Shall we lose sight of these little things, these touches that tell of the man, his scholarship, his essential refinement, his ideal nature responding rightly to ideal conditions?

"The mind has a thousand eyes,
And the heart but one;
Yet the light of a whole life dies
When its love is gone."

COLLEGE NEWS

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by the students of Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

W. A. BRUNNER, '11

E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS

W. O. ELLIS, '11

F. R. KENNEDY, '12

CATHARINE E. HERSHEY, '12

HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12

S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER

W. A. BRUNNER, '11,

ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS

OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12

PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year

Single Copies 5 cts.

Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to Room 19, Administration Building Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

A student body is a most unique and peculiar mass of persons and must be treated and governed according to the standard of principles of student-life in general as exemplified in the particular nation in which it exists.

As we recognize certain peculiar traits that are native to country-folk, city-folk or any class of persons who have their own peculiar environments and are isolated to a certain degree from other classes, so must we admit that in the more particular sense such conditions of etiquette, law and desires do also necessarily present themselves. In words that will suit our purpose better, a student who has any sense whatever of his powers and purposes cannot be expected to act as an archbishop or a pope would under the same circumstances. And yet, if he does not, immediately upon donning his verdancy, manifest some remarkable extend of inherent piety and saintliness, he is branded as a rebel and a degenerate fool.

If we compare conditions at home and at college we will not need to use much brain matter to discriminate the difference. Every student loves the warmth and good cheer of his home fire-side, and the affectionate ties formed there are only bound closer about his own heart when he feels the first wild and romantic impulses of college-life. Gradually he sees life from another piont of view. His desires begin to change. The monotony of his life seeks digression and amusement which must necessarily be new.

If nothing presents itself for his entertainment, he immediately creates something. Thus, he begins to think and act for himself and should we down him at once, if he sometimes goes wrong?

At college the man first learns that he is expected to be a leader among men. Now it is that he is aware that college students and college professors are not gods. The psychological disturbances that then sway him back and forth need not be recounted here. We have all experienced them. Suffice it to say that the student is no more an ape but a self-thinking, self-willed and partially intelligent creature. That was just the aim in bringing him within the classic halls of wisdom. Now since a man has once reached such a degree of enlightenment what else are we to suppose than as a necessary concomitant he will sometimes clash with authority.

But in clashing we must remember that there are two sides. We have thought of but one here. Authority may also have evolutionary experiences and when such is the case it is best for both student-body and authority to clearly understand each other. Each should welcome reason. Deliberation nourishes kidnness; obstinacy creates disgust and treason.

Whatever may be the grievances of authority or student-body at Lebanon Valley, let neither act stubbornly and imagine itself the only righteous one in existence. There are others.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. Earle A. Spessard, '11, addressed the student body at Albright College on the subject of Wcrk among Foreigners. The Y. M. C. A. of that institution contemplates doing work similar to that done by our association, and Mr. Spessard outlined the nature and emphasized the importance of the work.

Freshmen Banquet

(Continued from page 1)

picked up at various stations along the line.

At Harrisburg they were met by Detective White and Ziel of the Harrisburg police who had been summoned as an escort by an advance telegram from Reporter Harnish.

During the afternoon the Freshman dispersed throughout the city. The Sophs were on the job and captured Lyter and Ulrich on the Mulberry Street Bridge. When Ulrich promised that he would not attend the banquet he was released. Lyter was taken to a house at Progress. When the Freshmen appeared on the scene, the Sophs decided to remove their captive to Hummelstown. Upon arriving there the car-crew refused to let them remove him from the car and he returned to Harrisburg a 8:00 in time for the banquet. Meanwhile the "Freshies" had recaptured Ulrich and compelled him to goback with them; every precaution was taken to prevent any trouble.

The banqueting room was delightfully decoratd in granite and brown, the class colors. From 8:00 to 12:30 the banquet was on. A splendid menu was served. At the call of the toastmaster, Paul Hummel, toasts were given: "1914," Walter Biever; "Our Girls," Lester A. Rodes; The "Sophs," Henry Kreider; "Our Boys," Blanche Risser; "Alma Mater," Henry Snavely.

The party which returned on Thursday morning in time for chapel, consisted of the following: Misses Ella Brightbill, chaperon, Mae Meyer, Catherine A. Bachman, Josephine Urich, Blanche Risser, Daisy Kline, Edith Morrison, Messrs. Henry Kreider, David Gruber, Ellis Zimmerman, Paul Hummel, Leroy Harnish, Arthur Light, Edward Landis, John Shirk, Walter Biever, Henry Snavely, Paul Strickler, Allen Walters, Carl Schmidt, Claude Reddick, Harry Charlton, Charles Arndt, Mark Holtzman, W. H. Hays, John Lyter, Lester Rodes, George Zullinger, Russel Weidler, Harry Ulrich, William Stager, David Young, Edward Mutch, John Curry.

COLLEGE NEWS

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

CLIONIAN

Piano Solo, Vera Myers; Current Events, Larene Engle; Why should a woman vote? Helen Brightbill; vocal solo, Myrtle Turby; Why should women not vote? Bertha Spessard; Piano solo, Ora Bachman; Reading, Kathryn Clauser; 1914 Banquet, Blanche Risser; Piano solo, Mae Meyer.

PHILOKOSMIAN

Athletics at L. V. C., Edward Smith; The value of a moustache, C. F. Harnish; Debate: Resolved, That the ministerial Association is more beneficial to new students than the Death League, Affirmative, Guy Wingerd, W. A. Brunner; Negative, Oliver Butterwick, O. T. Ehrhart; Vocal solo, E. A. Spessard; Our faculty, Ivan Potter.

KALOZETEAN

Original Story, Arthur Light; Current Events, Robert Light; Chorus, Society; The results of the election, H. E. Snavely; Essay, F. L. Frost; Chorus, Society; Freshman Banquet, W. W. Stager; Piano solo, J. F. Reed.

A Good-by

BY ARTHUR L. PHELPS

Good-by, old boy, good-by.
Seems hard, somehow, to say the word that means
The thing we do.
Good-by, old boy, good-by,
I hope the future will be good to you.

Good-by, old boy, good-by.
Let's smile a little, while your big hand grips
Tight into mine.

Good-by, old boy, good-by.
Climb on; the train is moving down the line.
Good-by, old boy, good-by
We've had good days together, just we two,
Since first we met.
Good-by, old boy, good-by,
We'll say the words, but we will not forget.

McClures

Items of Interest

W. A. Brunner, '11, is spending a week at his home at New Bloomfield, Perry County.

A. O. Kauffman, '11, left for his home at Dallastown on Monday, in order to be home to vote Tuesday.

Misses Catharine Wolfe of Camp Hill, Pa., and Edna Honich of West Fairview, Pa., visited friends at the college on Saturday.

P. R. Koontz, '11, spent Saturday and Sunday at his home at West Fairview.

Miss Clara Horn, '13, made her first visit to her new home at Enola over Sunday.

Rev. W. C. Shoop, '11, opened revival at Ebenezer, on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Ely, of Hagerstown, Md., spent a few days with her daughter at Lebanon Valley.

A number of students took advantage of the free transportation to Lebanon Saturday night and attended the Republican mass meeting.

Edward Mutch, '11, attended services at the Salem U. B. Church, Lebanon on Sunday.

Miss Helen Brightbill was in Harrisburg on Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Smith, accompanied by her son Allen, was a guest of her daughter, Miss Grace Smith, over Saturday and Sunday.

Edward Marshall, '11, and Paul Loser, '13, were gunning on Saturday. They succeeded in getting but one "cottontail."

P. E. Gibble preached at Green Point on Sunday.

Richie, '13, Heffelfinger, '13, and Hayes, '14, played for the Annville foot ball team at Hershey on Saturday. The town team succeeded in holding the Hershey Y. M. C. A. to eleven points.

The Freshman foot ball team played the varsity on Monday evening.

Rev. George McDonald of Seattle Washington, addressed the students on Tuesday morning.

Rev. G. F. McDonald, of Seattle Washington, addressed the local U. B. Sunday School on Sunday, it being rally day. Rev. McDonald is east in the interests of home missions on the Pacific Coast.

Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.

Mr. N. B. S. Thomas led the meeting on Sunday afternoon. This subject was taken from James 4:14.—"For what is your Life."

In an interesting way he brought out the various conceptions of life. He used many illustrations from life and history to show different kinds of life.

Emphasizing the thought that we can go so far in our pleasures in life, and if we go farther we may come to grief. The leader showed that if we cannot be as great as Paul and Peter we can do our share in making life what it is. An interesting discussion followed.

Have Your Printing Done by
The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

WINDSOR HOTEL
W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.
European, $1.00 per day and up
American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street Station and Reading Terminal on Filbert Street.

The only moderate priced hotel of
reputation and consequence in PHILADELPHIA

Alumni

M. F. Lehman, '07, has accepted an instructorship in Lafayette College. His subject is mathematics.

Miss Nellie Buffington, '00, visited this vicinity with her two brothers George and Lewis. Mr. Lewis Buffington was a former student at Lebanon Valley.

F. E. Shaffer, 10, at present a student in the Johns Hopkins University, who returned to his home to vote, circulated among friends at the college on Monday.

Mrs. H. E. Enders, '01, and her two children, after spending several months at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Moyer in Derry Church, left on Tuesday for her home in Lafayette, Ind.

In Answer to the Little French Clock

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Beam, at Intercourse, Lancaster county, on Tuesday evening at 6:45 o'clock, when their daughter, Ruth Ella, was united in marriage to Park Filmer Esbensen, of Bird-in-Hand, by Rev. William Beach, of Union Depot, Dauphin county. The bride wore a gown of chiffon over white silk, trimmed with Persian braid, and carried chrysanthemums. The bridegroom wore the conventional evening dress. The beautiful ring ceremony of the United Brethren Church was used. The couple was unattended, and only the immediate families were present. Following the wedding breakfast the couple went to Lancaster by automobile and took a late train for New York.

The bride attended Lebanon Valley Conservatory for several years.

Mr. Esbensen graduated with the class of 1907.

We wish them well.

Senior-Junior Council

Owing to the fact that the council has not been permitted to do its work fairly and honestly, the members handed in their resignations to their respective classes. They were accepted and no council now exists.

Lines to Kate

Communi-Kate's intelligent,
Intri-Kate's obscure;
Prevari-Kate is stubborn,
And Equivo-Kate unsure.

Dislo-Kate is painful,
Alter-Kate's a pest;
Rusti-Kate is charming—
But Edu-Kate's the best.
—Chicago News.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.
Group System.
Special Facilities in Chemistry
and Biology
Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision on Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute

Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

If you want Good
Engraving

Try the

Electric City Engraving
Company Buffalo, N. Y.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
ESTABLISHED 1824
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
Send for a Catalogue. TROY, N.Y.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The
Spalding
TRADE MARK

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of

Official Equipment
For All Athletic Sports and Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS'
FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.

Students' Discount Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA

The CHAS. H. ELLIOTT COMPANY

The Largest College Engraving House in the World

Commencement Invitations
Class Day Programs and
Class Pins

Dance Programs and Invitations
Menus
Leather Dance Cases and Covers

Fraternity and Class Inserts for Annuals
Fraternity and Class Stationery

Wedding Invitations and Calling Cards
WORKS—17th STREET and LEHIGH AVENUE Philadelphia.

Represented at L. V. C. by
W. ALBERT BRUNNER

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, November 15, 1910

No. 8

"Mountaineers"

Outplay L. V.

ROLL UP LARGE SCORE OF 62-0 IN UNINTERESTING GAME

Last Friday Lebanon Valley football team was defeated by the highest score of the year. The quarters were twelve minutes, but by mutual consent the final quarter was cut to eight minutes. The first half ended with the score 35-0, while the third quarter was almost as disastrous as the first two. The forward pass and punting were responsible for many gains. Flanigan and McGuire made goods gains for the "Mountaineers."

In the final quarter our team played good football, holding Mt. St. Mary's for downs. Hayes and Forrest made many fine tackles, while Captain Lehman's punting gave us good gains.

Biever frequently broke through the opponent's line, which resulted in tackling the man carrying the ball. Charlton did good work considering his recent injury. The combination was strong against us, playing on a strange field, and having to stand for some time in the cold wind before the game.

The game was marked by much holding by the "Mountaineers." This, however, is no excuse, for we were outplayed, outwinded and outweighed, and they deserve credit for their victory.

A flurry of snow interfered slightly during the last quarter. Considering the previous training of our boys, they did good work and had the fighting spirit to the end.

The lineup:

L. V.	Positions	Mt. St. Mary's
Hayes	l. e.	Miloy
Loser (Charlton)	l. t.	Leonard

Kennedy	l. g.	Ruddy
Harnish	c Waynard (Sullivan)
Biever	r. g. Sullivan (Rice)
Hensel (Plummer)	r. t. Fagan
Kreider	r. e. Engel (Burke)
Forrest	q. b. Mooney
Marshall (Frost)	l. h. b. Barry
E. Loser	r. h. b. McGuire
Capt. Lehman	f. b. Flanigan

Biological Field Club

The regular monthly program of the Biological Field Club was rendered in the Biological lecture room on Wednesday evening. The following constituted the program:—

Miss Edna Yarkers, '13, read a well prepared and interesting paper on common cabbage insects.

Ivan L. Ressler, '12, reported to the club a list and description of the poisonous plants found in this vicinity.

Prof. J. H. Derickson gave to the members a very instructive talk on the minx. The talk was replete with an account, description, habitat and characteristics of that animal.

Samuel G. Ziegler, '11, read a splendid production on the Development of Sex Habits in plants.

These programs rendered monthly are very instructive and all those interested in the Biological sciences would be amply repaid by attending them regularly.

Cilo-Kalo Joint Session

Piano Duett, Paul Strickler, Sara Strickler; Pres. Address, W. O. Ellis; Sketch, J. W. Ischey, Kathryn Klausner; Quartette, Edith Gingrich, Ora Bachman, F. L. Frost, Warren Hayes; Original Story, Chester Rettew; Parody Sara Zimmerman; Baritone Solo, Harry Bender; Book Review, D. C. Keister; Olive Branch, Examiner, Editors; Piano Solo, Katie Gingrich.

Calendar

Tuesday, Nov. 15—Students' prayer meeting, 6 p.m.

Thursday, Nov. 17—6 p. m. Ministerial Association at the home of Charles White on Maple street.

Friday, Nov. 18—7:30 p. m. Clio-Kalo joint session, Kalo Hall.

Saturday, 19,—Football, Lebanon Valley vs. Delaware at Newark.

Sunday, Nov. 20, 1 p. m. Christian Associations.

Monday Nov. 21—7:45 p. m. Star Course, "Music Makers."

"The Music Makers"

"No Tiresome Wait," no offense to lovers of music, but perfect enjoyment is assured anyone who shall attend the entertainment which will be given in the hall of Engle Conservatory of Music Annville, Pa., Monday November 21, 1910, under the auspices of the Christian Associations of Lebanon Valley College. Box office open Friday, Saturday and Monday, 12:30 to 1 p. m. and 6 to 7 p. m. Single admission, 35 cents. Reserved seats, 10 cents extra.

Alumni

The Burd school, Philadelphia, of which Miss Ora M. Harnish, '06, is superintendent, celebrated Founders' Day last week. It will be remembered that Miss Harnish, who has had such phenomenal success in this position, visited her brother, C. F. Harnish, '12, some time ago.

Roy J. Guyer, '08, of Shippensburg, Pa., who is secretary in the Marshalltown, Iowa, Y. M. C. A., was elected superintendent of the Sunday School of that place.

(Continued on page 3)

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by the students of Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

W. A. BRUNNER, '11
E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS

W. O. ELLIS, '11
F. R. KENNEDY, '12

CATHARINE E. HERSHHEY, '12

HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12

S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER

W. A. BRUNNER, '11

ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS

OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12

PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year

Single Copies 5 cts.

Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to Room 19, Administration Building Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

There are many phases to the practical side of College life. The new student finds himself in a world altogether different from his home surroundings. He makes many new friends, comes into different social and spiritual atmospheres, and almost begins life anew.

In this new position, the Christian Association takes ample care of his spiritual welfare, trying to better him by his presence and participation in the meetings. But there is another side which needs more development than will be received through the daily contact with the professors and fellow-students. This is along the line of Literary Societies. The student of every class should receive much information of value in the class-room, but what will be the ultimate profit if all is retained and no attempt is made to help one's fellow? Nowhere is greater freedom acquired than in the Literary Society. Nor should interest lag in this direction, for the training received in the society hall is invaluable for the experiences of after life. We would not attempt to give advice on choosing which society to join. That is not our business, as each one must decide for himself. It is, however, essential to success in college that each student have a society to call his very own, which he can love, honor and uplift in compensation for the good he receives therefrom.

Everybody will agree we learn from each other. Then every meeting we miss we lose something of value. The highest possible attendance should be demanded, from the view point of interest, encouragement to the performers, and the good of the society. Above all, let every student be strong and make a stand for some Literary Society.

Much is being said in reference to the ideal and the method of obtaining it. Nearly everybody has his own method of reaching the ideal which is uppermost in his mind. However, very often this method is little, if any, more than a theory. Too often we do not reckon the cost of our enterprise. We forget to take facts and existing conditions into our account. Without these our theory will never become practice, our ideal will never become real. Every phase of our theory must be thoroughly weighed and brought upon a plain business basis before it can stand the most practical tests; likewise our ideals. In aspiring toward this ideal let each one weigh his plans carefully and count the cost accurately before he acts. Then will character be broadened, and personality strengthened; then indeed will the student "rise above his race" and obtain the long-sought goal.

Educational Day

Sunday, November 20th, will be Educational day at St. Paul's U. B. Church, West Lebanon, of which Mark G. Holtzman is pastor. The Sunday School will rally to this interest at 9:30 o'clock, a. m., and at 10:30 President Lawrence Keister will preach. At 2 p. m. there will be a platform service, to be addressed by W. Albert Brunner, '11, Victor D. Mulhollen, '13, and Rev. W. H. Peiffer. The evening service will be addressed by Professors E. M. Balsbaugh, '01, and Ray G. Light, '06, who are graduates of the college. The male quartet of the church will sing.

Y. M. C. A.

A large number of fellows turned out to Y. M. C. A. on Sunday and enjoyed one of the best meetings of the year. Guy Wingerd, '12, the leader, discussed "Imitators of Christ," using as a lesson the second chapter of II Timothy. He said in part "True Imitators of Christ are those who mould their characters after Him, and who are slow to judge the character of others. Christ wants us to recognize Him and do our utmost in bringing the world to Him. We can take part in imitating Christ by living as he did, and inducing others to do their part in bringing about the coming kingdom. A lively discussion followed in which Messrs. Brunnner, Koontz, L. Spessard, and Leibold participated. Rev. H. B. Spayd, the college pastor was present and made the closing prayer.

First Senior Oratory Recital

Mr. J. W. Ischy was the first member of the senior class in oratory to give his recital. Last Thursday evening he read cuttings from "Seven Oaks" in a way alike creditable to himself and his department. He was ably assisted by Misses McCurdy, Snyder, and Clouser, who rendered a number of short readings. A fine audience was present, which goes to show the public interest in the Oratory department. The next Senior recital will be given some time in February.

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting on Sunday afternoon conducted by Miss Verda Snyder, was one of the most interesting held this year. The topic for discussion was "My favorite passage of Scripture, and why I like it." The leader pointed out the difficulties of making a selection among so many beautiful passages. She quoted several that appealed to her very strikingly and asked the girls to do the same. Nearly everybody responded with a readiness that gave life and spirit to the meeting.

"Thought is another name for fate,
Chose, then, thy destiny, and wait—
For love brings love, and hate brings hate."

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

COLLEGE NEWS

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

PHILOKOSMIAN

Current Events, Ralph Riegle; Developments as L. V. C., S. G. Ziegler; Debate: Resolved, That student government at L. V. C. has outgrown its usefulness. Affirmative, Clarence Ulrich and E. H. Carmany; negative, W. Becker and F. Hensel; piano solo, E. K. Boughter; The Preparatory Faculty, Robert Hartz.

ALUMNI NOTES

Continued from page 1

Rev. Raymond P. Daugherty, '97, conducted the services in the local church on Nov. 8.

John R. Guyer, '98, of Middletown, has formed a law partnership with Hon. John E. Fox, of Harrisburg.

N. C. Schlichter, '97, a former member of the college faculty, is the author of an article, "Random Notes on Reading," in last week's "Watchword."

Rev. S. E. Rupp, and Rev. H. E. Miller, both of Lebanon, were college visitors on Saturday.

Miss Arabelle Batdorf, a graduate of the conservatory, entertained the "Auf Wieder Sehn" Club at her home on Saturday afternoon, at which time she announced her engagement to Mr. Ellwood Ivins Boyd, a young business man of Oak Lane. Both are very widely known. Congratulations.

Re-elected to House

Hon. Marlin E. Olmsted LL.D., a member of the board of trustees of the college, was re-elected to congress by a very flattering vote which was in no way affected by the Democratic tidal wave. Mr. Olmsted is one of the most influential men in the United States House of Representatives. The NEWS congratulates him on his triumphant victory and on his entrance into an even larger field for Congressional usefulness.

"Let every man be occupied, and occupied in the highest employment of which his nature is capable, and die with the consciousness that he has done his best."—Sidney Smith.

Items of Interest

Prof. Sleichter and Miss Rhoda Brandt spent Friday at Harrisburg and Saturday at Hummelstown.

Edna Kilmer, '13, spent Sunday at her home at Reading Pa.

Maude Kerchner spent Sunday at her home at Shoemakersville.

Carrie Light, '12, spent Sunday at her home at Jonestown.

Prof. H. H. Shenk went to Allentown Sunday and spoke in the Linden St. U. B. Church.

Titus Leibold, '12, preached at Cleona on Sunday morning.

W. A. Brunner, '11, returned on Thursday last from a trip to his home in Perry County.

Rev. E. O. Burtner was in town on Saturday last.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has installed a telephone in reporter Harnish's room.

"Hezekiah's Country Store" was presented on Saturday evening in the Engle Conservatory of Music for the benefit of the Washington Cornet Band.

S. G. Ziegler, '11, has been elected to preach the annual Thanksgiving sermon at the union service in the Presbyterian church at Duncannon, Pa.

The NEWS extends its deepest sympathy to Oliver Butterwick, '12, and Miss Myle Turby, both of whom lost a sister by death within a week.

Prof. and Mrs. Shenk entertained the members of the faculty at their home, East Main Street on Saturday evening. November 5.

Those present: President and Mrs. Keister, Prof. and Mrs. Derickson, Prof. and Mrs. Lehman, Prof. and Mrs. Shroyer, Miss Dodge, Miss Parks, Mrs. Brown, Miss Brown, Prof. and Mrs. Spessard, and Miss Boehm.

Prof. Wanner spent Saturday on a gunning trip to Mt. Gretna. He got two shots, but sold the rabbits on the way home.

Sedie S. Rine, who was compelled to go home some time ago on account of an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, returned to school Monday evening, fully recovered.

S. G. Ziegler, '11, was called to Duncannon on Tuesday to officiate at the funeral of one of his members.

Prof. Shenk will address the local institute in South Lebanon township.

Samuel Plummer, '12, is spending several days at his home near Hagerstown, Md.

Guy Wingerd, '12, made a business trip to Harrisburg on Saturday.

"Some people bear three kinds of trouble---all they ever had, all they have now, and all they expect to have."—Edward Everett Hale.

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

CHRISTY—"NIFTY"
POST CARDS
Stock from New York and Paris
THANKSGIVING
Subjects, the best yet.
H. E. SPESSARD'S BOOK STORE
Journal Building
ANNVILLE, PA.

WINDSOR HOTEL

W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.

European, $1.00 per day and up
American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street
Station and Reading Terminal
on Filbert Street.

The only moderate priced hotel of
reputation and consequence in
PHILADELPHIA

COLLEGE NEWS

Off For California

Rev. J. A. Eby and family left Annville for their new home at 1308 South Hope St., Los Angeles Cal., this (Tuesday) morning. While the NEWS regrets very much to see these people depart it extends its best wishes for their success in their new field.

Miss Maybelle Adams of Ashburn, Mass., who succeeds Mrs. Eby as Director of the Oratory Department, will arrive Thursday to take charge of the work.

Miss Adams is a graduate of Emerson School of Oratory and a classmate of Mrs. Eby.

The Wife

BY PAUL KESTER

She built a temple
In her dream of love,
And bowed before
The shrine
Of her idolatry.
The temple faded
To a human home,
The shrine
Became a cradle
That she rocked,
And all her love
The holier duties
Of a common life.

"Boys flying kites haul in their white-winged birds;
You can't do that when you are flying words.
Careful with fire is good advice we know,
Careful with words is ten times doubly so.
Thoughts unexpressed may some times fall back dead,
But God Himself can't kill them when they're said."

—Selected.

God has delivered yourself to your care and says: "I had no fitter to trust than you."—Epictetus.

Nothing reveals a man's character more fully than the spirit in which he bears his limitations.—Mabie.

Doing nothing for others is the undoing of ourselves.—Horace Mann.

When the outlook is not good try the uplook.—Anon.

On God's dial-pate of time
'Tis never late to him who stands
Self-centered in a trust sublime,
With mastered force and thinking hands.—Savage.

wh! spuare thyself for use ; a stone that may ;
Fit in the wall is not left in the way.
—Trench.

Lebanon Valley College

*First Class Faculty.
Group System.
Special Facilities in Chemistry
and Biology
Music, Art, Oratory*

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

*Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.*

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision on Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute

Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

If you want Good Engraving

Try the

Electric City Engraving
Company Buffalo, N. Y.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute SCHOOL of ENGINEERING

*Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.*

Send for a Catalogue.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The Spalding TRADE MARK

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of

Official Equipment
For All
Athletic Sports and
Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS' FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.
Students' Discount
Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA

The CHAS. H. ELLIOTT COMPANY

The Largest College Engraving House in the World

Commencement Invitations
Class Day Programs and
Class Pins

Dance Programs
and Invitations
Menus
Leather Dance
Cases and Covers

Fraternity
and Class Inserts
for Annuals
Fraternity
and Class
Stationery

Wedding Invitations and Calling Cards
WORKS—17th STREET and LEHIGH
AVENUE Philadelphia.

Represented at L. V. C. by
W. ALBERT BRUNNER

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annvile, Pa., Tuesday, November 22, 1910

No. 9

Matters Historical

EARLY HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE IN THE LIGHT OF THE CONTEMPORARY PRESS

The following interesting article has been taken from papers which the late E. Benjamin Bierman had collected, and which were presented to the college library by Mrs. Bierman.

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE ANNVILLE, PA.

This college, which is maintained under the auspices of the United Brethren church, was chartered in April 1867. Although only one year old it is in a flourishing condition. Its first annual commencement, which was held about a week since was a very interesting affair to the members of the United Brethren church. Ten orations were delivered. The valedictory being pronounced by William B. Bodenhor of Lebanon Pa. The faculty of the college is composed of the following named professors: Rev. T. R. Vickroy, A. M. President, and Professor of Mental and Moral Sciences; Lucian H. Hammond, A. M., Professor of Ancient Languages and Literature; John S. Krumbine, Professor of Mathematics; E. Benj. Bierman, A. M., Professor of English Language and Literature; Miss Ellen F. Walker, A. M. music and drawing; John Wesley Etter, teacher of Bookkeeping, etc. Miss Lizzie M. Rigler, Ornamental Branches; Mrs. E. S. Vickroy. Preceptress.—From Semi-Weekly Tribune. New York, Tuesday, July 7, 1868.

Y. W. C. A.

In order to stimulate greater interest in the Y. W. C. A., the Devotional Committee has arranged a series of meetings in which a book is read and discussed.

The first of these meetings, held on Sunday afternoon, proved to be very interesting. Edith M. Lehman lead the meeting. She read one of Ralph Connor's books, "Give" which is taken from "The Sky Pilot." The scene is laid in the west in the foothill country of the Rocky Mountains. The theme of the story is the "Why of Human Pain." This subject will be taken up as the topic for the next meeting to be lead by Miss Kilmer, after Thanksgiving. We would urge all the girls to attend these meetings.

Sundown

A late lark twitters from the quiet skies
And from the west,
Where the sun, his day's work ended
Lingers as in content.
There fall on the old, gray city,
An influence luminous and serene
A shining peace.
The smoke ascends
In a rosy, and, golden haze.
The spires
Shine and are changed. In the valley
Shadows rise. The lark sings on.
The sun
Closing his benedictions
Sinks, and the darkening air
Thrills with a sense of triumphing night,
Night with her train of stars
And her great gift of sleep.
So be my passing!
My task accomplished and the long
Day done
My wages taken and in my heart
Some late lark singing,
Let me be gathered to the quiet west,
The sun down splendid and serene,
Death
—William Ernest Henley

W. C. Shoop, '11, is at present conducting evangelistic services at one of the churches on his charge.

Calendar

Tuesday, Nov. 22—6 p. m. Prayer Meeting.

Thursday Nov. 24—12:30 p. m. Annual Thanksgiving Dinner. 7:45 p. m. Clio Anniversary Exercises.

Thursday Nov. 24 to Monday Nov. 28 Thanksgiving Recess.

Freshman Party

The boys of the freshman class were delightfully entertained on Wednesday evening by the girls of 1914 and the class chaperon, Miss Ella Brightbill, at the later's home on College Avenue, Miss Boehm and Miss Balliette were invited guests.

All those present enjoyed themselves immensely and among the pleasantries of the evening were various games, music, and dainty refreshments, which the hostess had well selected. Every thing harmonized amid blue granite and brown which was profusely spread about the rooms.

Alumni

Prof. Ray Light '03 of Lebanon High School attended College Day Exercises at St. Paul's U. B. Church, West Lebanon Sunday evening and gave a very pleasing address.

Miss Elsie Arnold of Campbelltown a graduate of the conservatory took a very prominent part in the special song service held in the Presbyterian Church at Derry Church on Nov. 13.

Prof Balsbaugh, '01, Principal of Lebanon High School made a very interesting address at St. Paul's U. B. Church West Lebanon Sunday evening.

J. Edward Marshall, '11, spent last Thursday in Harrisburg.

COLLEGE NEWS

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by the students of Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

W. A. BRUNNER, '11
E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS

W. O. ELLIS, '11
F. R. KENNEDY, '12
CATHERINE E. HERSHY, '12
HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12
S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER

W. A. BRUNNER, '11

ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS

OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12
PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year

Single Copies 5 cts.
Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to Room 19, Administration Building Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa.

The NEWS extends to all subscribers, its best wishes for a happy Thanksgiving Season.

It seems from the general tenor of conversation which is heard from time to time that the real significance of Thanksgiving has escaped very many people in these hurry scurry days materialism. To some it means cessation of labor, a holiday, turkey and all those delicacies, which go with such feasts; to others a glimpse of home and friends, to still others, only a day on which, with a sort of Pharisaical pride, to return thanks for blessings received. No one should find fault with any one of these, but does it not narrow to the last limits that feeling of joy the Master of Life would have all experience? Would it not be far better in these times of festivities to cast our eyes about us and see if we can not find some one to whom we can bring our joy?

To college students Thanksgiving day should be a holiday, a feasting, a returning of thanks, and with these an inspiration to gladden the lives of others.

Ever since the destructive fire of 1904, the problem of governing the student body at Lebanon Valley has been to a greater or lesser extent occupying the minds of the college authorities. The occupancy of the new dormitories introduced a new regime in student life. Various unforeseen conditions presented themselves which necessitated a change in the governing policy. To the occupants of the men's dormitories, proctors were disliked and undesired.

Then came the problem of a substitute. A number of students, after much thought, presented a set of rules which they themselves wished to follow and enforce, thus forming the basis of the system of student government at Lebanon Valley College. However, in time, cases arose to which the established regulations were inapplicable. Several years passed before an open break occurred, but when it did come, the result was that a new Senior-Junior Council was elected, putting the system of government on the best basis it had yet attained.

Probably the greatest success achieved by the Council last mentioned was the successful directing of inter-class contests. But, the council was legislative rather than executive, and also found problems with which it was apparently unable to cope. This led to the final dissolution of the council several weeks ago, with no positive form of government for the student body. Again comes the problem with increased force, "How shall our student body be governed?" Every good form of government is to some extent a product of the process of evolution. As student self government has taken advanced strides in the last few years, with each result more satisfactory than its predecessor, we feel confident that our present situation is only a marker in the evolutionary development. The fact that both college and preparatory students have been dealt with by the same governing body in the past, is largely at the bottom of the desire for a change.

What the Council also needs is executive authority combined with the legislative. The late council was satisfactory as far as it had authority but its powers were not backed by binding qualities.

Present indications point to an acceptable solution of the problem in the near future. Within the past week committees from the two upper classes have been appointed to suggest a new form of government, purposing to meet the present need and at the same time, voice the demands and desires of the students as nearly as possible. These propositions are to be handed to the Faculty Committee for ratification.

It is to the interests of all parties concerned that the greatest co-operation should exist between faculty, committees and student body. With such prospects we look forward to great success in our governing policy, in the hope and belief that it will be the best step toward the goal which we are anticipating.

A Request

In another column some very interesting facts about the early history of the college appear. This is published to meet a need which we feel exists at this place. Many such facts of interests which have been in a sense forgotten will when brought to our minds, we hope, endear old L. V. C. to us, and stimulate us to greater efforts for her sake. Any one having interesting historical material, in their possession will please forward same to the editors.

Clio-Kalo Joint Session

The Clonian and the Kalozetean literary societies enjoyed a pleasant evening on Friday, Nov. 18, 1910 in a joint session of the two societies.

A splendid program was rendered to an appreciative audience of more than a hundred people. The program was rendered as follows:

Piano duett, Sara and Paul Strickler; President's address, W. O. Ellis; Original story, C. E. Rettew; Quartette, Misses Gingrich and Bachman, Messrs. Frost and Hayes; Parody, Sarah Zimmerman; Essay, "The Craft Guild of Today" D C. Keister; Olive Branch and Examiner, Florence Christeson; Piano Solo, Katie Gingrich.

The program was one of the best ever rendered by the societies in joint session. All were at their best. Each number held the interest from the beginning to the conclusion. The program was so carefully arranged as to lend a variety of humor and pleasure together with more serious

COLLEGE NEWS

*The Clonian Literary Society of
Lebanon Valley College
requests the honor of your presence at its
Fortieth Anniversary
Thursday evening, November twenty-fourth nineteen hundred and ten at eight o'clock
Engle Conservatory*

Reception Ladies Hall

thought.

The ability of the performers to render their selections was greatly shown by the appreciation of the audience. Besides the members of the societies, there were many guests including, Prof. and Mrs. A. E. Shroyer, Mrs. Sheldon, Miss Brown and mother, Miss Parks, Miss Sleichter, and Miss Brandt, Miss Mary Christeson, Miss Adams our new professor of Oratory and many others from Annville, Lebanon, Myerstown and Harrisburg.

At the conclusion of the program, the Kalos tended an informal reception to the Clios and all present in their new reception Hall. Delicious refreshments were served. At a seasonable hour the guests and members departed, glad that they had been present at the best Clio-Kalo joint session held within the memory of any present.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting on Sunday afternoon was led by James Shively. His subject was "The Religions of Service," taken from Romans 12. The following is a brief of his remarks. More than nineteen centuries ago a young man rose up in a Jewish synagogue in Palestine and defined his mission in life. The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor, he hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those that are bruised.

His biographers tell us that he went about doing good, feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, because of the burden of their past wrong-doing. When he died he told his disciples: As the Father hath sent me into the world, so send I you, and he bade them receive his spirit of faith and love and carry it out in generous service.

We are often too engrossed in our ambitions, dominated by our egotism and selfishness, that we forget the fellow next to us. We do not greet him with a pleasant smile, and too often when a man is already down we trample upon him rather than extend him a helping hand and lead him back to Christ.

Though in our study of Philosophy and Theology we are apt to fall into doubt, yet the study of the life and works of Jesus make us determine that this man, was the life we want to imitate, that He holds the secret to a happy and useful living. We do not reverence Jesus by singing hymns to him, by assigning him an exalted place in the universe, but by manifesting in our own lives the same spirit which he manifested in His, by serving our generation with unselfish devotion and heroism."

The tone of the meeting was excellent. Several speakers followed Mr. Shively with suitable remarks. About twenty-five men were out. Let every fellow bring another with him the next time.

A large number of our students attended the Lebanon High vs. Pottsville High foot ball game at Lebanon on Saturday last.

Items of Interest

Russel Weidler, '14, who has been out of school several weeks suffering with blood-poison in his right hand, returned last Tuesday and resumed work.

H. E. Ulrich, '14, was confined to his home several days last week on account of illness.

Misses Carrie Light, '12, and Sara Zimmerman, '13, attended the College day exercises in St. Paul's U. B Church West Lebanon Sunday afternoon and evening.

John Shirk, '14, and V. D. Muhollen, '13, attended the college day

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

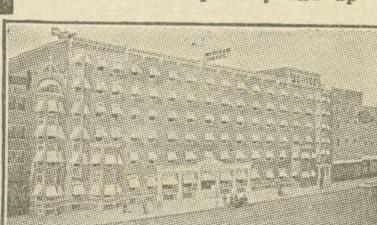

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

CHRISTY—"NIFTY"
POST CARDS
Stock from New York and Paris
THANKSGIVING
Subjects, the best yet.
H. E. SPESSARD'S BOOK STORE
Journal Building ANNVILLE, PA.

WINDSOR HOTEL

W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.
European, $1.00 per day and up
American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street
Station and Reading Terminal
on Filbert Street.

The only moderate priced hotel of
reputation and consequence in
PHILADELPHIA

COLLEGE NEWS

exercises at West Lebanon, Sunday. The latter made a very pleasing address.

Prof. H. E. Wanner of the Department of Chemistry spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents at York, Pa.

The College day exercises held in St. Paul's U. B. Church, West Lebanon, Mark G. Holtzman, pastor, last Sunday were quite successful. The collections for the day were more than sufficient to meet the pledge made by that congregation to the Lebanon Valley College debt fund. Much credit is due Rev. Holtzman and his congregation for the energetic way in which they manage such propositions.

Lester Rhodes, '14, spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of his parents.

Many students are preparing to spend their Thanksgiving recess at their homes.

President Keister spent the greater part of last week in Western Pennsylvania in the interests of the college.

N. B. S. Thomas, 12, has been out of school during the past week conducting evangelistic services at one of the churches of which he is pastor.

Catherine Hershey, 12, spent last Thursday in Harrisburg.

W. L. Murray left on Friday for his home at West Fairview, where he will remain over the Thanksgiving recess.

I. K. Potter, '13, who was ill several days last week, is out again.

John Lyter, '14, spent Sunday at the home of his parents in Harrisburg.

Preparations are being made for the annual Thanksgiving Dinner to be given in the College Dining Hall next Thursday. A splendid menu will be served, after which toasts from each class will follow. Every boarding student is looking forward to this event with great anticipation.

Prof. H. E. Wanner and Amos H. Weigel, '13, contemplate attending the Pennsylvania-Cornell football game at Franklin Field, on Thursday.

Amos H. Weigel, '13, rendered the readings in an entertainment given by the Mechanicsburg male choir at Shepherdstown, Cumberland county, Saturday evening.

Misses Ruth and Larene Engle spent Saturday and Sunday at their homes in Harrisburg.

Apologies to Longfellow

Tell us not in mournful numbers

Life is but an empty dream;
That we, kiffs, get all the skim milk
And the Profs. get all the cream.
Life is earnest so get busy;
Swing your uppercut and jab;
When good things are flying by you,
Just reach out and take a grab.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.

Group System.

Special Facilities in Chemistry
and Biology

Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision on Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute
Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

The Electric City Engraving Co. BUFFALO, N. Y.

C The largest specialists in College Engravings in the country.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
ESTABLISHED 1824
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.
Send for a Catalogue.

A. G. Spalding & Bros.

The

Spalding
TRADE MARK

Is known throughout the world as a

Guarantee of Quality

Are the largest manufacturers in the world of
Official Equipment For All Athletic Sports and Pastimes

IF YOU are interested in Athletic Sport you should have a copy of the Spalding Catalogue. It's a complete encyclopedia of What's New in Sport and is sent free on request.

A. G. Spalding & Bro.
1120 Chestnut St., Philadelphia

You are correct if you get your

LADIES' and GENTS' FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.
Students' Discount
Packard & Radcliffe Shoes.

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pen nants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

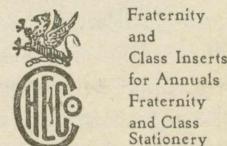

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA.

The CHAS. H. ELLIOTT COMPANY

The Largest College Engraving House in the World

Commencement Invitations
Class Day Programs and
Class Pins

Dance Programs
and Invitations
Menus
Leather Dance
Cases and Covers

Fraternity
and Class Inserts
for Annuals
Fraternity
and Class
Stationery

Wedding Invitations and Calling Cards
WORKS—17th STREET and LEHIGH AVENUE Philadelphia.

Represented at L. V. C. by
W. ALBERT BRUNNER

CLIONIAN ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II. Annville, Pa., Tuesday, November 29, 1910

No. 10

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES OF THE CLIONIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

Program Very Successfully Carried Out—Many Alumni and Friends Attend—Orations Given in Full

Thanksgiving Day was a red letter day in Clio circles, as it was the occasion of the Fortieth Anniversary of their society. The usual Anniversary exercises were rendered very pleasingly in the College Chapel at eight o'clock. The chapel was tastefully decorated for the occasion with bunting in the Society colors, and with many beautiful palms. Guests began to arrive early, many coming in time for the College Thanksgiving Dinner. By the time the exercises began, the Chapel was nearly filled with alumni, students and friends of Clio. To the strains of music rendered by Keim's orchestra, secured for the occasion, the speakers appeared on the stage. Every address showed thorough preparation and careful training. The participants held the close attention of the large audience from start to finish of the program. At the conclusion of the literary exercises, a reception was held in the Ladies' Parlors. The parlors were also very tastefully decorated in the Society colors, and were very pretty indeed. Quite a large number of guests attended the reception, which equaled any ever given by the Society. Delightful refreshments were served. Everybody agreed that the occasion was extremely successful, and entertaining.

The Anniversary program in full follows:

Orchestra, selected; Invocation, Prof. Shroyer; President's Address, Carrie

Light: Two Piano Duet, Tannhauser, Richard Wagner, Ruth Detweiler, Ora Bachman; Oration, The Just Judge, Lizzie Lau; Vocal Solo, (a) Villanelle,

MISS ESTHER SCHELL
Who read eulogy

Eva Dell' Acqua (b) Rosary, Nevin, Edith Gingrich; Oration, After the War, Nellie Seltzer; Piano Solo, (a) Consolation in D Major, Op. 13 Dennee, (b) Gondolieri E Major, Op. 25, No. 2, Nevin, E. May Meyer; Reading Cutting from "The Sign of the Cross," W. Barrett, Edna Yarkers; Eulogy, Julia Ward Howe, Esther Schell; Chorus, The Vine Gatherers, L. Denza, Edith Gingrich, Florence Roland, Verda Snyder, Helen Brightbill, Florence Christeson, Ora Bahman, Eva Foltz, Lottie M. Spessard; Orchestra, Selected.

President's Address.

Ladies and Gentlemen: We have gathered together this evening to observe another anniversary of the Clonian Literary Society. We always look forward to these exercises because they signify the completion of one more year's work and the entering upon another.

Year after year, our society offers its privileges to the young women who leave their homes and come among us to pursue a prescribed course of study. The choosing of a course is naturally their first concern, but no sooner have they entered upon their studies than they are asked to identify themselves with the various student organizations that exist in a college. The environment in which they find themselves is very different from that to which they have been accustomed. To harmonize their interests and to come into a vital relation with the college life is of far reaching importance to the student.

The college organizations aid the young men and women to adjust themselves to their new surroundings and make them feel that they are a part of the college life. These may be divided into four classes, the athletic, the social, the literary and the religious, forming four distinct supplementary agencies, each with a purpose of its own. These agencies differ somewhat in importance and do not appeal alike to the individual student. There is so much to claim the attention of the student that it becomes a physical impossibility to engage actively in all of the different organizations, yet to withhold from participating to some extent in these activities will be detrimental to the best interests of the student, and a distinct loss to the organization and to the college to which they sustain a very close relation.

Unfortunately it happens occasionally that a student will allow his work in the supplementary agencies to interfere with that in his curriculum becoming so much engrossed in the former as to neglect the latter. The student should always be brought to realize that his first duty is to his course, but that he should share interest and labor in both.

COLLEGE NEWS

I think you will agree with me that the literary society occupies a most important position among these supplementary agencies. Compared with the value of many organizations it towers far above them. It is to be greatly regretted that in many places there is a diminution of interest in the literary society. Students preparing to substitute a club which is purely social or one requiring less work and mental effort.

The pre-eminent position of the literary societies in our own college should be a source of much gratification to every one present. For not only is the literary society of great help and benefit to the student while at school, but a very important part of its work is the preparation which it gives for taking part in the many organizations of which students are asked to become members after leaving college.

This is the day for organized effort. In no other way can as much be accomplished. College graduates are expected to be the leaders in the organizations which are helping to solve the many intricate problems of our complex civilization. The character of these organizations depends upon the object to be accomplished, civic, political, social and religious. College graduates owe it to the community in which they live to take an active part in raising the moral tone and the standard of living, and in every way possible to bring about a better condition of affairs.

The literary society affords a training to enable its members if they have been faithful in the performance of their duties, to enter into the life of the organizations referred to, to know the methods of organizing, to preside, to see that the work is conducted in a proper and orderly way, to work with others, to speak extemporaneously, to prepare a statement carefully and to present it in a clear, concise and forcible way.

These things, we as members of the Clonian Literary Society are striving to attain. This year has been a most pleasant year in our society. Our programmes are very interesting and every girl enjoys helping to make them so. We delight in going into our society hall, because it is the place we govern. At that place, all class prejudices are laid aside. We meet there with one common aim and interest. Our efforts are united and the result must be success. A result which has attended us so far this fall, in that we have been able to pay the entire debt of our hall.

We are glad for your presence. We hope that to-night's program will be a source of interest and pleasure to you. In behalf of the society, I welcome you to these the fortieth anniversary exercises of the Clonian Literary Society.

The Just Judge.

It was in the county court rooms of one of our large Western cities one night that a boy was accused of larceny. The hour was late, the calendar was long, and the Judge was sitting overtime. Weary of the weary work, the men were forcing the machinery of the law to grind out at full speed the dull routine of Justice. All sorts of cases go before this court and the Judge had long since tired of its monotonous round. This case of petty larceny was plain and it could be disposed of in short order. The sleepy policeman brought forth his witness and the case was sworn out. There was scarcely any denial of the charge and the Judge ordered that what the law prescribed for such cases should be done. That was all. In the same breath the next case was called when something happened, something a little out of the ordinary.

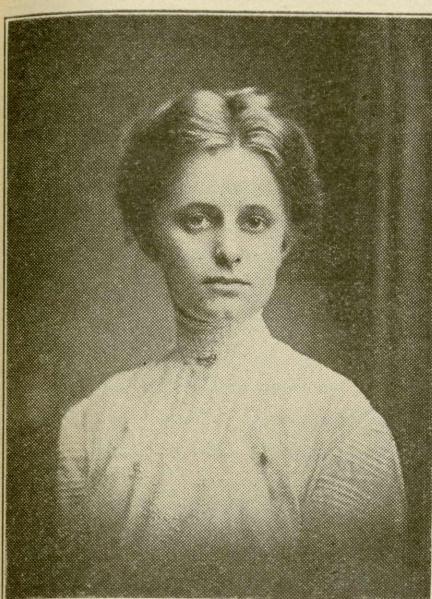

A cry, the shriek of a broken hearted woman was heard. There was nothing so unusual in that, however. In our public court rooms, disturbances of this kind are frequent. They are all dealt with in the same manner, and again the bailiff arose to do his duty. But the Judge on the bench was Ben. B. Lindsey, the famous Judge of the Juvenile court of Denver. This incident happened, however, before he was famous. There was no Juvenile court then. Lindsey was only a young struggling lawyer and politician who had been but recently appointed to the Judgeship. His experiences in politics, however, had been long enough to teach him the corruptness, the injustice of the system and it made him sick at heart. That is, perhaps, why he heard that heart rending cry from the rear of the room. One sad heart most easily recognizes another. This fact, undoubtedly caused the judge to pause in his rapid work of administering Justice and he paused to uphold the woman.

"I had noticed her before," the Judge said, "and I thought she looked like a cave dweller. I didn't connect her with the case in question. I didn't think of her in any human relationship whatsoever. For that matter, I hadn't considered the larceny case in any human way until that mother's cry startled me into humanity. It was an awful cry, a terrible sight and I was stunned. I looked at the prisoner before me again and this time I saw a boy, an Italian boy. Not a thief, not a lost criminal, only a bad boy. I called him back and had the woman brought before me and talked with them as mother and son. I learned that this boy had a home. The thought made me shudder. I had almost sent him among criminals when he had a home and a mother to go to. And that was the Law! I stopped the machinery of Justice to pull that boy out of its grinders." But he was guilty and what was to be done with him.

That was the great question that rang in the Judge's ear unceasingly. He came to a great new and ancient discovery that what we are after to-day are men, and men are but boys grown up. But how was the problem to be solved? The way in which he did solve it can be detected in his own words. "The great movements for the betterment of our children are simply typical of the noblest spirit of his age, that Christ-like spirit of unselfish love, of hope, and of joy." The old process of punishing and guiding the child is now completely changed. No wiser method could be found for all our departments of justice. "Instead of coming to destroy, we come to rescue; instead of coming to punish we come to uplift; instead of coming to hate, we come to love."

That the man has this deep significance is shown by the gradual, apparently accidental way in which he developed his "methods" and his court. He couldn't think them out. But he had a heart, and when the cave dweller cry reached it, he found himself. From that time on, Lindsey put his heart into his business. He didn't know what probation was when he decided to take care of that Italian boy. The idea of the Juvenile court had not yet dawned upon him.

MISS NELLIE SELTZER

MISS EDNA YARKERS

It took "cases" to set him thinking, and many came. One day he noticed a burglary on the calendar. Looking around for the criminals, the Judge saw three bright American boys. Upon inquiring he learned that they had been caught robbing a pigeon loft. There was no doubt about the crime, the boys would be sent to the reformatory, of course. The ruling officer however, shook his head, and why? He was recalling just then, the time when he as a boy, went robbing a pigeon loft, that very same one that these boys had robbed, as further investigation revealed.

The Judge had not actually committed burglary, although he would have, if his "nerve" had not failed him. He got "scared" at the very last minute and ran away. But now the law expected him, a Judge, to send to prison these boys who were no worse than he. To the Judge's eyes they were even better because they had the "sand" he lacked. But what was to be done with the offenders?

Lindsey says he learned "out of the mouths of babes". He took those prisoners into a room and talked with them. That was the first of many conferences which have been the means of saving more than one boy from a criminal's end. Many people regarded these talks with superstition. The police even started a story that he was a hypnotist for he gets such wonderful results. He gets the entire confidence and respect of the boys. They not only honor but also love him. Viewing the probation system in the light of all it has accomplished, we must say that friendship is the key. The Judge talks to the boys as they talk to each other. He invites them to his home, he takes long walks with them, he studies, carefully handles, and helps them. Is it any wonder that he gains their confidence?

Is it so marvellous that he can impress on their young minds the sin and wrong in either surprising or "snitching" as they call tattling? He makes them feel that it is only the weak who yield. And what child will not respond when its honor, its strength, is appealed to?

Lindsey's deep understanding of a boy's nature can possibly be attributed to the circumstances surrounding his own youth. There he felt the cold loneliness of a life void of friendship. He was a poor boy who had to earn his own living. Hard work was required and he was often worn out and nobody appreciated it. He was only doing his duty and it nearly killed him. He sank under his burden to the very verge of despair. There he learned the value of a kind word of sympathy and good cheer and its lesson is serving him well through life.

And what is the result? We all know how much good the Juvenile Court has been doing in Denver; we know, too, how many dark crimes, how many unworthy officers and how many disobeyed laws and grafts were exposed by the Judge in order to save the child. He forced the illegal wine houses, which had been meeting places for boys and girls, to be closed.

Saloon-keepers no longer dared to sell liquor and tobacco to minors because of the sure punishment that would follow. Factories were inspected until childlabor laws were strictly enforced. All this and more the Judge accomplished.

Naturally enough, he was cut on the street by other officials, the objects of many of his inspections and decisions. He was hissed, his own political party even turned against him because he would not give up his court. Lindsey was firm and in the struggle which is still going on, he has thus far come out victorious. A decided test of Judge Lindsey's influence came in 1904. He knew that he would have to make the election if he wanted his work to go on.

His own political party offered him no support. He had exposed its crimes. The business men of the town would not hear him, he had lessened their profits.

In despair he turned to his only real friends, the boys. He had been the important factor in their lives and they were eager to do something for him. On the day of the election they poured into the streets, marched up and down, yelling for Lindsey. The city resounded with their song of "Who, which, when? Wish we were men so that we could vote for our little Ben." All day long, everywhere, the boys kept at it. And the result was success, a decided success for their Judge.

Now may we ask whether friendship is paying in the life of Judge Lindsey?

Was it worth while for him to lay aside "big" cases in which much more was concerned in order to establish and preside over the Juvenile Court? Will it mean anything in the future years of our country that the thoughts, the ambitions of these erring children have been directed into paths of industry, honor, and duty?

Paul Thiean says that Lindsey is the first citizen of Colorado and that his work, not the mines, mills, railroads, and farms, but Judge Lindsey's work is the greatest thing the state has yet produced. And looking at it from the standpoint of that poor lonely boy who was one day sitting in the court-room watching the judge deal out justice, when he suddenly rushed up, kissed the judge and with tears in his eyes, said "I love you," looking at it from his standpoint, I say, we must agree that it is the greatest thing Colorado has yet produced.

After The War.

It is hardly possible to estimate the great joy and thanksgiving of the North when Lee's surrender was proclaimed. The news, which had been looked for so long, was received with shouts of welcome. The hearts of the people bubbled with delight at the thought that they would soon see their loved ones who had gone forth to fight for their country's welfare. Some, however, were sad because of the fact that a few near and dear to them would never return, yet with the bitter thought came a deep prayer of thankfulness that now finally it was over. There would be no more battles, no more prisons, no more lists of dead and wounded. The war was over, the cause was won. Signs of gladness were seen everywhere; houses were decorated and the American flag was flung to the breeze.

Only too soon their joy was turned to grief. On the eve of April fourteenth, 1865, the war-heated blood of the nation was frozen with sudden horror at a deed which then had no parallel in American history. As on the wings of lightning came the news "the President is shot"—"is dying" "is dead." Men scarcely knew how to credit this tale. When the truth was really known all bowed their heads and wept. Common grief took on common garb. Houses changed their bright decorations for those of more sombre hue. The American flag hung pensively at half mast; portraiture of the loved dead were found on all. And dreary as the day was, the patriots' hearts were still drearier. It was as if as chaos and dread night had come again.

Great mobs gathered everywhere, frantic with fear that some dread conspiracy would redder the North with innocent blood and hand over the government to treason and traitors.

In New York the mob as uncontrollable. General Butler from the balcony of the Exchange Building tried to pacify the seething crowd, but all in vain. From the mob there rose a cry "the World," "the office of the World," and the mass of crazed men began to move as one man to that office. Destruction of property, loss of life, violence and anarchy, were in that movement. Apparently no human power could check its progress. But a man stepped out on the balcony and held his arm aloft. His commanding attitude arrested universal attention. Perhaps he was going to give them news. They waited. But while they listened the voice, — it was the voice of General Garfield, — only said:

"Fellow citizens: Clouds and darkness are around about Him: His pavilion is dark waters and thick clouds of the skies: Justice and Judgement are established of His throne: Mercy and truth shall go before His face: Fellow citizens: God reigns and the government at Washington still lives." The tide of popular fury was stayed. The impossible had been accomplished. Rage was turned to grief. On the day of Lincoln's burial bells were tolled throughout the land, minute guns were fired, business was suspended, and the thoughtful betook themselves to prayer. Flowers beautified the lifeless remains, dirges were sung, the people's great heart broke out into sobs and sighing. The train of mourners who followed his cortege extended many hundred miles in length. It was a procession of mourners bewailing him who had so successfully guided the nation through the agony of a Civil War and who had been thus prematurely lost. Yes, we may say prematurely, for if Lincoln, "with Charity for all and malice toward none," had lived, there would have been no bitter feeling between the North and South and race prejudice could never have existed.

One of Lincoln's most cherished desires was to see the disbandment of the army, but the cruel hand of the assassin prevented it. Nine months after his death eight hundred thousand soldiers had been returned to their homes. From the beginning to the end of the disbandment the great Napoleonic War Rule—time is everything—was vigorously enforced.

But what followed was more wonderful! As soon as the order for dis-bandment had gone forth the North had begun to ask itself what they were going to do with the million men about to flood the country. It recalled that after the Napoleonic Wars France was alive with beggars and cripples, and that the end of the Thirty Years' War had filled Germany with marauding musketeers. Several states asked the war department for troops to keep the disbanded soldiers in order. Yet by November eight hundred thousand soldiers had been disbanded, and nothing had happened. They seemed to have disappeared: What had become of them?

The soldiers of 1865 had gone to work. They did not ask to be coddled. They realized the sincerity of the enthusiasm and helpfulness which met them on every hand. For the sake of the ones whom they loved, these men, in whom love of danger and adventure had become a strong passion, hung up their arms and cheerfully began to earn their daily bread.

But what became of the Southern soldiers while the Union army was disbanding? They too turned their weary footsteps homeward, if one may call it home. The Confederate soldier had left his beautiful and prosperous home at the outbreak of the war, filled with hope of victory. At the end of the war, half-hearted, half-starved and exhausted by wounds, he returned, in a ragged and dirty uniform, to find his home in ashes, his family scattered, his labor system destroyed by the emancipation of the slaves, and his money worthless.

What did the confederate soldier do? Did he sit down in despair? No. He set to work immediately trusting that God who had taken away his prosperity would help him in his adversity. By June the fields, which had been scenes of terrible slaughter in April, were green with harvest. The women with patience and heroism "that fit them always as a garment" did their share of the work. Since they had no slaves the burden of household duties fell upon them. This, however, was not done without bitterness, but the cheerfulness that prevailed was indeed wonderful.

Even to this day the Southerner cherishes the memory of that war. H. W. Grady in his speech on "The Old South and the New" expresses the sentiment of the whole South when he says: "In my native town of Athens is a monument that crowns its central hill—a plain white shaft. Deep cut into its shining side is a name dear to me above the names of men—that of a brave and simple man who died in a brave and simple faith.

MISS CARRIE LIGHT

MISS LIZZIE LAU

"Not for all the glories of New England from Plymooth Rock all the way would I exchange the heritage he left me in his soldier's death. To the foot of that shaft I shall send my children's children to reverence him who ennobled their name with his heroic blood. But speaking from the shadow of that memory, which I honor as I do nothing else on earth, I say the cause in which he suffered and for which he gave his life was adjudged by a higher and fuller wisdom than his or mine, and I am glad that the omniscient God held the balance of battle in His Almighty Hand and that slavery was banished forever from American soil, and the American Union was saved from wreck of war."

Reading

One of the most pleasing features of the program was the reading given by Miss Edna Yarkers who presented a cutting from "The Sign of the Cross," a synopsis of which follows:

THE LOVE OF BERENICE

"The scene is Rome. The time, that of Nero. Marcus, the Perfect is beloved by Berenice, a patrician woman of great wealth and beauty and also by Poppeae, Nero's wife. But he loves Mercia, a Christian girl, whom he rescued from the persecutions of the Councillor and Licinus, employed by Nero. Dacia is a gossiping friend of Berenice.

"Dacia, Councillor and Licinus visit Berenice to tell her of the news of Marcus and also to taunt her about his love for Mercia. She receives the news coldly to outward appearances. Marcus arrives and the others leave. Berenice demands the news of Mercia. She professes her love for him but is rejected."

The reader deserves much credit for the commendable way in which she presented this interesting selection. The keen attention and interest of the audience showed in a marked degree their appreciation of the number.

Julia Ward Howe

In a rather small old-fashioned home on Beacon Street, half way between the public gardens, and the Back Bay lived one of America's notable women who has seen the civilization of America form itself and has added potent ingredients to it.

In the parlor of this little home have sat and talked the greatest men of America and the best of her visitors. There were times of merry-making and intercourse with scholarly men. These seem to have left in the atmosphere some indefinable flavor, like a lingering perfume which tells even the casual visitor that there has been high thinking and noble speech.

Julia Ward Howe was born in eighteen hundred and nineteen in a handsome home in Bowling Green at that time the fashionable part of New York City. Her ancestors were prominent factors during the early colonial period. Her father a wealthy merchant and banker, was a man of respect and reserved manners and with a vein of true geniality and a great benevolence of heart. Her mother, Julia Cutler Ward, was a woman of beauty and intellect. Death separated her from her family at the age of twenty-eight, leaving six little children, the fourth, Julia, only five years of age.

This distressing blow was great to the banker and his little flock but he was somewhat condoled by the arrival of Mrs. Ward's sister, Miss Eliza Cutler, who came to bring up the children. Many curious instances are related concerning the conspicuous colors in which she dressed the children. One day Julia is said to have come from school with one blue shoe and one green. But in spite of all, her mind was never set on fashions either in childhood or in later life. What she desired was that which was uplifting and tended toward building character.

At the age of nine she studied Paley's Moral Philosophy with those twice her age. Yet, with a love for studies beyond her years, she was a child at heart. Her youth was pure, happy and strenuous, in many things privileged.

Discovering early a strong love of reading and knowledge, together with marks of great strength and activity of mind, proper care was taken by her worthy father to provide for her education. He procured the best teachers in music, German and Italian. And later she was sent to one of the most conservative of boarding schools, where blackboards and all the appliances for forming prim young lady-hood were in vogue. Her college life was brilliant and without a stain. Her individuality was so great that she came from this institution to be the apostle of equal rights of men and women.

When Julia was fourteen, her father purchased a mansion on the corner of Broadway and Bond Streets. Artists as well as musicians and authors came to visit the picture gallery and accept the Ward hospitality, and returned the courtesy by

Continued on 1st column next page

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by the students of Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

W. A. BRUNNER, '11

E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS

W. O. ELLIS, '11

F. R. KENNEDY, '12

CATHARINE E. HERSHEY, '12

HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12

S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER

W. A. BRUNNER, '11,

ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS

OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12

PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year

Single Copies 5 cts.

Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to Room 19, Administration Building Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa.

Ever since the second year in the history of man, there have been anniversaries, at least not before that time. In our college life, we are not different from the ordinary. We have greater or lesser organizations which are near and dear to us, and next to our college no organization receives our devotion so entirely as does our several societies.

It has been the great pleasure of the editorial staff of the NEWS, to devote an extra sheet to the exclusive use of each respective society at its anniversary season. We take exceeding pleasure in giving this week's publication to the use of the CLIONIAN Literary Society, and extend to that organization our heartiest congratulations for the virtuous tenor and successful rendition of their delightful anniversary exercises.

Julia Ward Howe

Continued from preceding page

displaying their talents. This offered a grand opportunity for Miss Julia to come in contact with the scholars of the day. So well did she perform her part on the instrument, that her friends urged her to devote her life to music. The influences of her home, father, excellent aunt and noble friends, these influences on her heart were strong and elevating.

She discovered in the library the stimulation and the food of intellectual life, and drank unawares from the moral and physical aspects about her, the lesson and power of contentment and self-trust. She began to read Shakespeare and Byron and then tried her hand at poems and plays. These were published in various magazines and resulted in attracting attention which encouraged her to attempt greater tasks.

Not long after the death of her father, Julia, who was now a very attractive young woman went to Boston. There she met men like Sumner, Mann, Emerson and others of the intellectual class. Among these was Dr. Samuel Howe, who had already been a noted philanthropist and reformer. He was an enthusiastic democrat, a republican of republicans, whose creed was the love of humanity. He had paid particular attention to the study of the deaf and blind and was the first man in America to do anything towards lightening their darkened conditions. When the Greeks were in a state of starvation he pleaded eloquently with the Americans until he received a filled vessel for their relief. The famishing people looked upon him as an angel from heaven.

When Julia Ward met Dr. Howe, who was eighteen years her senior, it was not strange that among many admirers he won her hand. He found in her an ardent sympathizer. As early as her wedding trip she began to make impressions which have hardened into facts of American life. When Mr. and Mrs. Howe made their extensive wedding trip in Europe, they took with them as a companion Horace Mann. The young bride full of her husband's projects, talked them to Mr. Mann, with the result that the Horace Mann institutions for the blind are among our charities.

On their return to Boston, Dr. and Mrs. Howe were welcomed as the friends of men and women who gave that city its reputation as a centre of culture. Dr. Howe was given the directorship of an institution for the blind, the young mother on account of the large garden and the conservatories of the estate, called it in half sport, "Green Peace"

Into this happy home were born six children. "Green Peace" was a home where the literary mother and philanthropic father found their greatest comfort. Mrs. Howe with her beautiful voice entertained her children with German songs and when they desired a change, would compose both music and words. There was no end of happy times provided by the devoted mother for the children. A party or a picnic was never complete without "mother."

In spite of all these merrymakings for the little tots, Mrs. Howe found ample time for study and writing, especially when they were at their charming summer home with its old mill and waterfall, at Lawton's Valley in Newport. It was here that she wrote many of her essays and poems for various magazines. She was never seen idle. What she called rest was thought by many to be very hard work. She rested herself after a day's work by reading Greek books and Plato in the original, which gave her the greatest intellectual enjoyment in the later years of her life.

Dr. and Mrs. Howe were ardent workers for the anti-slavery cause. They edited an antislavery paper and were leaders with Garrison, Phillips, and Sumner. Mrs. Howe says it was her husband who suggested the holding of meetings in Boston for the discussion of the problem with abolitionists on one side and pro-slavery men on the other.

Mrs. Howe was a woman of brilliant and quick perceptions, and an impression seemed to fix itself upon her mind until it bore fruit of some kind. When Dr. and Mrs. Howe were visiting Washington in eighteen hundred and sixty-one, making their way there through a line of guarding pickets, they drove out some distance from the city with Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Clark to attend a review of the troops. The enemy interrupted the proceedings and the Boston party was hastily escorted back to the city. On the way the soldiers sang, "John Brown's Body," Mr. Clarke seeing Mrs. Howe's intense face as she listened to the martial music, said to her, "you ought to write some new words to that tune," "I will," she replied. In the gray of the next dawn she awoke to find the lines arranging themselves in her mind. She lay quite still until the last word framed itself she immediately arose and in half darkness wrote them down.

The song was first sung in Libby prison and then the words were caught up and carried from prison to battle field.

COLLEGE NEWS

"He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat, He is sifting out the hearts of men before His judgement seat," echoed until victory was sounded. These verses have a moral and patriotic elevation of feeling, expressed with poetic grace and imagination, which places them far above most of this period; and it seems that their popularity will endure throughout the ages.

From this time on she devoted the rest of her life as a writer, lecturer on woman suffrage and prison reforms. She gave a series of parlor lectures to her personal friends on subjects such as, "Liberty," "Equality," "Fraternity," "The Best of Success," and others. These lectures were so much enjoyed that she was asked to read them in public.

Mrs. Howe's third journey across the Atlantic caused her to become intensely interested in woman Suffrage. In eighteen hundred and sixty nine she was earnestly requested to sign with others, a call for a woman's suffrage convention, which she did. "From that time forth," she said, "I marched to the music of a new hope; and all the years that have passed since then I have never had occasion to regret the departure which I made then and there."

After the death of Dr. Howe she devoted herself untiringly to everything that she thought might elevate humanity. She lectured in all parts of the United States, also in Florence, Italy, and Athens and always proved herself the elegant, wellbred, highly educated woman. She preached in many American pulpits, regardless of the criticism which was passed upon her. She felt sure that the barriers against women would slowly be broken down and that the time was coming when women would have all the political and industrial privileges of men.

Mrs. Howe's close association with most of the great men and women and the most intellectual society of America during the last half century makes her a true representative of the best type of womanhood in American life. It has been her lifelong ambition to exercise influence toward right living.

In reply to a remark that her character and appearance resembled that of Queen Victoria, she said that she would far rather be counted among the influential women of America than to be Queen of England. It seems almost impossible to say that her ambition has been realized. But in the quiet of her drawing room she was found at her best. It was there that her brightness of intellect and warmth of womanly sentiment shone forth.

She never hesitated to give her opinion on any subject when questioned. The following are some of her ideas of young women:

"The world looks to women and depends upon them for its moral and spiritual advancement. They are going up and men are going with them. One sex cannot advance alone, the progress must be mutual. That is why I believe in co-education."

"It is sometimes said that women are what men make them. It is much truer to say that men are what women make them. The best elements of society are conserved in women."

Mrs. Howe thinks that out of the stimulating new conditions will come the representative twentieth century American girl, who will be the highest type of girl the world has seen.

Mrs. Howe's daughters have been followers of her theories. They have seen their mother preside over suffrage societies all their lives and as they grew older each of them took active part. Thru all their works can be seen the leaven of their mother's spirit, the love of liberty..

Julia Ward Howe had a large circle of friends, her hospitality was boundless. She was just, pure, generous, and affectionate. She possessed remarkable intellectual power, force of will, elaborate culture and power of eloquence. Entering with all her heart into the cause of liberty, her ability, patriotism, and power with the pen naturally drew upon her a large participation in the most important concerns. Wherever she was there was found a soul devoted to the cause, power to defend and maintain it, and willingnes to incur all its hazards.

The objects of her life were accomplished and the drama was ready to be closed on October seventeen, nineteen hundred and ten. It has closed only over mature years, over long protracted public service, over the weakness of age and over life itself, only when the course of life had been fulfilled. Her departure has left an immense void in American society. Her life was blended with the history of the country, her death has touched the strings of public sympathy.

The tree which she had helped to plant is flourishing, its leaves are green and buds are coming forth, the branches are continually increasing the length of their protecting arms, no storm is able to overturn it, for its roots have taken a firm hold.

Thanksgiving Banquet

A large gathering of students and friends of the college enjoyed the banquet at the ladies' dormitory on Thursday.

It is customary for the senior class to arrange decorations and toasts, both of which were admirably planned this season. Some party kindly presented chrysanthemums for the tables. The dining hall looked very pretty when the jolly company filed in to their places as assigned by card.

President Keister offered the blessing and the following menu was served:

Roast Turkey
Giblet Sauce	Cranberry Sauce
Sweet Potatoes
Lima Beans
Celery	Olives
	Scalloped Oysters
Fruit Salad	Salted Wafers
	Ice Cream
Cocoanut Cake	Salted Nuts
	Chocolate Mints
	Coffee.

The last course was followed by the toasts. Mr. O. T. Ehrhart, '11, was toastmaster. He presented the different speakers of the occasion in his usual affable and pleasing manner.

The first speaker introduced was Mr. Harry Charlton, '14, who spoke on "Freshman Impressions." The speaker very ably and pleasantly handled his subject from a Freshman's stand point.

"The White and Blue" by Miss Edna Yarkers, '13, could not have been better rendered. Her thought was superb, and the call for devotion to the old emblem impressed all present with a new sense of appreciation for their Alma Mater.

Absolutely impartial as far as ties are concerned, sympathetic in her criticism, generous in her feelings and kindly to her enemies, Miss Lizzie Lau, '12, presented "Our Seniors."

Mr. Artus O. Kauffman, '11 the last speaker, spoke on "Evolutions."

Among the serious evolutions mentioned were those of the campus, of ideals, the faculty and finance. Mr. Kauffman had a pathetic subject, but he made it interesting and as painless as possible for those who knew conditions.

President Keister made a short address, on "Happiness" and the value in making it an immediate issue.

It makes us all feel good to hear the good wit and humor as well as the wholesome advice of our worthy President.

As a suitable climax to our happy banquet, the Alma Mater was sung and a yell given for Lebanon Valley.

Items of Interest

Prof. H. E. Wanner was a Philadelphia visitor during the Thanksgiving recess. During his stay in the city he witnessed two foot ball games, the Penn-Cornell game on Thanksgiving and the Navy-Army game on Saturday.

Amos H. Weigle, '13, spent several days in Philadelphia last week.

Miss Elizabeth Cooper, of Lambertville, N. J., was the guest of Miss Edith Lehman, 13, during the Thanksgiving vacation.

Mrs. Ruth Lambert Bailey, of Hagerstown, Md., was a guest of Miss Helen Brightbill over Thanksgiving. She attended the Clonian Literary Society Anniversary.

Miss Edith Breight, of Harrisburg, attended the Anniversary of the Clonian Literary Society on Thanksgiving evening.

Artus O. Kauffman, '11, was at his home in Dallastown over Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Edith Brunner, of Reading, spent Sunday and part of Monday, at Annville as the guest of Miss Josephine Urich, '14.

Miss Edith Morrison, '14, was the guest of Miss Merle Behny, of Lebanon, on Sunday.

Forrest Hensel, '12, was the guest of his parents at Lykens over Saturday and Sunday.

Samuel Grimm, '12, spent several days last week at his home at Red Lion.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.
Group System.
Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology
Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

CHRISTY-“NIFTY”
POST CARDS

Stock from New York and Paris

H. E. SPESSARD'S BOOK STORE

Journal Building ANNVILLE, PA.

Annville National Bank

Capital	- -	$100,000.00
Surplus and Undivided Profits	- -	122,000.00
Deposits	- -	400,000.00
Resources	-	680,000.00

3 Per Cent. Paid on Special Deposits

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
ESTABLISHED 1824
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.
Send for a Catalogue.

You are correct if you get your
LADIES' and GENTS' FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.
Students' Discount
Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and Scouring Works

A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA

The CHAS. H. ELLIOTT COMPANY

The Largest College Engraving House in the World

Commencement Invitations
Class Day Programs and Class Pins

Dance Programs and Invitations
Menus
Leather Dance Cases and Covers

Fraternity and Class Inserts for Annuals
Fraternity and Class Stationery

Wedding Invitations and Calling Cards
WORKS—17th STREET and LEHIGH AVENUE Philadelphia.

Represented at L. V. C. by
W. ALBERT BRUNNER

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision on Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute

Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport, Iowa, Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

The Electric City Engraving Co.
BUFFALO, N. Y.

C The largest specialists in College Engravings in the country.

COLLEGE NEWS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

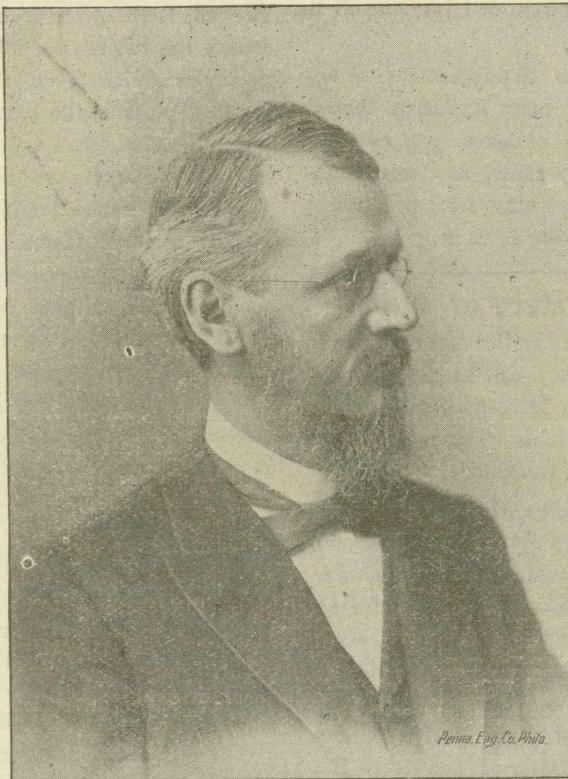

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, December 6, 1910

No. 11

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

In Memoriam

HON. E. BENJ. BIERMAN

We present with this issue of the "News" a picture of the late President Bierman, the anniversary of whose birth occurred December 1. Dr. Bierman was a warm friend of the college. He was a member of the first Faculty and at the time of his death he held the important position of Treasurer. During the severe financial crisis of the nineties he was its President. Dr. Bierman's thorough and accurate knowledge of the history of the college, his acquaintance with the constituency and particularly with the alumni, added to his deep devotion to the college in its varied interests made his advice and his suggestion almost invaluable.

During the later years of his official relationship he endeared himself to the students by his intelligent sympathy with their work.

The securing of the "Dodge Fund" thru his untiring efforts is only one of the many lasting monuments to the honored memory of Dr. Bierman at Lebanon Valley College. Always loyal to the college and its interests, however dark the gathering clouds of opposition were, his true devotion to her welfare, and the firmness with which he followed his convictions, should be a lesson to all students and Alumni of Lebanon Valley to redouble their energies for her service.

Calendar.

Tuesday—Dec. 6, 6 p.m. Prayer meeting.

Friday Dec. 9, 7:15 p. m. K. L. S., 7:30 p. m. Clio-Philo joint session.

Sunday—Dec. 11, 1 p. m. Christian Associations.

Alumni

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Galen Light of Boston, a daughter. Mr. Light graduated with the class of '99.

President W. G. Clippinger, '99, of Otterbein visited at the college on Dec. 1. Mr. Clippinger came to Annville from New York, where he had been to see Mr. John D. Rockefeller in the interest of an endowment fund for Otterbein.

In the Westfield College Bulletin appears the opening address which was delivered by Professor Charles C. Peters, A.M. '05, at the opening exercises of Westfield College which took place on Wednesday, Sept. 14. Mr. Peters received his degree from Harvard last year. He took for his subject: "The Social Element in Education."

Amos W. Herman, '07, of York, was a college visitor on Monday.

Rev. Pearl Mathias, '05, and Mrs. Mathias visited the college last week.

Miss Reba F. Lehman, '00, spent Thanksgiving at home.

Among the Alumni who spent Thanksgiving here were: Mr. Park Eibenshade, '07, and wife, Mr. Allen Rutherdorf, '10, Miss Myrtle Garrett, '10, Miss Lucy Seltzer, '10 Mr. V. O. Weidler, '10, Mr. M. F. Lehman, '07,

Continued on page 4

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by the students of Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
W. A. BRUNNER, '11
E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS
W. O. ELLIS, '11
F. R. KENNEDY, '12
CATHARINE E. HERSHEY, '12
HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12
S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER
W. A. BRUNNER, '11,
ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS
OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12
PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year
Single Copies 5 cts.
Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to Room 19, Administration Building Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

What formerly seemed impossible to some, is now being accomplished by others. Two years ago we were told that however great was the need of a college paper, it would be impossible to interest enough of the alumni to make it a paying proposition. Those who advised us thus were wrong.

Our present manager has greatly increased the subscription list, has pushed the advertising scheme successfully, has secured second class rates from Uncle Sam, and fared admirably with the printers.

Now it seems that some alumni are still dubious without having reason to be so. We do not mean to say by this that we can get along without their support, far from it, but we do wish to say that if the paper does not reach the demand of some, we would beg leave to state that we are "living within our means."

We feel quite sure that most of our subscribers are well aware of our limits as well as our possibilities, and that if subscribers and staff will co-operate in thought and criticism, there will soon open up larger fields for this publication.

We need the support of every alumnus, and it has been very gratifying to the staff to see how loyally the alumni have been responding. To get an idea of what some have been doing, we would inform our readers that all the members of the classes "1909" and "1910" have subscribed, even some of their ex-members. That is just how important they deem their connection with their alma mater.

Alumnus, if you are in touch with classmate or a friend who is not getting the "News," write to him immediately and impress upon his mind, how necessary his subscription is for any growth or advancement in its columns.

We are open to suggestions at any time, and you may feel sure that as soon as every alumnus and student puts himself on record as a worker for better "News," the staff will not be guilty of keeping it back.

Conservatory of Music

The closing recital by students of the Conservatory will be given Thursday, December 15th, at 8:00 p. m. in Engle Auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The November Recital Class was given on the 15th, the following appearing on the program: Piano solos, Misses Myrl Behney, Maude Kershner, Bertha Spessard, Grace Smith, Katherine Mozer, Anna Fry and Mr. G. Frederick Botts. Songs, Miss Helen Brightbill and Mr. Botts. Organ, Misses Ora Bachman and Ruth Detweiler.

Miss Alice Keath, Penryn, Pa. visited Miss Meda Diehm at the Ladies' Hall recently.

Some very promising material has been lined up for Glee Club and rehearsals are in progress. Good tenor voices will still receive consideration.

Miss Katherine Mozer has been absent from classes the past week due to sickness.

Present to Crios

We are glad to announce that the Clonian society has recently received a valuable dictionary for use at the critic's desk. This was the gift of Miss Dodge, and is only one of the many ways in which she is constantly expressing her sympathy for, and desire to help, the student body.

Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.

The leader of the very interesting joint session was Miss Edna Yarker. The topic under discussion was "Missions in Africa." Miss Yarker showed how important Africa is for Christian missions. She also pointed out how very critical this period is in Christian missions.

The Y. W. C. A. quartette then rendered a selection which was very much appreciated. Mr Leibold followed with a talk on "The Need of Industrial Missions in Africa." He clearly showed that in order to permanently insure the success of missions, missionaries must teach the natives to work. Work is the basis of real independence.

Miss Spessard gave a report of the United Brethren activities in their missionary work of Africa.

An interesting discussion followed in which Professor Shenk pointed out the great work that Lebanon Valley has done, and is doing for Africa. He also showed what requirements are necessary for a missionary to-day. Among other things, a missionary must be broad minded, he must study primitive races and lay special stress on the industrial training of the converted heathen. This meeting was well attended and everyone enjoyed the program which was well rendered.

Mathematical Round Table

The regular monthly meeting of the mathematical Round Table was held on Wednesday evening, in Professor Lehman's recitation room.

Lester Spessard presented the "Theory of Limits." He read several short articles on the subject and made appropriate comments. As this subject is one of vital interest to all mathematicians, it called forth a very animated discussion. One phase of it was the age at which students are able to grasp the Theory of Limits, and the advisability of its being taught in high schools.

John Lehman read a very interesting paper on "The Relation of mathematics to other Sciences." He showed particularly its importance in Physics, Chemistry and Astronomy.

The interest in the Round Table is steadily growing. Several new members were added at this meeting.

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

CLIO-PHILO JOINT SESSION

Piano Duet, Mae Meyer, Ruth Detweiler; Original Story, S. B. Plummer; Vocal solo, Florence Roland; Essay, Edna Yarkers; Sketch, Edith McCurdy, Helen Brightbill, L. A. Rodes, A. H. Weigel; quartet, Bertha Spessard, Lottie Spessard, L. L. Spessard, E. A. Spessard; Parody, Helen Weidler; Oration, G. A. Richie; Olive Branch, Living Thoughts; Piano solo, Mary Spayd.

KALOZETEAN

Current Events, Mason Long; Essay, G. A. Williams; Basket Ball Season, J. F. Reed; Octette; Eulogy, Paul Strickler; Examiner, Editor. Visitors welcome.

Matters Historical

EARLY HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE IN THE LIGHT OF THE CONTEMPORARY PRESS

CORNER STONE LAID

The corner stone of the new college edifice was laid on the twenty-third ult. Impressive ceremonies were conducted by Rev. W. S. Keys. The scripture lesson being read by President Vickroy and Rev. George A. Marks Jr. After the ceremonies the audience marched in procession to the United Brethren Church where an able address was delivered by the Hon. J. P. Wickersham, State Superintendent of public schools. Senor Sarmiento, Minister Plenipotentiary of Argentine Republic to the United States and candidate for President of his own country, was present, being on a tour of investigation of the public school system of this country.

Everything passed off delightfully, and the friends of the college are very cheerful, being certain of success.

Lebanon Valley College is a regularly chartered institution and will soon rank among the first colleges of the state. During the last year the institution has met with so much encouragement that its friends have concluded to add another building which we understand is to be one of the largest and perhaps the most elegantly planned in this state. Prof. T. R. Vickroy, the President of the college, is a gentleman of fine attainments and a live teacher. He has won the affections of all the students and he is assisted by teachers, all of whom stand high in their respective departments. We take pleasure in recommending this institution to parents who desire to educate their sons and daughters. Parties desiring a circular showing the design of the new building and grounds should address Rev. T. R. Vickroy, Annville, Pa. —From Commercial Monthly, York, Pa., Sept. 1, 1867.

Ex- L. V. Man State Star Football Player

Rex John, the 19-year old Wilkinsburg athlete, the star fullback of Otterbein University, by his good all-round work won a place on the All-Ohio team at fullback.

His playing has been close to marvelous starring in every game, being the only man to cross Ohio State's Goal line during the entire season, State playing such teams as Michigan, Cincinnati and Oberlin. John is not only good on account of his terrific line plunging, but is also good because of long end runs. Not only is he apt in that department of the game, but also ranks as a classy kicker. His punting has been splendid, and he has also proved himself a good goal kicker.

Much of the credit for John's playing is due to coach Exendine, of Carlisle, All American end for 1906, now coach at Otterbein. He has developed John in a remarkable manner, and this famous exponent of the open game claims that John could make any team in the country.

John was a member of the class of 1910 at L. V. In his freshman year he was varsity full back. He was then 15 years old.

ALUMNI NOTES

(Continued from page 1)

Dr. Ralph Engle, '05, Mr. F. E. Schaeffer, '10.

Mr. George W. Gensemer announces the marriage of his daughter, Catharine May, to Mr. Homer Daniel Sarge, on Wednesday, November twenty-third at Pine Grove, Pennsylvania. Miss Gensemer entered the conservatory in '04.

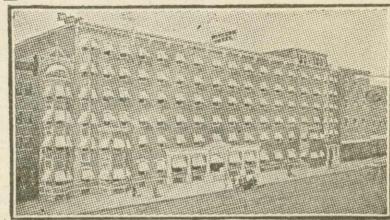

Freshman-Sophomore Football Game

On Tuesday, Nov. 22, a hard-fought football game took place on the College Gridiron when the Freshman and Sophomore classes met in their annual contest. The Sophomore team was handicapped by their lack of weight and experience, both of which were the Freshmen's strong points. The Sophomores had an entirely green line, while the Freshmen had seven varsity players. The Freshmen also cut-weighed their opponents about ten pounds to the man. Kreider, Hummel, Light, and Biever starred for the victors while the tackling of B. Light, E. Loser and Richie and the punting of Heffelfinger were the mainstays of the Sophomores. All of the scoring was done in the first half, the plucky Sophs preventing their heavier opponents from scoring in the second. The final score was 22-0 in favor of the Freshmen. The line-up: Freshmen Sophomore Schmidt (Walters) 1 e Shearer Reddick 1 t Klinger Snavely (Harnish) 1 g Boughter Rodes c B. Light Walters (Stager) r g Ulrich Biever r t Potter Strickler r e Mulhollen Kreider (Capt.) q b Richie Charlton (Schmidt) r h b E. Loser Hummel 1 h b Heffelfinger A. Light f b P. Loser (Capt) Touchdowns, Kreider 2, Hummel, Light. Goals from touch-downs Kreider 2. Referees Lehman and Hensel; Umpires, Hensel and Lehman; Head Linesman, Butterwick; Field judge, Marshall; time of Periods, 10 minutes.

WINDSOR HOTEL

W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.

European, $1.00 per day and up
American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street Station and Reading Terminal on Filbert Street.

The only moderate priced hotel of
reputation and consequence in

PHILADELPHIA

Seniors Guests

SOPHOMORES ENTERTAIN IN FINE STYLE

One of the most pleasant features of the social side of College life this year was held on Tuesday evening, November 22, when the Sophomores banqueted the Seniors. By eight o'clock a large majority of the members of both classes had arrived at the home of Florence Christeson, '13, where the festivities were held.

At a given signal the parlors resounded with the Sophomore yell, which was immediately answered by the Seniors. The evening was spent in music and various games, after which very delightful refreshments were served. Toasts were by no means lacking. G. A. Richie, '13, acted as toastmaster, and the following toasts were responded to: '11 Boys, Sarah Zimmerman; '11 Girls, A. H. Wiegel; '13 Girls, V. D. Mulhollen; '13 Boys, Clara Horn. Fred L. Frost, president of the class of 1911, responded for the Seniors. Mrs. Mary Stehman chaperoned the party.

Items of Interest

Pres. Keister delivered an interesting sermon in the local U. B. Church on Sunday morning.

The Annville P. O. S. of A. held its annual memorial exercises on Sunday afternoon in the College Chapel with a large audience present. Rev. Paul D. Witman, pastor of the Lutheran church, delivered the address.

T. J. Leibold, '12, preached in the Cleona U. B. Church on Sunday evening.

W. A. Brunner, '11, and P. R. Koontz, '11, spent Friday afternoon in Lebanon on business.

Oliver Butterwick, '12, F. S. Hensel, '12, and Prof. H. E. Wanner spent Saturday afternoon in Harrisburg.

Carrie Light, '12, spent Sunday at her home in Jonestown.

The only way to have a friend is to be one.—Emerson.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.
Group System.
Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology
Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

CHRISTY-“NIFTY”
POST CARDS

Stock from New York and Paris

H. E. SPESSARD'S BOOK STORE
Journal Building ANNVILLE, PA.

Annville National Bank

Capital	- -	$100,000.00
Surplus and Undivided Profits	- -	122,000.00
Deposits	- -	400,000.00
Resources	- -	680,000.00

3 Per Cent. Paid on Special Deposits

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
ESTABLISHED 1824
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.
Send for a Catalogue.

You are correct if you get your
LADIES' and GENTS' FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.
Students' Discount Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and
Scouring Works
A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor
27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA

The CHAS. H. ELLIOTT COMPANY

The Largest College Engraving House in the World

Commencement Invitations
Class Day Programs and Class Pins.

Dance Programs and Invitations
Menus
Leather Dance Cases and Covers
 Fraternity and Class Inserts for Annuals
Fraternity and Class Stationery

Wedding Invitations and Calling Cards
WORKS—17th STREET and LEHIGH AVENUE Philadelphia.

Represented at L. V. C. by
W. ALBERT BRUNNER

Kodaks, Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs
HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive “wireless” developments. We operate under direct supervision on Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute
Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

The Electric City Engraving Co.
BUFFALO, N.Y.

C The largest specialists in College Engravings in the country.

COLLEGE NEWS

Prof S H Derickson

I-10-II

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, December 13, 1910

No. 12

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

OLD AD-BUILDING

We present with this issue a picture of the old Administration building which was completely destroyed by fire on the evening of December 24, 1904. As the majority of the students were at their homes for their Christmas vacation when the fire occurred, the personal loss was heavy. Most of the valuable records of the College were also lost at this time.

The newly equipped administration building which was built immediately after the fire is situated on the site of the old building.

My College

TO LEBANON VALLEY

O college ever noble
O college ever free,
May all thy sons be willing
To do their best for thee!

The light of God is o'er thee,
His spirit in thy breast;
From thee the earth has blessing
And hope for its opprest.

No worthy aims go begging
For aid beside thy door,
Without receiving plenty
From out thy lavish store.

Thy sons will long remember
Thy loyalty to right,
And with thine inspiration
For truth will keep the fight.

O college ever noble
O college ever free
Thine every son is willing
To do his best for thee.

Norman C. Schlichter '97.

College Day

LANCASTER COUNTY MINISTERIUM COLLEGE DAY IN COUNTY CHURCHES

According to the recent action of the Lancaster County U. B. Ministerium, December 11, was set apart as College Day, when the cause of Education was presented to the people. No offerings were asked for, but the services of the day were only an intelligent enlistment of the people so that in due season they may respond both in students and money.

To achieve the greatest possible success, an exchange of pulpits has been recommended ever since this day has been inaugurated, three years ago. At no time has any minister in the county failed to work the plan. The appointments for the exchange of pulpits as adopted was as follows:

Columbia, A. G. Nye, Centerville, C. Mease Denver, J. M. Walters; Elizabethtown, Pres. L. Keister, morn-

Calendar.

Tuesday—Dec. 13, 6 p. m. Prayer Meeting.

Wednesday—Dec. 14, 7 p. m. Biological Field Club.

Thursday—Dec. 15, 6 p. m. Ministerial Association; 7 p. m. Mathematical Round Table; 8 p. m. Students Recital.

Friday Dec. 6, 7:15 p. m. Literary Society.

Sunday—Dec. 18, 1 p. m. Christian Associations.

ing, S. C. Enck evening; Ephrata, W. W. Fredinger Florin, M. H. Wert; Hopeland, James Keene; Intercourse, E. S. Comrey; Lancaster, Covenant, R. R. Butterwick, morning, J. Warren Kauffman, evening; Lancaster, Queen, J. T. Spangler, morning, I. H. Albright, evening; Lititz, H. J. Behney; Manor, I. Moyer Hershey; Manheim, S. S. Daugherty; Mountville, A. G. Nye, morning; J. T. Spangler, evening; Mt. Joy, J. Warren Kauffman, morning; Pres. A. L. Keister, evening; New Holland, D. E. Long; Pequea, B. M. Breneman; Refton, I. H. Albright, morning, R. R. Butterwick, evening; St. John's, A. E. Shroyer.

Many of these men are Alumni of the College, and we feel that Lebanon Valley was very well presented to the people of Lancaster county.

Biological Field Club

The following program will be rendered on Wednesday evening, December 14th in the Biological Lecture room.

Observations concerning the habits of ants, Chester E. Rettew; Fossil Plants found in coal, Ivan L. Ressler; The Effect of temperature on Germination, Carrie Light; The life history and economic value of the Bumble Bee, Charles Arndt.

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by the students of Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
W. A. BRUNNER, '11
E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS
W. O. ELLIS, '11
F. R. KENNEDY, '12
CATHERINE E. HERSHAY, '12
HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12
S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER
W. A. BRUNNER, '11,
ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS
OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12
PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year
Single Copies 5 cts.
Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to Room 19, Administration Building Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

During the past week the local Y. M. C. A. received its first official visit from the new State Students' Secretary, Mr. Irvin E. Deer. We were pleased to make the personal acquaintance of our new leader, and learn of his plans for carrying on the work during the new year.

That the Y. M. C. A. upheld by the student bodies of the various Colleges over the country are doing a great and good work, cannot be gainsaid. Every where the influence which results from their operations is felt. As a local Association, we desire to make this influence as great as possible, and in order to have this result, the helping hand of every College man is needed and solicited. The presence of a large number of men insures better addresses than when the leaders are obliged to speak to audiences composed largely of vacant chairs.

The secretary had conferences with each committee separately, and gave much sound advice relating to the work of the various departments. One department in which the whole Association is interested is the work in the quarries adjacent to Annville. This work is being carried on regularly and should be encouraged. There is no reason why the influence of the Y. M. C. A. should not be made to bear strongly on those men who cannot even speak our language intelligently. They learn readily, and every effort should be made to help them to the light.

We were pleased to entertain our new leader for the few days he remained with us. Anyone who heard his splendid address in Chapel on Thursday morning can readily see his extreme interest in his new field of labor. Our desire is that he may often visit our Association, as he is always very welcome.

Athletic Election

The winter election of the College Athletic Association was held last Thursday afternoon in Professor Wanner's lecture room with a large attendance. As is shown by the results, two new departments are represented this year, namely, track and tennis. The new constitution which was adopted in the fall calls for these departments. The Track managers will begin operations as soon as possible for the building of a cinder track on the Athletic field. The Athletic Association is also working to get tennis under its supervision in order that the College may be better represented in that department. Each of these new managers should have all the encouragement and assistance that it is possible to give. The results of the election are as follows: President, C. F. Harnish, '12; Secretary, E. G. Loser '13; Football manager, Oliver B. Butterwick '12; Ass't football manager, G. Richie '13; Track manager E. A. Spessard '11; Ass't track manager, E. H. Carmany, '12; Tennis manager, Catherine, E. Hershey, '12; Ass't Tennis manager, Russel Weidler '14.

According to the constitution the remaining officers of the Association will be elected at the April election.

The Varsity football men who were granted sweaters and Varsity letters this year were: F. S. Hensel, '12, F. L. Frost, '11, Capt. J. K. Lehman, '11, J. E. Marshall, '11, F. R. Kennedy, '12, H. H. Charlton, '14, Warren Hayes, '14, W. D. Biever, '14, H. H. Kreider, '14, Paul Loser, '13, and Manager O. T. Ehrhart '11.

Y. W. C. A.

A large number of girls were present on Sunday afternoon and enjoyed one of the best meetings of the year. The president opened the meeting with a short and spirited song service. Miss Florence Roland sang a very beautiful solo after which Miss Parks gave a very interesting and helpful talk. She is deeply interested in social problems in our great cities and chose that as her subject having had personal experience in this line, she understands conditions as they exist. She said it is interesting to note in the Bible how much stress the prophets, in their preaching place on the oppression of the poor.

The problem is by no means new, but it is still facing us, and every true Christian must share in righting the social evils.

Every girl present was intensely interested in Miss Parks' remarks and received a broader conception of her duty toward her fellowmen.

New Foot Ball Captain

Last week the Varsity letter men met and elected Forrest S. Hensel, '12, as captain of the foot ball team for next year. Since a number of new men were broken in this year, the prospects for a good team next year are very good.

Captain Hensel is a good, clean, consistent, all-around player, and should keep plenty of life in the team.

He was a star player at the Lykens high school, when attending that school and has been a Varsity man ever since his Freshmen year in College. The "News" congratulates Captain Hensel, and wishes him a most successful season next year.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. session of Sunday afternoon was one full of live interest. V. D. Mulhollen, the leader, read the sixth chapter of Galatians as a lesson, and based his remarks on that scripture.

Many good thoughts were brought out along the line of personal responsibility and helping each other. The meeting was interesting in that a good number were present, and several fine addresses were made.

Among those who spoke on different phases of the subject were Messrs. Leibold, L. B. Harnish, Young, Murray, Richie and Brunner.

COLLEGE NEWS

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

PHILOKOSMIAN

Resume, Lester Rodes; The work of the Professional Strike Breaker, J. E. Marshall; Debate: Resolved that the present method of Taxation is unjust, Affirmative, Russel Weidler, Paul Loser; Negative, Maurice Lester, John Sherk; Piano solo, W. L. Murray;

Does it Pay to be a "Grind"? J. K. Lehman; The value of Cartoons to the American People, James Shively.

KALOZETEAN

Happenings of the week, Edgar Landis; Eulogy, Mason Long; Debate: Resolved that the Darwinian Theory of Evolution Can be Proved, affirmative, W. O. Ellis, P. E. Young, Negative, P. B. Gibble, G. A. Williams; Vocal solo, Harry Charlton; Essay William Stager; Original story, Warren Hayes. Visitors welcome.

Prof. S. H. Derickson of the department of Biology made a business trip to Philadelphia on last Wednesday and Thursday.

CLIONIAN

Piano Solo, Maud Kershner; Reading, Katharine Clauser; Christmas Story Contest, Edith Morrison, Helen Brightbill, Blanch Risser; Vocal solo, Verda Snyder; Christmas Reading, Nellie Seltzer; Retrospects and Anticipations, Edith Lehman; Piano solo, Vera Myers

Cilo- Philo Joint Session

The first joint session of the year between the Clonian and Philokosmian societies was held in Philo Hall with Philo officers presiding on Friday evening December 9, and was quite a successful and pleasant occasion. At 7:30 when all were comfortably seated the program was introduced and each number was excellently rendered. The program: Piano Duett, Mae Meyer, Ruth C. Detweiler; Original Story, S. B. Plummer; Vocal Solo, Edith Ging-Gingrich; Essay Edna Yarkers; Sketch, Edith McCurdy, Helen Brightbill, L. A. Rodes, A. H. Weigel; Quartet, Bertha S. pessard, Lottie Spessard, L. L. Spessard, E. A. Spessard; Parody, Helen Weidler; Oration, G.A. Richie; Olive Branch, Living Thoughts; Piano Solo, Mary Spayd.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served and the next hour was spent in a very informal way while a general good time went round.

Conservatory of Music

The following is the program for the students' recital Thursday evening December 15th, 1910. 8:00 p. m. Engle Auditorium. Deshayes— March in D. major, organ, Miss Ora Bachman; MacDowell—Improvisation, pianoforte, Miss Bertha Spessard; Raff—LaFileuse pianoforte, Miss Marion Light; Nevin—'Twas April, song, Miss Helen Brightbill; Dennee— Springtime, pianoforte, Miss Susan Frantz; Chopin—Nocturne, Op 55, pianoforte, Miss Sara Strickler; Nigri—By Moonlight, Vocal trio, Misses Fink, L. Spessard, and Mr. Botts; Calkins—Harvest Thanksgiving March, organ, Miss Ruth Detweiler; Arensky—Bigarrure, pianoforte, Miss Meda Diehm; Willeby—The Hour, song, Miss Eva Foltz; Schutt—Tendre Aveu, pianoforte, Miss Edith Gingrich; Sparrow—When Violets their fragrance spill, song, Miss Katherine Fink; Kirchner—Polonaise, two pianos, Misses A. Fry and K. Gingrich; Vincent—Jolly Winter, Ladies Chorus, Misses E. Gingrich, Roland, Brightbill, Fink, Weidman, Foltz, K. Gingrich, Ely, L. Spessard, Bachman, Kershner Light, and Spayd.

The public is cordially invited to the above named recital.

Ten Volumes of "The American History and Encyclopedia of Music" have been presented to the Conservatory of Music through the generosity of the Mendelssohn Club and other students of the Conservatory. The volumes are given to musical biography, two volumes to operas, one volume to oratorios and masses, others on Theory, American Music, Musical Instruments, Foreign Music and a Dictionary of Musical Terms.

Notice to Subscribers

The anniversary of the first number of the "News" will soon occur. With that number the term of many of our subscribers will expire. We thank you for your past patronage and earnestly request that you renew your subscription immediately.

Oxford University in England, after a thousand years' existence as an institution for men alone, will admit women hereafter. The same conditions will be required of women as of men.

Farmers' Week

PENN. STATE COLLEGE HOLDS ANNUAL EVENT

At the request of the School of Agriculture and Experiment Station Pennsylvania State College, we publish the following article:

"Farmers' Week at The Pennsylvania State College will be held this year December 19 to 24th, inclusive.

A splendid opportunity is offered to all farmers interested in a better agriculture. Lectures on live topics will be given by men who have practical experience as well as scientific knowledge. In addition to the lectures, many practical demonstrations in judging dairy cattle, beef cattle, horses, sheep, swine and poultry will be given.

The program is so arranged that any individual can attend lectures during each period upon the subjects which interest him most.

"Many of the speakers are men of national prominence in their respective lines from this and other states. Every farmer, who can possibly do so, should arrange to spend at least a part of the week in getting into touch with this practical science which is offered."

Outlook for Track

The new track manager contemplates building a new quarter-mile track around the athletic field and running a short season. This track will cost a great deal of money if the manager has to depend upon out siders to do the work at several dollars per day. But

WINDSOR HOTEL

W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.

European, $1.00 per day and up
American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street Station and Reading Terminal on Filbert Street.

The only moderate-priced hotel of reputation and consequence in other institutions have made tracks by the manual labor of their students and it is the hope of the manager that when the call is made, a holiday will be established by the authorities and that every male student will report on the athletic field for business. This happy day will not be ordered for a month or so, but let every student goad himself until then with keenest anticipation for that event.

PHILADELPHIA

COLLEGE NEWS

Items of Interest

Don't forget to include the COLLEGE NEWS in your Christmas presents.

Lebanon Valley College has been recognized by the State Supreme Court to the extent that graduates who wish to study law are not required to take the preliminary law examination before entering a law school.

A large College pennant has been presented to the Boys' Department of the Kensington Y. M. C. A. recently. The management of that department requested that this be done, as he is collecting pennants from Universities, Colleges, Preparatory and High Schools, with two purposes in view. One is to decorate their rooms, and the other is that the pennants may be a constant reminder to the boys of the possibility of a higher education.

Ralph Riegel, who was at his home at Millersburg since Thanksgiving returned to school last week.

Coach H. M. Forrest, of Lancaster, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends at the College.

A number of students enjoyed a coasting party on "Gravel Hill" last Saturday evening. Those in the party were Misses Horn, Lottie Spessard, Lehman, Yarkers, Weidler, and Lau, and Messrs Lehman, Richie, Ehrhart, Shively, Plummer and Koontz. The party was chaperoned by Miss Parks.

Prof. H. E. Wanner and F. S. Hensel, '12, spent Saturday afternoon at Harrisburg.

Harry Denlinger entertained his father and Rev. M. H. Wert, a former student on Friday. Both these gentlemen enjoyed the Philo-Clio joint session on Friday evening.

The Sophomores received their class jerseys last week. The body is crimson, and the numerals, '13, are steel.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.
Group System.
Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology
Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Keister, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

CHRISTY-NIFTY
POST CARDS

Stock from New York and Paris

H. E. SPESSARD'S BOOK STORE

Journal Building ANNVILLE, PA.

Annville National Bank

Capital	- - -	$100,000.00
Surplus and Undivided Profits	- - -	122,000.00
Deposits	- - -	400,000.00
Resources	- - -	680,000.00

3 Per Cent. Paid on Special Deposits

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
ESTABLISHED 1824
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.
Send for a Catalogue.

You are correct if you get your
LADIES' and GENTS'
FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.
Students' Discount Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and
Scouring Works
A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor
27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA

The CHAS. H. ELLIOTT COMPANY

The Largest College Engraving House in the World

Commencement · Invitations
Class Day Programs and
Class Pins

Dance Programs and Invitations
Menus
Leather Dance Cases and Covers

Fraternity and Class Inserts for Annuals
Fraternity and Class Stationery

Wedding Invitations and Calling Cards
WORKS—17th STREET and LEHIGH AVENUE Philadelphia.

Represented at L. V. C. by
W. ALBERT BRUNNER

Kodaks. Cameras and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive "wireless" developments. We operate under direct supervision on Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute
Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

The Electric City
Engraving Co.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

C The largest specialists in College Engravings in the country.

COLLEGE NEWS

Prof S H Derickson

1-10-11

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume II.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, December 20, 1910

No. 13

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Biological Field Club

Last Wednesday evening the Biological Field Club rendered its program for the month of December, in the lecture room of the Biological department.

Chester E. Rettew, reported some accurate and interesting observations on the habits of ants, which he collected during the summer months.

Miss Carrie Light read a well prepared paper relating to the effect of temperature on the germination of seeds.

Charles H. Arndt gave the club the life history, economic value and other facts concerning the bumble-bee.

Albert Barnhart, read a splendid paper on the different methods of fertilization among plants.

The program was one of the best the Club rendered this year. Every person should avail himself of the opportunity and become a member of this organization.

Following the program officers were elected for the succeeding year. They are: President, J. F. Reed; Vice President, Miss Carrie Light; Secretary, Miss Edna Yarkers; Treasurer, Prof. S. H. Derickson.

Mathematical Round Table

The Mathematical Round Table held its regular monthly meeting in Professor Lehman's Recitation Rooms, on Wednesday evening. Greater interest and enthusiasm was manifested in this meeting than in any previous one held this year.

Paul Loser read an interesting Biography of Kepler. He pointed out the importance of Kepler's work as a foundation for the work of later mathematicians and scientists.

"The Preparation Necessary for a Teacher in Secondary Schools" was presented by Miss Edna Kilmer. The standard she set was a high one, but no one present thought that it should be lowered in the least.

Jesse Reed demonstrated five methods, not usually found in textbooks, of proving the Pythagorean Proposition. This is one of the most interesting propositions in Mathematics, as there are nearly fifty methods of proof.

The members of the Round Table were glad to see so many visitors present and extend to them a hearty invitation to come again.

Star Course

The Star Course committee offer as their next attraction, The Dudley Buck Concert Company.

They will present "A Musical Review consisting of Grand Opera Selections, Sacred Numbers, Special songs in Costume, Ladies Quartete, Duets and Trios including Baritone, and Southern Melodies with Banjo and Guitar Accompaniment.

The personnel of their company is excellent, every member being an artist. They have been well trained by the Famous Dudley Buck Jr., and will certainly give us a fine musical treat for the newyear. Don't forget the date, nor fail to be present at the Engle Hall January 5, 1911. Admission 35 cent's Reserved Seats 10 cents extra.

Ministerial Association

The last ministerial meeting for the old year was held on Thursday evening at the home of P. F. Roberts, and was very well attended. Routine business was transacted, and one new member was admitted to the Association, making an enrollment of twenty-two active members. Prof. A. E. Shroyer read a very interesting paper on "The hired Evangelist and the Pastor." The paper was much appreciated and a lively discussion followed.

Calendar.

December 22 to January 4—Vacation.

Thursday, January 5, 8 p. m.—Star Course.

Friday, January 6, 7:15 p. m.—Literary Societies.

Sunday, January 10, 1 p. m.—Christian Associations.

Alumni

The home of Supt. J. H. Reber Ph. D. '95, of the Waynesboro public schools, was saddened by the death of their eleven year old daughter, Helen, from diphtheria, on the morning of Dec. 7th.

A. Louise Kreider, '08, Conservatory, a student at Wells College, Aurora, N. Y. returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Kreider, on Friday, to spend her Christmas vacation. Miss Frost, a classmate of Miss Kreider, will be her guest over the holidays.

Elizabeth Meckley, '09, academy and Myrtle Garret, '10, both of Hummelstown, attended the meeting of the Clonian Literary Society on Friday evening.

Mr. Fred S. Smith, '10, Conservatory, director of the Conservatory of Sugar Grove Seminary, is spending several days with friends, at the college, prior to returning to his home at Chambersburg.

Stanley R. Oldham, '08, an instructor in Bates College, Maine, will arrive on Saturday, Dec. 24, to spend the holidays with friends here.

Max F. Lehman, '07, an instructor at Lafayette College is home for his Christmas vacation.

Continued on page 2

College News

Issued weekly during the College Year by the students of Lebanon Valley College

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

P. R. KOONTZ, '11

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

W. A. BRUNNER, '11

E. A. SPESSARD, '11

DEPARTMENT EDITORS

W. O. ELLIS, '11

F. R. KENNEDY, '12

CATHARINE E. HERSHY, '12

HELEN L. WEIDLER, '12

S. O. GRIMM, '12

BUSINESS MANAGER

W. A. BRUNNER, '11,

ASS'T. BUSINESS MANAGERS

OLIVER BUTTERWICK '12

PAUL LOSER, '13

Subscription Price $1.00 per year

Single Copies 5 cts.

Clubs of ten, 75 cts.

Address all business communications to W. A. BRUNNER, Box 916, all other matter to Room 19, Administration Building Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa.

Editorial

Owing to the Christmas vacation the next number of the College News will appear January 10, 1911. The 'NEWS' extends to all subscribers, and friends its heartiest wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Has the past season of athletics been a failure? This question may be answered in two ways. To those who are not intimately acquainted with the situation and hence cannot understand the real causes, the immediate results must be far from satisfactory. When the true facts in the case are considered however the worst features are to a certain extent smoothed over.

It is true that some of the greatest victories in history have been preceded by conditions, which from any immediate conclusion would have presaged utter defeat. We must bear in mind that Appomattox was the conclusion of the struggle in which Bull Run was the beginning, and yet after Bull Run all the way to Appomattox the hearts of many brave men were utterly dejected, nor were they to blame. Some men, however could see thru the clouds of smoke and beheld a glorious vision. As the days passed the number of these men increased. The defeats caused the true lines of battle to be drawn, the true nature of the conflict upon all, and a spirit of strongest downward determination swept the arms of our nation to victory. Without the dark struggle the final victory would lose much of its glory.

The greatest crisis in the history of our athletic circles is now on. Some of our best men are discouraged and from their view point they have just cause so to be. But there are some features of our situation that are most gratifying. We have a new constitution which promises to become most useful in giving all our athletics a definite and approved status. The intense feeling aroused by our recent season has turned the eyes of those men who are in a position to remedy matters in the proper direction. All see that without athletics our institution must fail and that to have a successful season we must have the hearty co-operation of the President, faculty and student body.

True lines of battle are being drawn. Sentiment is rapidly crystallizing in such a manner that in the very near future every one connected with our institution will be compelled to take a definite position, and in spite of supposed sympathies and good wishes either take a firm stand for athletics or bring upon his acts the censure and condemnation that they would so justly deserve. In this case the censure will not be the voice of the student body, alone, but the expression of those who have the power to act as well as criticize.

To attempt to build up a progressive college without in the least considering the vital question of athletics or at the very most, relegating them to the last place on the program is a policy that is sure to bring final ruin. The day for conservatism is past and the day for hearty co-operation of the alumni, authorities and student body at hand. Shall we take advantage of the present crisis and form a definite aggressive athletic policy for our college, our Alma Mater or shall we stand idly by and let our very indifference bring about our final destruction?

Let every one who has the welfare of Lebanon Valley at heart act on this most momentous question.

Notice to Subscribers

Please examine the label on your "News" and if the term of subscriptions expires with this issue kindly renew it immediately. Your name will not be taken from the list unless you order it so. We thank you for your past favors and trust that they may continue.

We thank all who have in any way contributed to its success. Your suggestions have been kindly received, your words of encouragement have lessened our burdens and helped us to make the News a success. As we enter on the new year we do so with a determination to lend our assistance to any project that tends to elevate our institution and to fearlessly attack all measures that tend to cripple or in any way limit its sphere of usefulness.

Keep in touch with the College. Subscribers for the News.

ALUMNI NOTES

Continued from page 1

Mr. Deleth E. Weidler, '09, of Anderson, Ind will spend Christmas, at the home of his uncle A. B. Weidler, at Mexico, Missouri.

J. C. Strock, '10, a teacher in the St. Charles Military Academy, St. Charles, Mo. has been commissioned major by the state government. Maj. Strock will spend his vacation at the home of his mother in Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Edith N. Freed, '10, of Hawley, Pa., will arrive on Saturday Dec. 24, to spend Christmas at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nissley of Hershey

Mr. George N. Hoffer, '09, an instructor in Biology, at Purdue University, will spend his vacation at his home in Hummelstown.

Oratory Recital

The first Oratory recital under the new director of the department, Miss May Belle Adams, will be given early in the winter term. The recital will consist largely of single readings to be given by members of the department. No exact date has been set, rendition of this program as near Jan. 12, as possible.

SOCIETY PROGRAMS

CLIONIAN

"JULIUS CAESAR"

Piano solo, Sara Strickler; Review of Julius Caesar, Lottie Spessard; Reading, Helen Weidler; Act I, Scenes I and II, Misses Snyder, Yarkers, McCurdy, Klauser, and Smith; Vocal Duet, Ora Bachman, Edith Gingrich; Act I, Scene III, Misses Smith, Yarkers, Klauser, and Brightbill; Piano Duet, Anna Fry Katie Gingrich; Olive Branch, Editor.

PHILOKOSMIAN

Current News, D. Ellis Zimmeman; Present Political Conditions in England, P. R. Koontz; Debate: Resolved that railway rates should be raised, Affirmative H. Kreider, Amos Weigle, Negative C. C. Smith, G. A. Richie; Vocal Solo, L. A. Rodes; Tolstoi: "His Works", W. C. Shoop; Living Thoughts, Editor.

KALOZETEAN

Happenings of the week, James Miller; Original Story, Clyde Eby; Chorus, Society; Debate: Resolved that Government ownership of all transportation Companies is better than by Independent Monopolies, Affirmative, H. E. Snavely, —————— Negative, Charles Ulrich, Frank Shearer; Autobiography, Victor M. Heffelfinger; Examiner by the Editor, William Dunlap; Chorus, Society.

Officers Installed

KALOZETEAN

At a recent business meeting of the society the following officers were elected: President, F. L. Frost; Vice President, C. E. Rettew; Recording Secretary, J. W. Ischy; Corresponding Secretary, H. E. Snavely; Critic, W. O. Ellis; Pianist, Paul Strickler, Editor, William Dunlap; Sergeant-at-arms, Carl Schmidt; Assistant Sergeant-at-arms, Mason Long.

CLIONIAN

President, Verda Snyder; Vice President, Helen Weidler; Rec. Secretary, Lottie Spessard; Cor. Secretary, Vera Myers; Critic, Edna Kilmer; Editor, Florence Clippinger; Pianist, Ora Bachman; Chaplain Lizzie Lau; Judges, Grace Smith, Kathryn Clauser.

Missionary Meeting

JOINT SESSION OF THE Y. M.
AND Y. W. C. A.

On Sunday afternoon we were pleased to have Miss Brown address the meeting. Miss Brown is a Traveling Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement. She showed in a very interesting manner the great world movements that are taking place today.

She told us of the great meetings that are being held in all parts of the world and their significance to us as a Christian people.

She quoted from many great men of world wide fame to show the importance of Missions. Kings and Emperors, Presidents and the greatest leaders of the world today realize the great good that Missions will accomplish.

Miss Brown contrasted very well the intense interest that many Chinese and other non-Christian people take in the Christian religion, as compared with many in our land.

She set the scarcity of the workmen in comparison to the magnitude of the task, quoting statistics to prove her case. Her illustrations of the great resources of these non-Christian people were very apt and startling.

The leader pointed out two great crises that gave to the twentieth century a certain individuality.

The great awakening at home in the cause of missions, and the interest in foreign missions.

She showed the crowded condition of the field at home, the need and smallness of the number of the workers in the foreign fields and the practical nature of this work with the large field ready for the harvest. The challenge was given to all Christian students to awaken to the full realization of their responsibilities.

To take a greater interest in cause, because of the practicality of this movement and the critical nature of the present crisis.

In conclusion, Miss Brown illustrated the requirements of the present situation by a story. By means she showed that it was not scepticism, dogmatism or emotionalism, but practical methods that will solve this great issue. Every one present was intensely interested in her talk.

Miss Brown practises what she preaches for she will soon go to China in obedience to the Divine command "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations."

Mission Class Entertained

On Saturday evening, Mrs. Keister very pleasantly entertained the Mission Study Class of the Y. W. C. A.

This class has been devoting its time, during the fall term, to a careful study of South America.

Mrs. Keister, as leader of the class, has made the work very interesting and instructive.

A portion of Saturday evening, was given to a brief summary of the work covered, after which a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

The New Reading Room

The members of the Y. W. C. A. have recently opened a reading room on the third floor of the Ladies Dormitory. Contributions in the line of books or furnishings will be gratefully received. The room will be open all the time and it is desired that the girls make good use of it.

Items of Interest

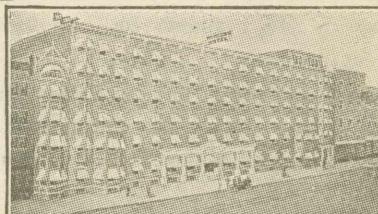

The Christmas vacation begins on Thursday morning Dec. 22 at 7:45 o'clock and ends Wednesday morning January 4 at 8:45 o'clock. Let all students bear this date in mind and be on hand for classes, as the success

WINDSOR HOTEL

W. T. BRUBAKER, Manager.

European, $1.00 per day and up

American, $2.50 per day and up

Midway between Broad Street Station and Reading Terminal on Filbert Street.

The only moderate priced hotel of

reputation and consequence in

PHILADELPHIA

COLLEGE NEWS

of a term's work depends largely on the beginning.

P. R. Koontz visited at his home in West Fairview over Saturday and Sunday.

D. E. Young filled the pulpit of the Hebron U. B. Church on Sunday morning. Rev. O. T. Ehrhart is pastor of this church.

Rev. Mark Wert is contemplating the renewal of his studies at the college at the opening of the next term.

Messrs. John Lehman, '11, Edward Marshall, '11, Roger Saylor, '11, C. C. Smith, '12, and Earle Carmany, '12, were royally entertained by Forrest Hensel at his home in Lykens on last Friday evening. The boys all did justice to the fine turkey supper that Mr. Hensel's mother had prepared for them.

Florence Roland who has been pursuing a course at the Conservatory, returned to her home at Reading on Monday.

Vera Meyers left for her home at Longsdorf, Cumberland county, last Saturday to spend the Christmas vacation.

New classes in Missions and Bible Study will be started the beginning of the next term by the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. will take up Bible Study to replace the Mission Study just closed. A large attendance at these classes is desired.

Quite a large number of our students have taken advantage of the splendid coasting on Cemetery hill the past week. The brilliant moonlight helped to make this an ideal sport.

Mr. Max Wingerd ex '12, and a present student in Washington and Jefferson spent a few days with friends at the college.

Miss Morrison, '14, returned to her home in Mt. Pleasant Pa., on last Friday.

Mr. Ivan Potter left on Friday for Long Island City. Mr. Potter is interested in examinations for city school work.

Mr. Ressler, left for the holidays on Friday. Mr. Kiester is spending some time with him.

Samuel Plummer, '12, and Claude Reddick, '14, made a business trip to Lebanon last Saturday evening.

Lebanon Valley College

First Class Faculty.

Group System.

Special Facilities in Chemistry and Biology

Music, Art, Oratory

Ladies in the Hall are under the constant care of the Preceptress.

Write for catalogue

Rev. Lawrence Kiester, Pres.
Annville, Pa.

Have Your Printing Done by

The Journal Publishing Co.
ANNVILLE, PA.

When You Want THE BETTER GRADE

Frederick W. Light
826 Cumberland Street
Lebanon, Pa.

Representing
Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
Of Milwaukee, Wis.

CHRISTY-“NIFTY”
POST CARDS

Stock from New York and Paris

H. E. SPESSARD'S BOOK STORE

Journal Building
ANNVILLE, PA.

Annville National Bank

Capital	- -	$100,000.00
Surplus and Undivided Profits	- -	122,000.00
Deposits	- -	400,000.00
Resources	- -	680,000.00

3 Per Cent. Paid on Special Deposits

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
ESTABLISHED 1824
SCHOOL of ENGINEERING
Civil, Mechanical, Electrical
TROY, N.Y.
Send for a Catalogue.

You are correct if you get your
LADIES' and GENTS'
FURNISHINGS

At KINPORTS', Annville, Pa.
Students' Discount
Packard & Radcliffe Shoes

Standard Steam Laundry and
Scouring Works
A. F. Ward '90 Proprietor

27 N. Seventh St. Lebanon Pa.
Represented at College

C Full line of College Post Cards, Writing Papers, Envelopes, Tablets, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Pictures, Pennants, Box Paper, Photopaste. Also Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

D. B. SHIFFER
WEST MAIN STREET ANNVILLE, PA

The CHAS. H. ELLIOTT COMPANY

The Largest College Engraving House in the World

Commencement Invitations
Class Day Programs and
Class Pins

Dance Programs
and Invitations
Menus
Leather Dance
Cases and Covers

Fraternity
and Class Inserts
for Annuals
Fraternity
and Class
Stationery

Wedding Invitations and Calling Cards
WORKS—17th STREET and LEHIGH
AVENUE Philadelphia.

Represented at L. V. C. by
W. ALBERT BRUNNER

Kodaks, Cameras
and Supplies

Printing and Developing for Amateurs

HARPEL'S ART STORE
Lebanon, Pa.

Learn Wireless & R. R. Telegraphy

Shortage of fully 10,000 Operators on account of 8-hour law and extensive “wireless” developments. We operate under direct supervision on Telegraph Officials and positively place all students, when qualified. Write for catalogue.

Nat'l Telegraph Institute

Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Memphis, Davenport
Ia., Columbia, S. C., Portland, Ore.

The Electric City
Engraving Co.
BUFFALO, N. Y.

C The largest specialists in College Engravings in the country.